LOGGERS TO MEET FAST U. OF W. TEAM

Football followers of the College of Puget Sound will have a chance to see their team in action against one of the greatest college teams in the west in the Stadium at 2:30 Saturday, when the Loggers will meet the University of Washington Huskies. We will have the first chance to see what our team can do against competition of the strongest kind.

This game will be the home coming game, and it is expected that there will be a very large crowd of rooters for both teams. It is expected that the Huskies will be aided by a large number of rooters. The college should be represented by the largest body of fans they ever have had out. The Loggers' roster section should be filled with old students, alumni and students.

The team might not be expected to win, but they will go on the field and give all they have in them, and that is more than most of the teams will do. They realize that they are playing against a team that has had more experience, and that was a big weight advantage over them, but they are not daunted.

The Loggers have not the number of students to draw from that the Huskies have. They have twenty times the number of students we have. They showed what kind of football players they were last Saturday when they took the U. of S. C. down by a 22 to 0 score. We are certain that our Loggers are going into the game and make a good showing.

'Tis rumored that the Knights of the Log will entertain us with an initiation between halves. This organization is a newly founded organization to aid the athletic department, and care for the trophies of the college as well as uphold the traditions. They should give us some real amusement if the rumors are correct.

The old team is going in the game with all they have—it's up to us to back them in every way we can—Let's go!

The probable line-ups are:
C. P. S. U. of W.
McArthur REL Westrom
Swartz RTL Kuhn
Brown or Brady RGL Bryan
Wasson C Walters
Amende LGR Bellman
Blevins LTR Petrie
McDonald LER Hall
Parker Q Sherman
Allerdice RHL Wilson
Wellman LHR Ziel
Olene F Tesreau

FACULTY MEMBERS ENTHUSIASTIC

The faculty members are enthusiastic about homecoming day. The student body will be interested in noting the comments of the four who have been at the College of Puget Sound the longest. President Edward H. Todd, Senator Walter S. Davis, Professor Francis Hanawalt, and Miss Georgia Renau all believe that this event will mean a great deal to the school.

Dr. Todd has suggested a unique plan, that of presenting every alumnus with a tag so that it will be known to which side of the quadrant he belongs.

Quadrant One would include the students of every fourth year from 1893 to 1921, while quadrant number two would begin with the class of 1894. Number three would start from 1895 and number four from 1896. Every old and new student would wear the colors of his quadrant and class.

Each class could keep a record book and every former student register. This would probably lead to competition between the classes to score the greatest number of visitors in the years to come.

Doctor Todd hopes that the visitors will be able to see the new campus as probably only a few of them have been here. He believes this home coming to be the beginning of a great program which will probably be a permanent affair.

According to Senator Davis, the blossom and fruitage of any school are its alumni. They are its best friends. Their return shows their appreciation of the school and the student body should pay special attention to them.

Daniel Webster once said of his Alma Mater: "I know it is a small college but there are those who love it."

The alumni must keep acquainted with the college and feel interested in it in order that it become a part of their lives.

Senator Davis points out that it is interesting to note that homecoming day originated in New Hampshire in 1903. At that time the governor issued an invitation to former citizens to revisit the state and hold a one week reunion. Since then, colleges and universities have readily adopted the ideas.

Professor Hanawalt feels that homecoming day is at a particularly appropriate time. The educational association will hold its meeting just two days before this event and will end in time for the homecoming program.

Although it is practically a new thing, Professor Hanawalt believes that it will give the new members of the faculty a chance to get acquainted with the alumni.

Miss Renau would favor the plan of changing homecoming day to commencement week. By so doing time and money might be saved those who naturally like to return during that week. There would be no need of commencement overshadowing the event as it could be linked so as to stand out rather than be in competition with the other affairs planned for that time.

The success of homecoming week depends on the students here. Particularly will this be true on the new campus. There will be a strangeness to those who have never been there. In order to make them feel at home, they will have to be given a hearty welcome.

Yelling long and loud at the C. P. S.-U. of W. game Saturday will be one of the features of the day. Van Deventer, the yell king, will be aided by Ray Stewart and Archie O'Hiser.

The students and alumni will be in the rooster section. They will be the strongest boosters. There will be a special section to take care of organizations of the city that will come to the game in a body.

The rooting should be the best of the season. It is up to us, the student body, to give the old team the backing that we haven't been able to the last two games.

