DATE IS SET FOR SPRING VACATION

The date for Spring vacation has been definitely decided upon and the holiday will begin Friday, April 6, and will extend through to the 16th.

WILLAMETTE DEBATE TEAM TO TOUR EAST

Willamette University—The Willamette men's debate team will leave Salem on March 15, will debate seven schools on its route, and return by April 6. All of the schools to be met are at least as large as Willamette.

The University of North Dakota at Grand Forks, is the first institution to be met. Coming second on the list is Gustavus Adolphus College of St. Peter, Minnesota, whose team is coached by J. Stanley Gray, Ph. D., a noted authority on debate. Lawrence College of Appleton, Wisconsin, will be the third school, then Wheaton College, the University of Arizona, the University of Redlands, and lastly, the College of the Pacific at San Jose, California.

The men selected to make the trip have been announced as Ward Southworth, Rodney Alden, Robert Notson, and the chairman of the Forensic Council. The question is: Resolved, That the United States should enter the League of Nations, with Willamette upholding the affirmative in every debate.

In the North Dakota contest the Oxford plan of no decision will be followed and in the debates with Gustavus Adolphus and Wheaton, the new critic-judge plan is to be tried. This latter plan provides for an experienced debate coach to decide the contest and give his decision from the platform, accompanied by the reasons for his judgment.

C. P. S. TO BE REPRESENTED

In connection with the dedication of the new Y. M. C. A. building at the University of Washington, there will be held on March 15th to 18th inclusive, a Northwest Conference of College Representatives on Religious Education. Professor Weir is on the program Friday morning. He is to speak on "The Necessity of Reconstruction in the Development of Student Beliefs." In addition, the College of Puget Sound is to be represented by Dean Henry, Professor Robbins, Professor Kelly, and Mrs. Gulick. Leading educators from the Northwest colleges and universities will be in attendance at this convention.

SUCCESS DEMANDS CERTAIN STANDARDS

Speaking to the students of the College Chapel, Friday morning, Mr. Robbins stated that man is a social being and must therefore have certain standards by which to judge his success.

An organization which lends money to students has set up some standards by which to judge applicants. Questions are asked concerning scholarship, economy, carefulness, conscientiousness, probable success in earning, promptness in payment of debts, and promise of future usefulness.

Banks sometimes lend money to men who have no money. They know that the man measures up to the required standards. Students of this college are going to want recommendations when they go into business. If they wish to have the right kind of recommendations, they must, while in college make a record which will stand for itself. They must set the standards for their own success.

OHIO WESLEYAN SUPPORTS 85 STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Eighty-five student organizations are reported annually by Ohio Wesleyanites. Thirty-eight of these have Greek letter names. The fraternities number 15 and the Sororities 16. This does not include the honorary fraternities.

These organizations are supported by contributions to the student chest fund.

TUITION OF EVANSVILLE IS RAISED

By action of the Board of Trustees tuition at Evansville College next year will be $45 a term. The College has three terms in the school year, exclusive of summer school, so that the increase in a year's tuition amounts to $30. However, figuring a student's yearly expenses at $600, this increase amounts to only 5%.

COLLEGE BASEBALL POSSIBILITY HERE

Baseball after an absence of more than four years, will be resumed at the college of Puget Sound this season. Coach McNeal has already started to look over the College's diamond possibilities.

If a real team is developed at C. P. S., contests are to be scheduled with other Northwest college teams.

There are several promising players at the school this year. "Horse" Blevins, who has already won honors in football and basketball, is the hurler possibility. Blevins has had much experience as a pitcher, having hurled for the Albany, Ore., college. Cruver is another man with pitching possibilities.

For the backstop position, C. P. S. will have Howard Rober and Joe McArthur. Carlson, Daniels, Van Dervanter, Hageness and Carl are infielders, while Harry Parker, Harry Enoch, Don Wellman, Eddie Rumbaugh play in the outer garden.

TACOMA WOMAN ENDOWS FOREST GROVE SCHOOL WITH $100,000

Mrs. Anna E. McCormick, widow of the late Robert L. McCormick, has made a gift of $100,000 to Pacific University, a general school of higher education, located at Forest Grove, Ore., according to news dispatches received in Tacoma Saturday evening.

