FRESHIE

Off from all his friends and loved ones,
 Freshie dear did stroll;
 Felt forlorn, no friend or brother,
 Out upon the campus cold.
 Looked up at the College buildings,—
 Then he had a chill,
 Longed for early scenes of childhood
 And the old time thrill.

“But really, I can’t linger longer,
 Classes have been called;”
 And with grave determination
 Entered he the classic halls.
 Then so’s not to seem embarrassed
 Plunged he right ahead;
 Asked a bald and learn-ed SENIOR:
 “Are you the College head?”

Senior fondly stroked his mustache,
 Hiding thus a smile.
 And in manner most imposing
 His real self he did disguise,
 Saying kindly, “What’s your average?
 Must be ninety-five or more,
 If not, take examinations”—
 Pointing to an open door.

And that poor benighted Freshie
 Stayed there until dark,
 Waiting for examinations,
 Senior, what a lark!
 But the next day, nothing daunting
 Freshie did appear
 Steeled against the fiery onslaught,
 Showing not a sign of fear.

JUNIOR beamed on him so warmly,
 Met him with a smile.
 Said: “My friend, you’ve been invited
 To a game of ball.
 School has closed for the occasion,
 Everyone has gone.”
 And susceptible Freshie
 Simply up and ran.

For he could not miss a ball game,
 That, was part of life.
 But he vowed on his returning,
 “That was cause for fight.
 College is a place of learning,
 And I haven’t come
 To be April-fooled forever
 From the dawn ’till setting sun.

T T T

’S all right, Freshie, the first hundred years are always the hardest.

OH BOY!!!
 LOOKIT!!

The terrible Soph, he smites his chest
 And loudly does he cough;
 The College shakes from door to door
 And half the shelves fall off;
 And when he clears his throat, the sound
 Like distant thunder rolls;
 And the College car in horrible fright
 Runs off and hides in a hole.
 He sneezes a sneeze—the stove grows cold—
 The window panes fall out—

NOTE:—The traditional warfare between the restless Freshmen and the fighting Sophomores, after many sensational skirmishes about the halls and grounds, culminated in the terrible battle of College Campus, fought in a blinding rainstorm on the morning of October 5. This battle will go down in history as one of the most bitterly contested that has ever taken place. The Class of Twenty-Three came out of the mud victorious and stands today as an organization whose banner has never known defeat.—But turn to the Sophomore and Freshman write-ups, flaming with the spirit of dauntless courage and daring love of college tradition. Don’t miss them.

On the morrow he'd be wiser.
 Back again at school
 Went directly to the office
 To make out his 'sced-ul;"
 Went quite boldly into classes
 SOPH'S were there ahead,
 Told him that the Freshie classes
 Were picnicing instead.
 That he need not take a morsel
 Everything was there;
 They had gone to Point Defiance
 Which was but a ten cent fare.
 Then those higher college students,
 Freshies of last year,
 Raised a laugh both long and hearty
 As he fled adown the stair.

"What, oh what will be expected
 When we to the chapel go?"
 Asked some new and untried Freshmen,
 What they heard 'most turned them cold,
 For those C. P. S. girl students
 Made them think they'd have to preach,
 From a text to be assigned them
 After they were on their feet.

Yes, it's hard, our dear kind Freshie,
 And it surely is a fright.
 But some day, oh don't forget it,
 You can play a game of spite.
 Freshman days will soon be over,
 Though they seem unending quite,
 Then you'll have a chance to show how
 Former pranks were quite POLITE.

—HELEN MONROE.

SENSATIONS ABOVE THE CLOUDS

BY CHARLES BRADY

In my subject of sensations above the clouds, I will not deal with flying, for my sentiments are much like those of the fellow who said he did not care how far he went up in the air as long as he could keep one foot on the ground. I feel the same way only I want both feet on the ground.

One very warm and drowsy afternoon I took my fish pole and went to a neighboring pond where I could spend the afternoon in peace. I sat under a large maple tree and soon fell asleep. I must have been dreaming for I well recollect journeying up a steep path to the Celestial Gates, where old St. Peter stood all robed in white. He seemed to be having a lot of trouble about something. I went up closer to see what the trouble was, and to my astonishment I saw Prof. Slater. He had handed St. Peter his passport and Peter refused to accept it because of some records he had in his book. After some discussion, I learned that the chief trouble was that the professor had by unfair means inveigled an unsuspecting cat into his laboratory and then seized it, fed it ether and used its carcass to haunt the physiology students.

So long did they wrangle and quarrel that they did not notice me, so I passed unnoticed inside the gate. Everything looked pretty good to me—all in white and gold and diamonds. Then suddenly I heard some beautiful music and after finding the place from whence it came I went over to see who was playing. It was Prof. Dunlap, all robed in white and playing upon a golden harp! At first, I thought I would talk to him. Then I remembered how I had come thru the gate, so I decided to look around. I began crawling on my hands and knees around some bushes, and I ran right into Ralph Corey and Frank Brooks, both crawling around the same bush. Of course we were all surprised, and on my inquiry, I found that they had sneaked thru the gate the same way I did. We all decided to crawl around together. Hearing familiar voices around some loganberry and blackberry bushes, we parted the bushes, and out stepped Irish and Billy Jones. They too were robed in white but did not have any wings. They were carrying some pails and were picking berries. They were greatly surprised to see us and when we questioned them about some of the rest of the girls they immediately began to shed great tears. They said that they were the only dormitory girls that got thru the gates, and they were only on condition. If they proved all right they would get their wings, but the slightest evidence of misbehavior, they would have to change their boarding place.

Soon we heard heavy footsteps and the girls quickly ran away, but before we could get away a figure stood before us. It was Douglas Bowman. He was Official Ground Keeper. How he had gained his admittance, he refused to tell us, but you who know him can draw your own conclusions. Bowman had always been noted for being a good fellow so we told him our troubles. He said that if we could get a robe, some wings, and a harp, we could not be distinguished from the other members. He also told us that Ernest Clay was head of the Commissary Department and maybe he could tell us how to get our outfit. As we were talking, Russel Clay came hurrying up, for he was carrying papers to the Older Saints and had quite a big paper route. But he took time to tell us to be sure to get wings that fit well. He said that he had been forced to get his in the dark, and they did not fit him at all.

So we made our ways over to the Commissary. It was slow work for Fred Herzog was head of the Police Department and was ever on the watch. We finally reached the right place, and had very little trouble in the robe department. After some trouble we picked out wings, but as we entered the room where the harps were kept we heard strange noises and when the lights were suddenly flashed on, we saw Harris, Vaughn, Rosa Perkins, and Gladys Harding, all looking for wings. They evidently knew the best way out, for they were gone in an instant. We were quickly making our "get-away," when we were seized by rough hands, for the ever watchful Fred had been attracted by the light and had summoned his police force and captured us.

We were led to the gate. What became of Brooks and Corey I never knew, but I was taken out on a large cloud and kicked off. I fell several thousand miles and looking down I saw I was headed for a large body of water. Soon there was a loud splash.

I awoke suddenly, for I had fallen into the pond.