LOGGERS WIN WITH 13-0 SCORE

More fight and consistent fooball on the part of the Loggers enabled them to take the fast going Ellensburg Normal School team into camp by a 13 to 0 score, at Ellensburg Friday. The game was played on a sea of mud, and the players say that the mud on that field was real mud.

The Loggers went on the field in a badly crippled condition, but the old fighting spirit that has carried them to two victories and a tie score was there to carry them through to victory again. They were hampered by the long train ride Friday morning that slowed them up some during the first of the game.

Straight football was used by the college men, but the teachers relied on passing that netted them some gains for the first quarter. The Loggers fumbled considerably during the whole game, but they were able to recover the elusive pigskin in most cases. The muddy ball was responsible for the many fumbles.

The fast backs of the collegiate team all did their share of gaining ground. Leonard Olene proved himself a real hard hitting fullback, and the players were highly pleased with his work. This was the first game that he has been able to participate in for the college, because of an injury that he received before registration, while he was working in the woods. Allerdice again showed that he is the scrappy man he came here touted as.

The whole team showed the teamwork that has been praised all season. McNeal has developed a team that plays together as a machine instead of some men trying to get individual applause from the stands.

"Gas" Olene was injured during the latter part of the game and his place was taken by his brother, "Vas." Ralph Brown received an injury to his eye that is considered serious. The football fans and team are hoping that he may be back in the game next Saturday, but it is doubtful.

Scores were made in the third and fourth quarters. The first one came after the ball had been advanced down the field to the four yard line by Wellman, Allerdice and Leonard Olene. Parker carried it over. The second came in the last period after the Loggers went on the rampage. The Normal School team could not hold them, and our scrapping bunch shoved the ball across. Allerdice drop-kicked in the try for goal.

I'm out of ties, my socks are gone, I've only those that I have on. My last clean shirt went long ago. My handkerchiefs are running low. My collars, too, are going fast. My underwear will never last. I couldn't find my full dress pants and so I had to cut the dance. And when I try to work at night, Some brother plays with all his might. TO THE ALUMNI AND FORMER STUDENTS

The Trail is taking a large step this year in order to keep step with the other organizations of the school and the school itself. We feel that the Alumni and former students are the greatest assets any school can have. The subscription rates have been greatly reduced this year so that we may secure a much larger circulation.

The Trail is a medium of news that is not supplied by any other publication. It tells of the progress of the school as a whole and of the different departments.

We hope that all former students and alumni will take advantage of this opportunity and send us their name and address immediately.

Alumni and former students of C. P. S. are back on the campus for the homecoming celebration on October 26 and 27 will find more use for the humble night shirt and pajamas than that prescribed for them in Webster's dictionary. For, according to present arrangements the aforementioned garments are to play an important role in the big parade and serpentine thru the town theatre district Friday night, October 26.

It is predicted that the awe-inspiring regalia commonly worn by the Ku Klux Klan will appear very mild indeed as compared with that to be worn by the collegians. Former grads are urged to forget their worldly dignity for a night and join in the hilarity.

Proceeding the parade, a big pep rally and bonfire will be staged on the athletic field when gridiron stars of former years as well as the present members of the team will be called on for short speeches.

The entire program to be staged in honor of returning alumni will be in the hands of the "Knights of the Log," a new organization which has recently been organized at the College. This organization has been patterned after the national fraternity "Knights of the Hook," and will be functioning in its full capacity for that occasion.

The Knights of the Log will have charge of the ticket sale at the gate on Saturday and will patrol the Stadium during the big game. Between halves, a public initiation of the frosh members will be held in the center of the field. This ceremony will entitle them to wear the sweater bearing the Log emblem.

Another feature will be the form-

SPLINTERS AND LOGS

The College of Puget Sound has started out on a new tangent in the way of publicity and for the first time in her history has an organization for pep and school traditions.

Two weeks ago a former U. of W. student mentioned the fact that our school should have an honorary fraternity similar to that of the Knights of the Hook, the well known U. of W. organization. Right then then C. P. S. spirit came to life, even bigger than life and the Sophomore boys took the situation in hand and formed an organization, The Knights of the Log. This name was chosen from the name and reputation that the school has as being a logger school. The emblem of the new Frat will be a log with the ax deep into the bark of the log. This Log, it is hoped, will be at the Washington game and then at every other game that is held with C. P. S. as a participant. At this time, there are twenty-four members in the Log, ten of them being charter members and fourteen pledges, the freshmen. All the pledges and members have pledged to service, loyalty and sacrifice to C. P. S.