The gift was made public Saturday by Mr. W. C. Weir, president of Pacific University.

In making the endowment, Mrs. McCormick stipulated that $50,000 of the amount should be used for the founding and maintaining of a chair of patriotism at the University.

The remaining $50,000 is to be used for building and maintaining a boys' dormitory.

Micki: "Tell me, were you cool when you faced the Dean?"
Ben L.: "Cool! Why I fairly shivered."

ANNOUNCEMENT

From now on the papers received by the exchange department of the "Trail" will be placed in a basket in the library where all who wish to do so may have the opportunity of reading them. An understanding of what is taking place in other colleges and a broader view of the educational world should be of great benefit to all our students. It is desired, however, that the papers be replaced in the basket and not scattered all over the library or taken away from there.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CROSS OF CHRIST

The following is a summary of the sermon delivered at La Seward church Sunday, March 11. It is the first of a series of three sermons on the Cross of Christ leading up to Easter.

John 18:37—"Jesus answered—to this end have I been born, and to this end have I come into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth."

In speaking of the Cross of Christ, we must first consider that we do not refer to the material structure upon which the physical Jesus was crucified by the conservative Jew; but rather the invisible and personal, the inanimate cross on which not only Jesus sacrificed temptation and evil allurements, but we to fix the evil tendencies that beset us. The one was fixed to a certain place and served its purpose in a day. The other remains with one from youth to the grave.

The first clear picture we have of Jesus in this regard is during his temptation in the wilderness. When he faced the allurements of world power and fame, and there he made the person sacrifice that determined the methods pursued throughout his ministry. From this time on to the close of his life he followed the policy of sacrificial service for the uplift of man. Thus we agree, without further consideration that Jesus' mission was not that of dying a malefactor upon a literal cross, but rather, that of acquainting man anew with God, the Father, and establishing a fellowship between them. To this end, Jesus gave himself unreservedly in the wilderness following his baptism in Jordan.

The outstanding experience in Jesus' life should not be divided into separate compartments, and the doctrines of salvation made dependent upon any one of them; but rather his life and work should be looked upon as a whole. Thus his mission began with his recognition of his identity and continued until the ascension.

His purpose was not that of new retribution, but rather a guidance into personal restoration. Man's redemption does not depend upon any one act but upon the incorporating of the spirit of Christ in all of one's tendencies and association with God and his fellow man. Likewise, man is not made acquainted with God alone; but by a life filled with rich experiences and association with men.

An illustration from oriental life might help to make clear Jesus' ministry. In recent years a severe famine swept Northern China and a call came to Christian America for help. America had two alternatives. We could use either or both. The first method was to send food and clothing, which we did, and saved many lives. We could have continued to that extent of making the Chinese indolent and void of resourcefulness. The second method was to send experienced and scientific men to educate the needy Chinese to draw upon their natural resources, and thus become independent. This would be of more value than the first to the race. This was to "bear witness of the truth", as Jesus said he came to do.

Thus let us read the lesson from China's relief and Jesus' mission into the life of man. Had Jesus become the complete and the total of man's retribution there would be nothing left to fashion and build character on. On the other hand, to acquaint man with God and the resources of his kingdom, and to allow each one to build himself into the best possible life and character is to reveal a mighty and purposeful God. "I came into the world that I should bear witness unto the truth" and when the truth is revealed, it is God's desire that men shall profit thereby. "Personality, we are coming to see, is the highest, the final category."

Jesus came to establish a personal relationship between man and God. Physically, Jesus was crucified on Calvary's Cross, but spiritually, he lives in the lives and hearts of men. Our hope is not in his death, but in his triumph. It is in his triumph over temptation in the wilderness, in his ministry, in the Garden of Gethsemane, and finally, over death that we trust. We trust because he has revealed the truth to us and it can be—yea should be. He came to reveal the truth that each of us by taking advantage of the same resources may attain unto the same fulness of life. This means a personal fellowship with God, like that of Jesus, for each one of us. In the development of this spiritual fellowship, comes the building of character and individuality.