Plans for the Campaign

By Dr. Todd

IT is always interesting to know what foundations have been laid for the development of a financial campaign such as is proposed for the College of Puget Sound. The vary necessary basis was laid in the completion of the campaign for $500,000 in the city of Tacoma. The basis was not simply composed of the subscriptions which were taken. The Student Body became enthusiastic over the prospects of A GREATER COLLEGE OF PUGET SOUND, and played a very important part during two days of the intensive campaign last May. Thousands of dollars were subscribed by the students, and other thousands were secured through their efforts.

The citizens became aware of the presence of a Student Body, and the possibilities and program of the College of Puget Sound. The successful completion of the campaign brought confidence to the citizens that what Tacoma needed, she could have, because she would provide the substance for it. The consumation has been a much better popular standing of the College in the city.

The acceptance of the challenge to the city made by the Puget Sound Annual Conference placed the Conference under the necessity of backing up its challenge, which it gladly did. Bishop Shepard, who had lately arrived on the field, was enthusiastic in his support of the program. The Conference rallied to his leadership, and enthusiastically authorized the appointment of a Committee on Campaign.

The challenge of the city of Tacoma, when carried to the Columbia River Conference, aroused a large measure of enthusiasm for the College. While this Conference has a program on for its hospitals, it authorized a committee to consult with the College authorities on "Plans and Developments" for the Campaign. It is hardly probable that a thoroughly organized campaign can be put on in Eastern Washington. There is no doubt, however, that the Committee appointed by this Conference will adopt some plans whereby the Methodists of Eastern Washington may be approached to assist in this great undertaking to establish firmly this Christian College.

Another interesting element is, that the Board of Education of the Methodist Church has interested itself, through its financial department, in the organization and promotion of this campaign. It will provide some expert workers and councilors. These will be large factors in the completion of the program.

The General Board of Education, Rockefeller Foundation, has not yet made any pledge to this fund. It has, however, made an appropriation to the current expenses of the College for this present and the succeeding year, thus helping to bear the burden of maintaining the College while it is in the campaign. It also placed its seal of approval on the College at this time.

For the present, Dr. Todd will be in charge of the campaign. He has as his helper, the Reverend Charles P. Johnson, who was recently elected Corresponding Secretary. He has had college and graduate preparation, and has had much experience in meeting men and raising money. The Reverend Roy L. Sprague is on the staff as Assistant Corresponding Secretary. He was in the office, and one of the active workers during the campaign in Tacoma, and brings experience as well as ability into the campaign. Mrs. Mae Baker Berryman is Executive Secretary, and is at the present time in charge of the office. She was Office Secretary during the Tacoma campaign, and has had large campaign experience in other sections of the country.

Men and women whose lives have been blessed with the instincts and skill in accumulating wealth, and who are seeking investments in young life, will be found. Thousands will contribute smaller sums to make the great total. That will be a meaningful day when there is a well established privately endowed College of Liberal Arts and Sciences in Western Washington.

No one can help someone, or something, to be greater without becoming greater himself. One keeps getting closer to great things and people, and some day he finds himself bearing a great many's burden.

FINANCIAL HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

Since the present school year is to see the final effort to complete the one million-dollar campaign, started over a year ago, it is appropriate to have a brief history of the financial progress of the College.

The University of Puget Sound was organized in June, 1903. Dr. Edwin M. Randall was elected President. In order to provide for maintenance, the "share fund" subscription was inaugurated. These subscriptions were made payable in five annual installments. About $20,000 was thus subscribed to start the new institution.

The present main building was finished in October 1903. It cost about $22,000 and was paid for, in most part, by contributions of Tacoma citizens. Thus the school was financially launched.

In May, 1904, Dr. Randall was elected Secretary of the Epworth League. Professor C. O. Boyer, the Vice-President, who had held the position of Acting-president in the old Puget Sound University, severed his connection with the School. It was a severe handicap for both of these men to leave at the same time.

Dr. Joseph E. Williams was elected President. At the close of his first year it was quite apparent that some one should be chosen to take the financial responsibility of the University. Dr. Edward H. Todd, then pastor of Epworth Church, Tacoma, was elected Corresponding Secretary in September, 1905, and continued with the University for four years.

In 1907, President Williams retired and Professor L. L. Benbow, Superintendent of Schools in Pierce County, was made Acting-president. At the close of the first year he was elected President. It was during his incumbency of two years that the chapel and the men's dormitory were built, and the women's dormitory was enlarged. Under his inspiration the students had erected a gymnasium. He and Dr. Todd resigned in the Spring of 1909.

Dr. Julius C. Zeller succeeded to the office of President that fall. It was in September, 1912, that Mr. James J. Hill, under the solicitation of President Zeller and Mr. E. L. Blaine, made his offer of $50,000 on endowment, if $200,000 additional could be raised. This was to be accomplished by October 1, 1914. President Zeller set about the task of raising the necessary funds. By the fall of 1913, with the help of Dr. J. W. Walker and Rev. J. W. Miller, as field men, about $110,000 had been subscribed. This included Mr. Hill's offer of $50,000. The endowment was certainly needed, for current expenses were badly in arrears.

It was in this crisis that the President resigned and the Board of Trustees was compelled to secure a new President. A further handicap fell upon the institution when the gymnasium burned, with a loss of about ten thousand dollars, and only four thousand dollars of insurance to offset the loss. This left the Departments of Home Economics and Athletics without a home and added much to the burden and the discouragement.

The Trustees met and without consulting Dr. Edward H. Todd, who was then Vice-president of Willamette University, elected him President of the College. He accepted the position on the condition that the Trustees would adopt the program of securing one million dollars more inside of the following ten years.

The Puget Sound Annual Conference was called upon to help face the situation, and met it with heroic treatment. The Conference apportioned an amount equal to one dollar per member to the churches each year for a period of four years. This money was to be expended on maintenance and payment of debt. The members of the Conference subscribed some ten thousand dollars toward endowment.

Dr. Todd adopted a "pay as you go" policy. A budget system was presented to the Trustees and was accepted. By the Spring of 1914 some of the indebtedness had been paid and by shifting of the load all the back salaries and the balance of the indebtedness had been adjusted. Professors have been paid each month and their salaries have been steadily advanced until they are now from 40% to 115% above what they were seven years ago.

The Hill endowment campaign was the great task. The President found that it would be possible to finish it by October 1, 1914 and upon request, Mr. Hill very graciously extended the time one year. The President took the field and began the work. He secured the help of Dr. John W. Hancher (who was not then with the Board of Education) to assist him during the intensive drive of ten days. Tacoma citizens subscribed $100,000, or one-half the amount necessary to secure Mr. Hill's gift. On October 1, 1915, there was an over-subscription of the $200,000 of about $22,000. The following March Mr. Hill paid his money to the Northwestern Trust Company in St. Paul, to be held in trust for five years. At that time the College was required to report $200,000 collected and invested.

There is now nearly $260,000 of productive endowment owned by the College. There is more than $100,000 in additional endowment in subscription notes and other properties. It should be noted that the name of the Institution was changed to the College of Puget Sound in 1914, and the academic organization was brought into harmony with the new name.