Then in modern phraseology one might say—Jesus came to open up to man the spiritual resources that man might work out his own salvation and develop his individuality and personality. That in so doing he not only saves his own soul, but becomes the means of helping others.

Such a relationship works for Christian character in all of life. Not by sacrificial dying, but by sacrificial living. Not by a complete and entire retribution but by process of self acquaintance, and development according to truths as they are; and he came to reveal them as they are.

Men of today are exploring out God's world. Science and invention are continually reaching out and laying hold on new truths. These truths were present but we knew them not. Just as China held the possibilities, but knew not how to lay hold on them and use them for her people. Jesus says: "To this end am I come into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth." Jesus thus became the modern scientific revelation of the TRUTH, hoping that all who came to know would make use of its possibilities to maintain a personal fellowship with God, and that to the strength and vigor of his soul. Roy Owens.

THE EDUCATIONAL BYWAY

Now that a course on etiquette has been started at Cornell College, class procedure will probably run like this:

Professor: "What was the longevity of fungus in the Middle Ages, Miss Smith?"

(Both Miss A. Smith and Miss B. Smith start to answer.)

Professor: "I beg your pardon, either of you may answer."

Agnes: "The privilege is all yours, Beatrice."

Beatrice: "You are most generous, but as an upper classman, you should—"

Agnes: "My dear Beatrice, the class room is the only place where freshies may be both seen and heard with propriety."

Beatrice: "Rule 4, page 37, states that in cases like this, seniors have the right of way."

Agnes: "I waive this right. It is for your own good, m'dear."

Professor: "One moment. Do either of you happen to know the answer?"

Both: "No!"

Dean F. W. Nicholson of Wesleyan University says that the elimination of the evils of college athletics can only be gained thru faculty control of sports.  "The undergraduate has no regard for anything but to produce a winning team. Professionalism, gambling and other vices thrive under student control while academic standing becomes a matter of secondary importance."  Over 75% of the seniors at Dakota Wesleyan University are taking teacher's courses.  A professor at Goucher College remarked the other day that the manuscript of Bismarck's autobiography had been offered to the college, but had been refused because the price was too high.  One of the co-eds suggested that it be purchased with the marks they received.

"Are co-educational colleges merely matrimonial bureaus?" asks the Willamette Collegian, thereby provoking an endless discussion. "Yes", say some, and "No", say the engaged. Prof. Matthews of Willamette attributes the large number of engagements there to two causes: Proximity and suggestion. About 10% proximity and 90% suggestion, we say.

"Fads rule American colleges", say the three European students visiting in this country. Fads go by another name with us. We generally refer to them as professors. Mary Ann.

SCIENTIFIC VAUE OF KING TUT'S RELICS DOUBTFUL SAYS PROF.

Interesting as the relics unearthed in Pharaoh Tutankhamen's tomb may be to the popular mind, it is doubtful whether they will prove of any value scientifically or historically, according to Prof. Frederick Carl Eiselen, professor of Biblical literature at Northwestern University and dean of Garrett Biblical Institute, who has made a specialty of ancient history, Egyptology and Biblical lore.

"From the standpoint of the religion of Egypt of that day, we may expect some interesting contributions, but as to illuminating the secrets of the Old Testament, I am somewhat pessimistic," he says. The point to be considered, he believes, is whether the tomb and its hieroglyphics will reveal anything of vital interest respecting the children of Israel in Egypt and of their exodus, and of Biblical events already chronicled. To this, Professor Eiselen replies in the negative.

"Placing the exodus of the Israelites in either the century of 1300 B. C., or earlier, as most of the Egyptologists have, would mean that the reign of Tutankhamen had passed a century or a century and a half before. In other words, the exodus had not happened. Again, we must recall that this Pharaoh was in upper Egypt, that the distance between his capital and the lower part of the country was great and that the Israelites probably attracted very little attention in the larger contemporary events of the great kingdom. This story is interesting, but I do not think that it was of such vital moment in that time to attract the attention of Tutankhamen. If there are papyri found showing events to be otherwise, it is likely that present day opinions will have to be changed. That would, of course, involve some rather large questions and would make the new discovery of unusual significance. There already have been numerous royal Egyptian tombs uncovered and others may be revealed in the future. This ruler, whose remains have just been unearthed, was one of the last and least important of the eighteenth Egyptian dynasty which had several outstanding kings. His immediate predecessor was a religious fanatic and reformer who built a capital between the Bes and Memphis but on his death, the new ruler, Tutankhamen, did his best to re-establish the old religion. The hieroglyphics in Tut's tomb, therefore, may be expected to illuminate some of the religious thoughts of his day."

Dr. Eiselen said that the fashions displayed by the Tut relics are similar to those adhered to by Egyptians for centuries, and while they may be the mode very soon it will not be because of their actual novelty.

IN OTHER COLLEGES

The Spokane College basketball team made a four day tour in Washington, February 28 to March 3, playing Ellensburg Normal, Pacific Lutheran College, Bellingham Normal, and the Wenatchee Y. M. C. A. The team seems to have been quite successful this year, having, previous to the trip, won all but three of the sixteen games played, and being victorious in all of the games on the trip, except the one with Bellingham Normal.

Twenty new tennis courts are to be built at the University of Oregon and a fee of ten cents per hour per person will be charged to cover the maintenance cost.

FRATERNITY CLUB HOUSE—HOTEL TO BE ERECTED IN NEW YORK

The Panhellenic Association of New York City is planning the erection of a fraternity clubhouse-hotel at an estimated cost of $1,000,000. It will be twelve stories high and contain 260 bed rooms. Three floors will be devoted to public meeting, club and dining rooms. No definite site has been selected to date.

The following national sororities have signified their approval of the plan: Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Delta Gamma, Alpha Omicron Pi and Pi Beta Phi.

NEW ZEALAND'S HIGH RECORD

Less Infant Mortality in That Country Than in Any Other in the World.

Fewer infants die in New Zealand than in any other country in the world. In 1919 the death rate under one year was only 45 to every 1,000 life births, compared with 87 in the United States. A study of New Zealand's low rate made by our government shows the greatest reduction has been made during the last 10 to 15 years as the result of the work of the Royal New Zealand Health society, which gives free advice and assistance to all mothers. Until the recent passage of the Sheppard-Towner act our states and government have devoted their attention chiefly to saving the infant life of swine and other live stock. We are just getting on the map in following the enlightened policy of New Zealand and European countries in an effort to reduce high infant mortality.—Exchange.

IN DAYS OF OLD

"Times have changed," remarked the barber as he stropped his razor "The time was when that wall was covered with a great 'mug' rack. Most of them bore the owner's name, or some emblem distinctive of his occupation. Maybe the name was his autograph. In each mug was an individual brush and individual soap. In some instances there was an individual sponge, the most insanitary thing in the world. Then came the safety razor, and whiz went the private mugs and the regular patrons of the barber chair who were good for from three to six shaves a week at 10 cents a shave. Truly 'them were the good old days.'"—Detroit News.

THRILL IN HOLDING HANDS

Even With Gloves On, There Must Be Something in It That Makes a Strong Appeal.

Holding hands is one of the oldest sports in the world, but, being open to entertaining variations, it seldom gets boring. Evidently reasoning from this point of view, an affectionate young couple who babbled interminably about college commanded the interest of passengers on a Broadway-Seventh avenue subway train the other day, a New York Sun writer says.

They were wearing gloves that appeared to have true powers for resisting cold. They had been seated a short time when the youth's hand-gloved hand-sought that of his companion. She demurred a trifle at first and then consented. From Ninety-sixth street until One Hundred and Sixteenth street they held hands with these heavy gloves on. Several women entered the car at the latter station and the young man arose and offered his seat.

The girl looked in a subdued, but rather irritated, manner at the newcomer. Then she smiled up into her companion's face. He smiled back. Then she elevated her gloved hand, caught his gloved hand, and they held hands until they arose to leave the train at the One Hundred and Forty-fifth street station.

WISE ANIMAL IS THE BEAVER

Shown in Creature's Intelligence in Selecting Trees That Will Fall in Desired Position.

From a few remarks, in Hallam Hawksworth's "The Adventures of a Grain of Dust," on the wisdom of the beaver:

"He picks out a young tree something less than six inches thick. Then he looks up as if he wanted to see what kind of a day it was going to be; although the fact is, he never bothers his head about the weather.