In February, 1919, Mr. E. S. Collins, a friend of the Christian College, and a special friend of the College of Puget Sound, pledged $100,000 on condition that $1,000,000 be raised. This challenge started the present campaign.

In the fall of 1919 the Puget Sound Annual Conference pledged itself to raise one-half-million dollars, providing Pierce County and Tacoma would raise $500,000. This proposition was accepted by the citizens of Tacoma. The Citizens College Campaign Committee was organized and the half-million dollars was raised by the spring of 1920. Dr. Horace J. Whitacre, a prominent surgeon, who had held the rank of Major in the United States Army overseas, accepted the Chairmanship of the Committee. Under his leadership, with the assistance of the President, and Mr. F. D. Empey as Campaign Manager, and the generous support of the citizens of Tacoma the amount was raised. It was a hard fought battle, and one of the outstanding victories in college campaigns throughout the country.

Maroon and White forever!

T T T

Vanquish Willamette!

It was just seven years, almost to a day, after the midnight experience just previous to the Hill Endowment Campaign that the Puget Sound Annual Conference held another session in Olympia and heard the report of the success of the campaign in Tacoma. It promptly authorized the organization of a Campaign Committee to raise the second unit of one-half-million dollars.

The members of this Committee are:

Ex-Officio:—

Bishop Wm. O. Shepard

Dr. A. L. Howard

President Edward H. Todd

Corresponding Secretary, Chas. P. Johnson

Dr. J. M. Canse

Dr. George A. Landen

Dr. D. Roland Martin

Dr. Everett M. Hill

Ministers appointed:—

Dr. Edwin M. Randall

Dr. James E. Crowther

Dr. George W. Frame

Dr. R. H. Schuett

Laymen appointed:—

Mr. J. R. Wilkinson

Mr. E. L. Blaine

Mr. H. N. Tinker

Mr. F. A. Hazeltine.

This Committee met on September 21 at the Commercial Club in Tacoma and took the necessary steps in the organization of the Campaign. The Board of Education of the Methodist Church will give active assistance through its Financial Campaign Department.

It should be stated that the Trustees have adopted the program of securing $2,000,000—of which this $1,000,000 is the first half,—during the next five years. This is in harmony with the survey made of the College by the Board of Education. The program is large. The task is great. But it is not impossible.

In closing this short history it should be stated that a new campus of about forty acres has been purchased. It is in a central location, surrounded by a residential section. This will provide an adequate field in which may be erected the finest of buildings.

A Greater College of Puget Sound is inevitable. A great building program is being evolved and construction will begin in not a far distant future. A great program is on and there is need for everyone to do something to help it to a swift and complete fulfillment.

REV. JOHNSON STARTS FOR NEW POSITION IN TACOMA

(From the "Polk County Observer," Dallas Oregon, Sept. 23.)

"Rev. Johnson who has been pastor of the Dallas Methodist Church for the past three years left Monday for Tacoma where he assumes the duties of corresponding secretary of the Greater College of Puget Sound. He is sure to make good in the new position. The confidence placed in him is based upon the good work the Rev. Johnson has done while in Dallas. His worthy ambitions were not satisfied with building up a fine congregation but he had gone on to arrange for the construction of a splendid new church."

Students, meet our new Corresponding Secretary. Rev. Johnson was raised in Des Moines, Iowa. He graduated from Iowa State College in 1896 and then taught high school in Des Moines for three years. He did post-graduate work at Chicago University and attended Garrett Biblical Institute for some three years. While a student there he was pastor in the Institutional Church. He has been Associate pastor of the First Church, Chicago, and also held pastorates in Des Moines, Iowa, and at Gooding, Idaho. At the latter place he was actively engaged in the founding of Gooding College.

Rev. Johnson's deeds speak for him. The Greater College of Puget Sound has added to its staff a builder, a pioneer, a man of vision, strength and initiative.

OUR DEBT

BY EARL BROWN

THERE is strong reason to believe that man is not in any sense sufficient unto himself. A good or a lasting benefit will not radiate from the isolated life. Man is not independent of society from any point of view. His thought and his daily life, every moment of his existence is an unpaid and unpayable debt to his fellow men. What he is now and what the future will bring to him depends upon his treatment of the society and environment in which he lives. Every man is a pensioner in a world where all things are associated with all things else, in such a way, that a man could not return the services rendered him tho he labored through the eons of eternity. Every being that exists is a sharer in the divine economy. Man in himself is insufficient for, he must give in order to receive; he must serve in order to be served. Man is not sufficient unto himself, for every man was, at the inception, essential to the plan. The message of a savior resounds with this cry of unity and service. Paradoxical as it may seem, a man is least sufficient to himself, when he serves no one but himself. People who live secluded lives are living in an unconscious way; they live unknowingly. But let a man realize the far reaching effects of this eternal cosmic debt, and every little act of his life will return a lasting benefit.

"We Have Been Referred to You---"

By Dean Cunningham

PRACTICALLY any college administrator could finish the above sentence without a moment's hesitation. Completed, it reads: "We have been referred to you by Mr. John Blank, as one who can give us an intelligent estimate of him as a candidate for a position with us."

In other words, every college graduate at one time or another refers back to his college for letters of recommendation; or refers others back for information, that will enable him to secure the place which he is coveting.

This is not unjust. It is not evidence that one must have a pull to succeed. It is society's way of protecting itself against the incompetent.

The man you now ask to vouch for you, had to have some one vouch for him before he was accepted; and the man who backed him was himself backed years before. And so on down the past. The world is slow to take a person into a position of trust or power or influence, until it has the assurance of men in position to know and make proper evaluations, that he is a fit person to trust, or hand authority over to, or to put where he can make or mar lives.

Hence this article. You will want your college to recommend you; or whether you desire it or not men who can advance you will be referring back to college to see whether you are the person they want.

Accordingly it is only fair to you, to know and ponder certain facts now while you have your college record yet to make; rather than to find them out after the record is already made, and when a poor one would be the cause of your rejection.

1. The first thing to think about is that the people who will recommend you will be honest. They have had to ask for letter, and know what it would have meant had someone knifed them. Therefore they won't knife you.

But they are honest. And this prevents their praising you if you don't deserve praise. If they should do this, they would be knifing themselves and their college as well. For would it not show lack of judgment, and would it not hurt the school? A good recommendation might put a poor applicant across once; but the executive would be wary of going to such a school for another applicant.

So let it sink into the frontal lobe of your left cerebral hemisphere that the person to whom you will refer for recommendation does not have it in for you; but also, that he has his own sense of honor, and the standing of the school, to consider.

2. Also consider this: The man you will refer back to likely wants to do all the good he can in the world. And he knows that if he recommends a poor teacher for a good job he will not only help cripple a school, but he will have helped place a handicap on the life of every student affected by the misfit teacher. He knows that if he recommends a poor preacher to a good church, he will help make the criticism true that the church is losing out these days. He knows that if he recommends an inefficient medical student, he may contribute to the maiming, or suffering, or death, of many innocent people. And such things, no good man wants to do.

On the other hand, if he knows he has a good man for a good place, nothing gives him greater joy than to realize he has been the instrument in putting a worthy man at work on a worth-while task. He would much rather write a letter of praise than one of doubt.