"What he is really looking up for is to see if the top of the tree he is going to chop down is likely to get tangled in the tops of other trees when it falls. (All beavers, I should add, don't take this precaution, only the older and wiser ones.) "After this inspection he either cuts the tree in two with his long, sharp chisel teeth so that it will fall clear of the tangling branches of other trees, or, if he sees he can't prevent this, he moves away to another tree."

PICTURES ON CEILING

Kuwait is situated at the head of the Persian gulf, and is famous as yet only as a proposed terminus of the Bagdad railway, of which we have heard so much during recent years. It is an ordinary Arab border town, built of mud and plaster, with few houses more than one story high, and only the sheik's palace making any pretensions to elegance. One room in this palace is distinctly bizarre, and in a way arabesque. It has a large and beautiful Persian rug on the floor, and a ceiling covered with many chromos of foreign notabilities, in gilt frames, picked up in the Bombay bazars. Only an Arab would have thought of that place for the pictures.

MODIFIED CANDOR

"A man in your position should never say a thing he does not mean." "You can't avoid it," confided Senator Sorghum. "Every now and then you've got to introduce a bill to humor some cranky but influential constituent."

Mrs. Gulick: "Who was king of France during this period?"

Roy Hallan: "Louis the Cross-eyed."

Mrs. Gulick: "Why, that is preposterous. Where did you get that idea?"

Roy Hallan: "It's right here in my book." (And what was in his book was Louis XI.)

THE FACULTY

Senator Davis reports that he has not missed a single roll call during this session of the legislature.

Professor Kelly spoke on the subject of "Educational Touchstones" to the Women's College League at the home of Mrs. J. M. Knox on South Seventh street a week ago Thursday afternoon. That evening Professor Kelly delivered an address at the banquet of the American Bankers' Association on the subject of "Economic Education for Bankers". The national president and Secretary of the Association were present.

Miss Crasper and Miss Blacke were in a party that attended the last Legislative ball in Olympia. Other members of the party were Mr. and Mrs. Tony Bell, Tom Swayze and Frances Goehring.

Miss Crasper tells us that the prevailing color was rose, while shades of tan, brown and yellow were also prominent. The shoes and hosiery were very elaborate. The hair-dress was usually flat with coronets of wreaths, although some elderly women had their gray hair bobbed and frizzed. (We are much in debt to Miss Crasper for these fashion notes.)

Professor Hanawalt gave an address on the life of Frances Willard at the twenty-fifth memorial of her birthday, commemorated by the W. C. T. U. at Bethany Methodist church Sunday evening, February 25.

JOKES

The earthquake felt at 10:12 on Monday was only Doc Harvey sneezing in chapel.

One should never converse with a minister directly before he delivers a sermon as it often confuses and bewilders. This was the plight of one young minister and in a sermon on "Jesus" he said "The work of Jesus was to heal the dead, cast out the sick, and raise the devil."

Prof. Innis: "Are there any questions?"
Harry Enochs: "Yes, what grade did I get?"
Prof. Innis: "I would hate to say it before the entire class."

FAMOUS PICTURES

"Last Stand of Custer", posed daily by Merrill Ginn in the bookstore.

"Washington Crossing the Delaware", posed by Dean Henry crossing the hall at noon.

"Age of Innocence", posed by Carol Hovious at all times.

"The Gleaners", posed by the office at registration time.

Prof. Innis: "You'll not meet too many men in life."
Bea Walgren: "That's true!"

Rosie, the office boy says that he thinks Percy James has a voice like a steamboat whistle.

Agnes Hauge: "When do the faculty give their sturt?"
Erma Eagen: "Every day in chapel."

Stowe: "How are you today?"
Kinch: "Fine as a fiddle. And you?"

Stowe: "I'm the second fiddle."
Which reminds us that it is said that Alice Olsen has a cinch on Kinch.

AFTER THE RAIN

Eva Meyers (poking an angle-worm): "Oh, gee, I've lost my little worm."
Merrill Ginn: "Do you want another one?"

Eva Meyers: "Why, Mr. Ginn, this is so sudden."