3. Perhaps the most important thing for you to remember is that now—every day—you are making the record that will follow you about. The first element of this record is your general attitude about college. You are not being watched; that is not done in college. But if you sulk; if you sneer at suggestions; if you make yourself an exception and complicate the problem of college control; all this will be discovered.

The next is the character force you convince people you have. By your contact with others you are revealing yourself. What do you reveal? Do you impress folks as being sincere, straightforward, reliable?

And of course there are your grades. Most executives want to know where you stood in scholarship. What shall be told them? That, of course, is up to you; for any one recommending you simply gets the information you have given your teachers to put on the Registrar's books.

Conclusion: Never expect a man to be dishonest for you. If he should falsify your record to make it good, while thus trying to help you he would be hurting the man hiring you. Since you made the record, if it is likely to hurt anyone, shouldn't that one be you? If you want your recommender to boost you, begin now to put some good material in his hands to do it with.

H. C. S.

By F. L.

H. C. S. got a late start this year and our first regular program was not held until Monday, October 11. However, we are in full swing now and with Tom Swayze back we are getting down to work.

H. C. S. is going to put in the claim of having had more men in the hospital during the past few months than any other society. We hope none are unlucky enough to dispute us.

Something new in the line of programs will be tried out this year. Different members of the society will be given one night during the year to prepare a speech on some subject in which he is interested. This will take up the entire evening. On other nights the program committee plans to have outsiders come to our meetings and address us on different vital questions. Besides this we will have our lighter programs in which all members take a part.

Three of our former members are now attending Columbia University and one is at Willamette. Lee Anderson has set a bad example for the society and drastic measures have been taken to alleviate the possibility of having the same misfortune falling on another of our members. People with red hair are said to be especially prone to such things so a careful tab is being kept on certain of our members.

We have eight of last year's active members back in School and considering that the policy of the H. C. S. does not lie in numbers, that is a fair showing. Work is now progressing on our debate team which we will have in action to defend the Newbegin trophy which the H. C. S. now holds.

Our meetings are held every Monday night at 8 o'clock and every man in school is invited to attend. (Girls also if fair warning is given.)

KAPPA SIGMA THETA

By F. G.

School is in full swing once again and we are ready to say, "This is a great life."

Theta's cup has been overflowing with good programs and good times since the beginning of the year. After a long summer's vacation so much scandal, gossip and so many thrills have been collected that it takes a long time for it all to be told but as a group of girls we are doing our share.

We are highly pleased to have so many girls back in Theta at the beginning of the year. For the benefit of the new students who are roaming thru C. P. S. halls we will give the list of girls who are proud to be Thetas: Winifred Wayne, Olive Martin, Kathrine Anderson, Helen Brace, Myrtle Warren, Helen Monroe, Frances Goehring, Florence Maddock, Florence Todd, Eva Bock, Ethel Beckman, Hilda Scheyer, Kathleen Boyle and Greta Miller.

We have enjoyed fine programs on Art, Hawaii, and College Girls, but best of all was the open house on Oct. 6th, at which time we entertained for all girls in school. Our program follows:

THE COLLEGE SCRAP-BOOK

Society	Hilda Scheyer
Topics of the Day	Florence Maddock
Music	Winifred Wayne & Olive Martin
Sports	Greta Miller
Professors	Helen Brace
Freshmen	Helen Monroe
Prima Donna	Kathleen Boyle
Students	Myrtle Warren

A FARCE

Florence Todd	Frances Goehring
Eva Bock	Kathrine Anderson
Ethel Beckman

The afternoon was a very pleasant one and we invite all the girls to come again.

AMPHICTYON LITERARY SOCIETY

By B. R.

The Amphictyons started the school year with their usual spirit of good will and friendship. At the first meeting, which was attended by a goodly number of old members and their friends, a splendid program of "Welcome" was given.

At the meeting of Sept. 29, "Poetry" held full sway, bringing back memories of childhood and early school days. The program of October 5 speaks for itself, when we say that "Stars" was the subject and Helen Smith mixed the subject of "Why I Like Stars" with "Why I Like to Count Stars."

At our meeting of October 11, we discussed the subject of "Emotions." Mr. Erp was a little lost on the subject of "Too Happy for Words," as he said he had never had the nerve. We suggest to the girls that this being Leap Year they might make Mr. Erp "Too Happy for Words."

The subject for the Inter-society debate has been decided upon. The Theta-Amphic debate will be held five weeks from October 12. The Amphics are out for the Theta's scalp and everyone is behind the team.

The Amphictyons very much regret the loss of one of their number—Miss Myra Shattuck, but are happy to welcome Mrs. Lee Anderson. We also have a new brother—Congratulations, Lee.

We wish to ask Mr. Percy James if it is a new fad to treat one's girl to dry onions? For further information see Miss Ethel Lewis.

CHRISTIANITY RECREATION SCHOLARSHIP
CHARACTER PERSONALITY

*We're Philos of old C. P. S. with colors flying free.
Before us lies our future—defeat? No! Victory!
Our loyalty's unwavering, we have the spirit too.
We can because we know we can—what we alone can do.*

Our pre-eminent characteristic is "Lovers of learning" and though we do not always reach the goal we aim at high scholarship—not as an end, but as a means to develop our minds for the more strenuous problems which will confront us when we take our places in more definite service for the world.

We believe that society is no stronger than its weakest member so we strive to develop the personality of each individual for the good of all, that there may be progress, not only in our immediate social life, but in later social and national life.

We believe in recreation of the finest sort. We take part in and boost athletics. Our songs develop our vocal organs. Our social life finds expressions in banquets, house parties, and launch rides. We often have a Philo wedding cake to enjoy at our meetings.

We would not forget the part for which the whole exists:—Character and Christianity. Since the world is inhabited as it is it must have been intended that men and women should endeavor together to carry out the divine plans. We have therefore chosen to exist as a mixed society striving to develop the sturdiness of character which will be a true culture in harmony with Christian principles and ideals.

*Philo in learnings quest;
Philo the loved and blest;
Philo we sing.
Out with the waves they go
Back from the vales below;
Clear as the mountain snow
Thy praises ring.*

SARTOR RESARTUS

First of a Series.

BY MARCUS AURELIUS, '22

Fellow Students:—

THESE are great days for all of us and if you are not fully aware of the fact now, it will soon dawn upon you. It is no mean purpose that brings us here. Now whatever the call has been, the greatest significance lies in the fact that you are here.

There are a few things that we have in mind which we desire to share with you, and the most essential is the idea of getting the most out of the time spent at C. P. S. It seems to us not unreasonable to suppose that the effectual doors of opportunity that are swinging wide open to the College, should furnish a strong appeal to all.

Do you remember when you first came upon the campus and you walked up to the Administration Building, past the large columns and were brought face to face with the "Grand Porte?" Did you note the large doors and the arched-over art glass work? To you then that incident may not have had much import and on this suggestion hangs our tale.

The folks who are fortunate enough to attend college are different from the rest of mankind, in that their chances for success in life are greatly increased. You cannot come here with any ideas whatsoever, and return from whence you came, the same person. The reason is simply this; the college world on which you are looking is a new and wonderful world and you are in your own right an explorer, a discoverer and a contributor. The faculty and your courses will send you out exploring and you will surely make many new discoveries. And then what will you contribute?

Your first contribution is yourself. To make the most of yourself give yourself, and as you go about these halls in every phase of student life you will constantly, joyfully, be finding yourself.

The amount of pleasure with which you can look back on your college days will be measured directly in proportion to the extent with which you now give yourself to these days.

Hearty cooperation is very essential to the success of the school year. If you enter freely into the student affairs willing to contribute all you are able, the success of the whole is assured. There is no Tanlac for colleges; we don't need any. We have students who are strong for the College and we want you to be also. By this time you have your program arranged. There will be many events that will bid for your time and attention. Think wisely and carefully, and then whatever you do, do all devotedly, for your College, your fellow students, and the fond memories of the Other Days that are to be.

SOCIAL EVENTS
MISS MYERS, Editor

FROM the number of weddings in which C. P. S. students have taken the leading parts this last summer one would almost come to the conclusion that Cupid is a member of the faculty.

Francis Powell had been married for some time before the majority of the students became aware of the interesting fact.

The large home wedding of Mildred Pollom, now Mrs. Wemhoff was attended by several College students. Professor Robbins kissed the bride. Of course it was necessary for the other gentlemen to follow suite.

Miss Muriel Hover and Carl Curtis, both former C. P. S. students were married at Miss Hover's home in Seattle. Much could be told of tin-cans and "just married" signs.

Another wedding of interest was that of Miss Alice Baker and Paul Hanawalt. Both were active in student affairs during their attendance here.

Miss Hazel Miller, who attended C. P. S. for a short time, and Rev. Loyd Burk, a graduate, were married in Tacoma.

Dr. Todd's home was visited by Cupid and as a result Miss Junia Todd and Carl Hallen were married the early part of September.

Wesley Todd and Miss Esther Cox of Salem were married at Miss Cox's home.—No wonder Mrs. Todd is the head of the Romance Department.

The marriage of Miss Myra Shattuck and Leander Anderson might almost be termed an expected surprise. If we could have known when this wedding was to take place we might have managed to give the couple a little extra excitement.

Miss Ruth Vigus is now Mrs. R. Preston. The marriage took place the latter part of the Summer.

All of the College students join in extending their best wishes to all of these happy newly-weds.

Y. M. AND Y. W. MIXER

The evening of September 17 found a merry company, faculty and students assembled in the gymnasium.

The under-classmen who had been sitting with fear and trembling before the dignitaries of the faculty for the past week were astounded to find that even the faculty may be caught by a practical joke.

After a variety of games, refreshments were served. We will refrain from telling how many times some people were served. The members of the committees are to complimented on the enjoyable evening which they gave us.

THE SCHEDULE

THE football schedule lined up for the football team this fall is one of the most elaborate undertakings that the College has had in hand for some time. Twenty-eight hundred dollars is tied up in contracts for the football season. This amount includes only the money for bringing three college teams to Tacoma, namely, Pacific University, Willamette University and the University of Idaho.

The opening game of the season has been played and the schedule for the other games is as follows: Pacific University, October 30.

Willamette University, November 13.

University of Idaho, November 25 (Thanksgiving).

The Thanksgiving Day game with the University of Idaho is a mammoth undertaking involving an expense of over $2,000. The two teams however should be attraction enough to draw a large crowd to the Stadium for this game and the expense part should be met with ease. If Tacoma fans respond to the schedule this year and support the games that the College will play in Tacoma, a football future for the city is assured as the College can bring a good team to the Stadium every Thanksgiving. If, however, the city does not back the games this year, the College must adopt a schedule with the majority of the games away from home.

Many familiar faces are back in the football lineup this season. Clyde Kinch is out for football for his fourth year having made the team every year since he entered school. Clyde is easily the veteran of the team.

It is extremely gratifying to see Rip Revelle back at the game again this year. He sure is a "fighting baby" and one of the fastest men in the city. Pollen, too, is back, driving the team, when it slows up, and making things snappy in general.

Brady, McPhail and Dorsey are the remaining three of last year's team who are with us again this fall. Dorsey is in the back-field filling Danielson's old position. McPhail is at his old guard position and Brady will very likely be on the job at tackle.

Danielson is still on the sick list and cannot be with us this year. His absence is a big loss to the team as a better player will probably never enter school. Anderson is another loss that the team suffered and his crutches will keep him from the end position that he held last year. Tolles, tackle, has moved away. Todd, end, is married, putting an end to his football career, and Earle, end, is attending Columbia University.

Clay and Brooks, last year letter men are in school but are not turning out this season. They would be a valuable asset to the team if they would only get into uniform and help out.

Among the new men are Rumbaugh, who played with Lincoln High School; Stone, from Willamette; Sheffer who has always been with us in classes but not in football; Wasson, a new man at the game; Baker from the University of South Dakota; Gourley, formerly of the Tacoma High; Rector, Beady and Wayne Brady.

FIRST GAME GOES TO CAMP LEWIS

Playing in a downpour of rain that made the Stadium a miniature lake, the Camp Lewis football eleven defeated the College team in the first big game of the season by a score of 33 to 7. The game was no walk-away for the army men, however, and the majority of their points may be attributed to flukes. The College boys put up one of the gamest fights ever staged in the big bowl. Two army bands were brave to the very last and despite the downpour entertained the crowd throughout the game with snappy selections. Sixteen substitutions were made by the Camp Lewis team during the four quarters, making a total of 26 men that the College line faced. At the end of the game only two of the original eleven men were in the lineup.

For the College, Revelle, Pollen, Shrader and Kinch were the mainstays, with Arnett doing great work on the defense. Shrader's work was the big feature of the game. Revelle tore around left end for 30 yards in the last few minutes, but the College lost the ball on downs. In the last quarter the College team tightened and after taking the ball from the soldiers on the College 20-yard line they marched it down the field by means of a 30-yard pass to Dorsey and line smashes by Arnett and Revelle to the 52-yard line, where a pass, Pollen to Baker, gave the C. P. S. boys their touchdown. Each of the backfield men are credited with long runs around end. Dorsey probably made the longest in the third quarter when he went 30 yards. Revelle had a big edge over the army in kicking and got off some long punts.

Coach Peck stated after the game that he was well pleased with the fight that his men put up.

The lineup:

Baker	Left End
Vaughn, Shrader	Left Tackle
Sheffer, Brady	Left Guard
Wasson	Center
McPhail	Right Guard
Stone	Right Tackle
Kinch	Right End
Pollen	Quarter
Revelle	Right Half
Arnett	Full
Dorsey	Left Half

C. P. S. SCIENCE CLUB

Our first meeting of this year was held on Thursday evening, October 7. The Club enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. Ed. Longstreth and after a very excellent dinner adjourned to the reception room where the usual business was transacted. Papers on Atomic Constitution, The Search for Potash in the United States, and Prevention of Smelter Wastes by Electrostatic Precipitation, were presented. The Science Club has several interesting plans in process of development and it behooves everyone to be on the look-out.

For the benefit of the new students, the Science Club is an honorary, limited, science association, made up of the best men in science in C. P. S. It is an honor to be a "Science" man. However girls and benedicts need not apply for admittance for they tend to detract from the spirit of scientific investigation that the Club fosters.

THE SCIENTIFICIANS

As yet the Scienticians have not succeeded in getting together for a meeting but Miss Miller has extended us the hospitality of her beach home and we expect to make up time by taking a Saturday off and having a regular picnic—an all-day meeting, a'la the "Ladies' Aid." Miss Carr, a well known nurse of the city, has consented to talk to us on some of the problems of her profession.

Under the leadership of our President, Miss Hastings, Scienticians hope to make this year an interesting one even though the opening of school found two of our members among the missing. Our present membership: Miss Hastings, Miss Shunk, Miss Anderson, Miss Miller and Miss Ohlson.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

By E. G.

During the first weeks of school the Y. W. C. A. has made special efforts to become acquainted with every new girl in school and to make her feel at home in C. P. S. The first move was made when each of the upper-class girls adopted a new girl for her "sister." Next came the Bean Feed with its usual amount of "eats" and fun. This was followed by the Mixer, an affair given by the Y. M. and Y. W. Everyone enjoyed a good time and left feeling better acquainted. As a result of the membership campaign many of the new girls joined the Y. W. C. A. and it is hoped that before the year is over we will have enrolled every girl in school.

T T T

THE BEAN FEED

By E. G.

The annual Bean Feed which was held in the library was a huge success in every way. Baked beans, buns, coffee and doughnuts were served in generous quantities, after the disposal of which the happy company listened with interest to the clever speeches given by members of the Student Body and new Faculty members.

Ernest Clay, President of the Student Body acted as Toastmaster. A unique parade was given by the Sophomores and upper classmen for the amusement and benefit of the Freshmen. No phase of College life was omitted. Even the Department of Romance had a prominent place on the program. We trust that this department will have an unusually large enrollment this year.

MATRICULATION ADDRESS

By E. G.

The Matriculation exercises held in the chapel on Sept. 15 were very impressive in character. Dr. Todd, who was the speaker of the occasion held the attention of his audience with an address of unusual interest. Special music was furnished by the Conservatory.

T T T

CHAPEL REVIEWS

By MISS ESTHER GRAHAM.

Thus far the talks given in chapel have been unusually interesting. Professor Hanawalt, who is Chairman of the Committee for Chapel Speakers, has already secured several notable speakers.

Rev. Johnson, who is Travelling Secretary for the Presbyterian Board of Missions along the Pacific Coast, emphasized to us the need of a larger educational preparation. Rev. Davidson, a graduate of the Garrett Biblical Institute also gave a very impressive talk.

Rev. Andrew Warner, who is the new pastor of the Epworth M. E. Church, spoke to the student body during the first week of school. We were also very glad to have Dr. R. H. Schuett of the First M. E. Church speak in chapel again and we hope that Mr. Warner and Dr. Schuett will be with us often during the year.

The topics which have been treated by the different faculty members have likewise been interesting as well as beneficial. Professor Hanawalt spoke on the importance of a Church Home. Professor Harvey emphasized the value of a clean mind; and Professor Robbins spoke on the necessity of being able to excel in at least one thing.

No less interesting, was the talk given by Dean Cunningham on the value of the Alumni to the Institution.

DRAMATICS

ROSA PERKINS

The Department of Dramatics looks forward to a progressive year. It will enlarge the work which was begun last year. The all-College play will be produced in the Tacoma Theatre some time early in March. The play reading committee has already begun its work with Florence Maddock as chairman and Sam Levinson, Florence Todd and Margaret Ohlson as associates. The cast will be selected during January.

The class in dramatics has five one-act plays under consideration. They are: "The Twelve Pound Look," by Barrie, "The Clod," and "Overtones," from Washington Square players and "Glory of the Morning," from the Wisconsin plays. It is the plan of the class to put on one play a month. The purpose of these plans is to furnish clean and amusing entertainment for club, church and like special occasions. These were in great demand last year and we expect a very successful season.

SAM LEVINSON

This year at the College all departments have been given an enthusiastic and ambitious start that is good to see. Debate is no exception. As last year, the Department of Public Speaking has a class in argumentation and debate which will assure debates that will be more finished from a stand-point of technique and logic.

The questions for the Inter-society debates have been arranged for. The dates are as follows:

Kappa Sigma Theta vs. Amphictyon, Nov. 16.
Philomatheans vs. H. C. S., Nov. 23.

The final championship debate between the winners will probably be held on December 21, to decide who is to hold the Newbegin Silver Loving Cup. This trophy was held for two years by the Philomatheans and is now in the possession of the H. C. S.

The prospects for intercollegiate debate are better among the girls than among the boys if we are to let experience be the judge, since all of last year's women debaters are back in school. Some of the new men, however, have been associated with debate teams in other colleges, as well as high schools. The prospects are exceedingly good for strong inter-collegiate teams and with the great amount of interest that is being shown we are aiming to put teams in the field that will make the public and other colleges sit up and take notice. C. P. S. has already established a reputation for good debating and this year we are going to do our best to further this good reputation.

This year there are more than the usual number of prizes for excellence in debate and oratory. For the benefit of the Freshmen and other new members of the College they are enumerated below:

$50 for the best debater in College.

$25 for the second best debater in College.

These prizes are offered by Mr. Langhorne and all students are eligible.

$50 for the best debater among the girls.

$50 for the best oration on some topic of the day.

$25 for the second best oration on some topic of the day.

These orations are to be written and later delivered from the platform by the author. All students are eligible. The prizes are offered by Mr. Burmeister.

$15 for the best Inter-society debater.

$10 for the second best Inter-society debater.

These prizes offered through the courtesy of Mr. Newbegin.

$10 for the best oration or reading delivered by any student; prize offered by Mrs. E. H. Todd.

Quite an array of prizes, eh what?

Everybody out and try for them, and we will have a debate year that will go down in history as the best yet.

SWAYZE IMPROVING RAPIDLY

Monday, September 30, Tom Swayze, Athletic Manager and Vice-president of the Y. M. C. A. underwent an operation at the Tacoma General Hospital. Tom is doing nicely. A daily bulletin of his progress is being kept on one of the boards in the hall of the Administration Building. At the present rate of improvement we may expect him back in a few weeks. Meanwhile let's all find time to visit him and cheer him on his way to strength. We're all with you Tom!

SACAJAWEA CALENDAR

By R. P.

Sept. 5 — Miss Owings, the new preceptress, and Laura and Betty Neville arrive at the club.

Sept. 8—Phoebe arrived with her dress, school dress, night gown and kimona—Lonesome.

Sept. 9—Enter Rosa, the star that does not shine.

Sept. 10—Good weather and a great deal of anxiety.

Sept. 11—Esther jazzed in to the tune of "do-re-me-fa-sol." Mildred Brown came in leaving her "regiment" behind her.

Sept. 12—Irish painted room light red. Lucile consoled Phoebe on her longing for Cowville.

Sept. 13—Gertrude and Loretta made the dust fly trying to get to dinner on time. Petite Marguerite came shyly up the steps and rang the bell. Gerda flung her suitcase inside the door and ran to the "Ad" building and had the ordeal over with.

Sept. 14—Irish moved in, "a wee bit o' Scotch and a drop o' Irish."

Sept. 14—First house meeting. Good impressions.

Sept. 15—Sacajawea dinner. Boys entertained in the parlor in presence of three chaperons.

Sept. 16—Rosa curled her hair. Gerda washed her face. Lecture No. 72 on "Korea."

Sept. 17—Everybody went to the mixer. Marguerite said that it was the first time she ever came home unescorted. That was before she had met Wayne Brady.

Sept. 18—All out for the M. E. reception. Marguerite had TWO escorts in a great big roadster.

Sept. 19—Church. Esther and Russel went up the aisle to the strains of "Lohengrin." Rest of dorm in attendance.

Sept. 20—Second house meeting. New rule read, namely, "Men escorting women to the dormitory are not to be entertained after 10:15." This applies to steps, side-walk and so forth. Woeful expressions.

Sept. 21—Everybody went to society meetings. Esther and Rosa's attention forcefully drawn to the above rule. Miss Owings noticed the romantic moon.

Sept. 22—Moved to put a park bench on the Senator's steps as he is a sound sleeper, Carried.

Sept. 23—Lucile had a date with Harris. Poor Irish. Rita arrived. George called that evening.

Sept. 24—Clyde and Russel vie for Phoebe's affections.

Sept. 25—All went to Epworth reception. A little bird said, "Marguerite came home with Andy. Little bird sat on roof over kitchen.

Sept. 26—More church. Also some hibernating.

Sept. 27—Park bench arrives. Reservations made.

Sept. 28—Frank Brooks and Phoebe christen the bench.

Sept. 29—Bench moved inside. Clyde and Lucile tried it and found that there was room for two couples and one chaperon.

CONSERVATORY NOTES

BILLY ROSS

Classes at the Conservatory began September 25, and are now in full swing. College credit is being given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Normal Music. This year shows a record enrollment. Mr. Clayton Johnson is head of the Departments of Piano, Pipe Organ, and Science of Music. The other teachers in Piano are Miss Irene Hampton of New York City, Madge C. Herd, Pearl Anderson, and Rita Todd. Mr. Kloepper is again teacher of Voice and, to use Mr. Johnson's expression—"nuff sed." Mr. Herbert Riley is teacher of Cello. Mr. Riley was formerly with the New York and San Francisco Symphony Orchestras and is at present with the Seattle Symphony Orchestra. Mrs. Paul T. Prentice continues as instructor in Violin. Miss Isabelle Mullenger is the studio secretary.

A girls' Trio, consisting of Marion Myers, June Williams and Ruth Hart has been organized, also a mixed quartette consisting of Rita Todd, Ruth Hart, Vernon Schlatter and Archie Smith. Chapel Choir rehearses every Monday and Friday and sings in Chapel on Fridays. There will probably be a girls' and Boys' Glee Club organized later on.

The Conservatory has been completely remodeled and furnished throughout with new equipment. Mr. Johnson says if any students get stung by the "music bug" to just drop in at the Conservatory and he will show them a real lively time.

Y. M. C. A.

BY BRADY

Under the able leadership of Roy Owens, our new President, the Y. M. C. A. is making very good progress in its work this year and has held some very interesting meetings. Our only regret is that more men do not attend the meetings. There should be no lack of attendance as this is the only place where the men of the College can meet on the same level. Our discussions are very practical and will be of interest to every man in school.

Some of the main issues of the Y. M. C. A. work which we want all to notice are the following:

Bible Study—The discussions will be led by the men themselves and will be interesting and helpful to all who wish to take part in them.

Deputation Work—This work, under the direction of Russell Clay, is for all those who wish to take part in leadership of young peoples meetings, Sunday school classes, or mission study classes. Splendid opportunities are being offered in this department and we advise you to take part in this work as we are sure it will be of great value to you as well as being of service to others.

Employment—The employment department under the direction of Clyde Kinch and Ernest Clay endeavors to secure employment for all those who wish it, and line them up with work whereby they may earn some money while going to College. We have helped considerably already and are always ready to serve you.

All those who have not been attending Y. M. C. A. get the habit and come out and boost. We meet in the Chapel annex during the chapel period on Thursdays. Help us so we can help you; and so help our College.

SENIOR NOTES

BY M. S.

At the first Senior class meeting we unanimously agreed to erase from the realms of our memory, the gory, gloomy, grilling Junior days and begin a new era, wiser and better folks.

Our task this year will be confined to writing learned theses, questioning, from our high intellectual stand-point every truth the professors may utter, constructively criticising the Juniors, condescending on special occasions to advise the Sophomores, and keeping ourselves loftily aloof from the Freshmen.

Our fold has increased from last year and we are earnestly hoping that the Class of '21 will exceed, in number at least, (our innate modesty forces us to omit other superior attributes) all previous graduating classes.

T T T

"If I knew you and you knew me.
 And each of us could plainly see
 And with an inner light divine
 The meaning of your soul and mine,
 I'm sure that we would differ less
 And clasp our hands in friendliness.
 Our thoughts would pleasantly agree
 If I knew you and you knew me.

SOPHOMORE NOTES

In the first issue of last year's Trail we find these words: "Pep,—were is Pep to be found?—Class of 23, of course!" Verily, these are words of wisdom. Though somewhat depleted in numbers our pep has increased. We have assumed the responsibility for the Freshmen and the annual proclamations were issued. Green caps immediately began to brighten the campus. As the day of the color-rush drew near, groups of green caps assembled in various corners of the campus, dispersing suddenly on the appearance of the friendly Soph. Monday afternoon the Frosh girls entertained the Junior and class-less girls at a council of war in the Y. M. room. We wonder why. The Frosh had planned to entertain a group of Sophs at a house party at Ruth Wheeler's home, but we all had previous engagements. One lone Soph girl was persuaded to spend the night in an attic. Though the Frosh are delightful hostesses, the lone Soph tired of their hospitality and left early—in the morning.

A group of energetic Sophomore girls held a "slumberless" party in the Chapel, decorating the building and frightening away the timid Freshmen. When the sun rose the next morning he smiled upon the fruit of their labors. So did Bud Harris, and he wore some brown paint where some people wear rouge. The same evening our boys enjoyed an auto party and a feed at the Doughnut.

The day of the Rush began with soft music and flowers as the corpse of the Class of Twenty-Four was born to it's final resting place by the Sophomores, followed by a weeping throng of green caps. Amid the cheers of the admiring crowd our boys appeared upon the scene, students, faculty, and Doctor Harvey assembled on the campus, and the fight was on. Roy Cruver and Fred Herzog did the lame duck back and forth o'er the battle field.

When the whistle blew the Sophomores had their bag nearer the goal and the victorious Brown and Gold was floated from the color post. Never mind the half-mast. That was in memory of the Frosh. It has been several years since a Sophomore class has won the color rush but the ever victorious Class of Twenty-Three broke that tradition. We have an enviable "rep" to live up to, but we will sure do it. The Class has never met defeat in any inter-class activity and in addition has carried off a large share of the individual honors.

The Frosh have been given their bibs, or we should say, their bids for the annual party on October 15, when we will show them the time of their young lives.

Our officers for the year are:

President Tom Swayze
 Vice-President Esther Graham

Secretary Francis Goehring
 Treasurer Dean Hart
 Sergeant-at-Arms Douglas Bowman

FRESHMAN NOTES

Yum! Yum! Did you ever taste such delicious tea? And such cake! We felt right at home when we discovered that the cake and cookies possessed green frosting. The tea given by Marjorie Kennedy and Ada Mae Gartrell, for a number of Freshmen girls, should be made a weekly event, say we.

The Freshman class as a whole, wish to extend their heart-felt thanks to the Sophomores for their kind consideration in providing play-things in the guise of posters for the Freshies to pull down from the "Ad" building.

What's the matter, Sophomores, did the naughty Freshmen pull them all down too soon?

Talent? Oh, yes, lots of it. Jazz music? Ask Audrene. She can also compose masterpieces such as Freshie songs.

Do the Freshies like College?

Did they enjoy the scrap?

Did they have a good time at the bean feed? Mixer? Stag Receptions? Teas? and parties?

You tell 'em class of '24.

Well, well, did you note the cute little bibs that were handed out to the Frosh by our friends, the Sophomores? The Sophs do have bright ideas occasionally, don't they?

We, the Freshman class of C. P. S., in consideration for the coming Freshmen classes, do hereby petition that the size of the green caps be increased. It's a shame to have a perfectly good looking face spoiled by a too small cap.

The cordiality that the upper-class-girls expressed towards the Freshmen girls, in the "Big Sister" Movement made the girls feel very much at home in their college life.

Want the latest gossip—especially concerning the doings of the Frosh? Ask Russel Clay; he's a walking newspaper.

T T T

FROSH SCANDAL

Rumor has it that not so few romances have already sprung up in the Freshman Class. How about it, Marguerite?

Tweet! Tweet! A male Rapheal has arrived from Puyallup—D'ya all know him?

We wonder why the library is so popular during chapel. Ask "Sib," she knows.

"Dee" tells us that the only reason he's sorry he got the black eyes that he can't wink with the other one—Quite a handicap, say we.

We certainly appreciate the natural-born yell leader we have amongst the Frosh girls—All thanks to Ruth Wheeler.

Soph Girl: "Who's that cute little freshie?"

Frosh: "O him? That's Eddie Rumbaugh."

(Note) Harmony is a study we would recommend to E. R. that he may have better selection in socks in the future.

Many of the Freshman girls, (the Juniors are also included) sincerely regret that we have not all had the experience that has been bestowed on Mrs. Hegarty. However, we are glad to hear of them—and so is Mr. Gjesdahl, we trust.

Have you noticed the personal attraction that Rosa and Gene display for one another in the library? (A romance without true love.) Just a bit of advice, Gene! Don't be fickle—remember your Lincoln Hi Jane.

Brown's right there when it comes to deep-thinking.—First time in the history of C. P. S. that thinking and fighting have gone hand in hand. He's some yeller, too.

We even have Harold Lloyd's double in our midst. Quite an asset to C. P. S.

One of Stadium's most popular warblers—Helen Brix.

Erwin! Be loyal to your own class, even if the upper-class girls are attractive. All the same, we surely appreciate what you have accomplished in organizing our class.

Evidently Mr. Frett's interests are turned toward "keeping the girls back on the farm." We sincerely hope he will succeed.

HEARD ON THE CAMPUS

BY A FROSH, G. E. R. M.

"Oh, Madge, come here!"

"Why, hello there, Ruth, I haven't seen you for years, where's your green cap?"

"Oh, that? I gave it to Gene Schrader. You know they had the annual Scrap yesterday, and say, dearie, it was the most fun."

"Who won?"

"I can't tell you, but say, don't you think Gene is the dearest boy?"

"Don't know him yet, introduce me won't you Ruthie?"

"I will Madge, but there's so many other nice boys you ought to meet first. There's Eddie Rumbaugh, Dick Wasson, De Hedstrom, Earl Brown, Mac, and oh so many other fine fellows. But you ought to meet Dick Wasson, he's so big and manly and he certainly did scrap. All he had to do was sit on the Sophs and they'd flatten out, but dear, you ought to have seen Gene, he—"

"Tell me all about it, Ruthie."

"Oh Madge, everybody but you were there and you ought to have seen how they yelled, and the girls screamed and waved their umbrellas when the Freshmen boys ran out in their old clothes and foot-ball suits. Hilda said that even Professor Hanawalt forgot about his logarithms and cheered. I over-heard the Dean say that Dick looked like Mohammed's Mountain, only if he were Mohammed he wouldn't have the Mountain come to him. Then the Sophs came out and you couldn't hear anything but songs and yells. The boys then lined up on their respective goals and Mr. Clay (notice the "Mr.") made a few remarks on how the contest was to be staged. Mr.

Erp (again notice the "Mr.," worthy Senior) then blew the starting whistle. The two lines closed in on the two bags. You should have seen Gene, he made a flying grasp,—no, tackle, isn't it, and knocked over two Sophs and all the rest piled on top, right out in those awful mud puddles, too. They tried to drag each other off and Eddie dragged a little Sophomore, I think his name is Cory, right out into the deepest mud puddle and sat on top of his head. And I simply hate that Dean Hart. He held right onto the Sophomore bag and wouldn't let our heroic warriors drag it to the Freshman goal. Somebody stepped on poor Dewitt's eye and most of the boys got their chemises (ahem) torn, besides taking on a thick coat of mud, and oh, Madge, I just wanted to kiss them all, but I thought perhaps Gene wouldn't like it. He seems so shy and modest. And Madge, I have some more things to tell you—"

THE PSALM OF HATE

By Steve Arnett

My car is a Ford; I shall not want another.

It maketh me to lie down in wet places, it soileth my clothes.

It guideth me in the paths of ridicule for its name's sake.

Yea, tho it runneth thru the valley, it is towed up the hills.

I can not have happiness while it is with me;

Its rods and its engines discomfort me;

Its tank runneth over;

It prepareth a breakdown before me in the presence of mine enemies;

It annointeth my head with oil.

Sure to goodness and mercy if this thing followeth me, I will dwell in the house of the insane forever.—Selah.

Y. M. STAG

The annual Y. M. C. A. stag was held in the gymnasium and in the Chapel Building Friday evening, September 24, giving the new men an opportunity to get some of the spirit and pep of C. P. S. into their systems. As a fitting starter the new men were given a dose of C. P. S. spirits of the "flavor lingers" variety. For the next hour life was just one thing after another for the initiates, thrill after thrill being provided for their benefit. The initiation ended with a descent into Hades. Several fellows seemed to be so fond of this locality that they were slow in getting away. It is really a wonder that they got out of all that net-work of furnace piping at all. After the rough-house the crowd adjourned to the lunch room and filled up on doughnuts, cider and apples.

Roy Owens gave a brief talk, outlining the work of the Y. M. C. A. in the College. The following Monday after chapel several fellows who failed to attend the stag were given a warm post-stag initiation.—Cory.