Soon after the boys were well under way, the freshman girls thought that they could also be of service to the school and came forth with a society called the Ladies of the Splinter. Velva Cory, president of the Splinters, tells us that these loyal girls are going to do their best to arouse better school spirit and to back every campus activity. For the pep rally, held by the Knights of the Log on Friday night, these Splinters are going to kindle the fire that the Knights have promised to build. At the pep rally there will be yells lead by Van, school songs, some talks from the coach and members of the team. Then a wind-up will be made by going down town and having a night shirt parade and a visit to the shows.

We are assured, by Phil Huf, that the Log will make a name for the school and with the support of the Splinter and student body can place this school in the lime light of the Northwest.

al presentation and adoption of the Loggers' battle trophy, a cedar log with a double bitted ax firmly embedded in it. It is expected that this trophy will come to have as great a significance to C. P. S. students as the big stick has to Washington or the Beaver to O. A. C.

WHY HAVE HOME COMING DAY?

For most of us college life covers a period of four short years, and these four years are, I believe the happiest years of our whole lives. But even though we cannot remain longer in college residence, may we not carry with us some of that spirit of idealism that makes college life worthwhile. I feel sure that this is possible for all of us and it is a common observation that those who are able to do this in the greatest measure are the ones who are making the greatest true successes. By this I mean success, measured not in terms of political or monetary power but in the terms of service rendered.

We know, however, that even the strongest impulses become less keen as time rolls by and college memories tend to fall rapidly into the background. For this reason Home Coming is of definite value. It re-ramps the perspective to come back to the old Alma Mater, to dream the same dreams and see the same visions as in student days. The "Alum" goes back to his job feeling as fit and determined as the day he left school. Seeing the old bunch again is just like a glorified family reunion.

But the benefits are not all on the one side. The student body receives much inspiration from the older group. The loyalty and devotion of the Alumni to the Alma Mater is a revelation to the new students in whom the buds of school loyalty are just unfolding. The old "grade" can do wonders in producing the right kind of spirit among those of the active group on the campus.

Next Saturday, Oct. 27, will be the last homecoming celebration on the old campus. We would like to have every Alumnus present, so come all who can. We need you and we will try to make it worth your while.

J. EVERETT BUCKLEY,
President A. S. C. P. S.

WELCOME, ALUMNI

Alumni, we are waiting anxiously to welcome you Home Coming Day, October 27th, on the old campus and to introduce you to the new. The great football game between the U. of W. and C. P. S. is a worthy incident of the day.

We will welcome you to the old campus on the annual Home Coming Day for the last time. One college function after another will have its last session on the old campus as the year progresses. Then at the close we will say, "Out of the old house, Nancy, into the new." But this spot of ground will always be dear to us. As it looks now, it is only a matter of weeks until the old campus will be so changed you will hardly recognize it.

We desire to welcome you to the new campus, where C. H. Jones Hall is rising. The soil which will be beneath the ground floor of that building should be consecrated by the foot prints of the old grads, that together we may seal the future with a united devotion to C. P. S.

We desire you to feel the thrill which has come to us as we have seen the beginning of a new plant for Alma Mater.

We welcome you because your Alma Mater is crossing Jordan to her promised Land. You have a priority position in the procession. So pack up the memory of traditions of your day in "your old kit bag, and smile, smile, smile," as we greet you on Home Coming Day.

In behalf of the trustees and the faculty, I bid you come to receive your welcome.

EDWARD H. TODD,
President.

TO THE ALUMNI

The Alumni of any organization are its strongest asset. Thus the strength and enthusiasm of the Alumni has direct bearing upon the success of that institution in any enterprise in which it may be engaged.

The College of Puget Sound is trying to put over a football program this year greater than anything ever attempted in the history of the college. It needs support from every quarter, and it is not asking too much when it expects the whole-hearted, undivided support of its alumni.

Loyalty to the institution of which you are a member is one of the most admirable characteristics that an individual can have. Alumni, we are giving you a chance to prove your loyalty to your Alma Mater. Don't expect the present student body to do it all. You far outnumber them, your support should be so much greater in proportion. So come on, alumni, we are depending upon you. Don't fail us.

Women's Executive Council

The Women's Executive Council held its first meeting of the year last Wednesday. This organization is made up of one representative from each organization in school with the Vice President of the Student Body as chairman ex-officio. Thru this Council it is hoped that a closer spirit of cooperation may be created between the girls and the Dean of Women in upholding the standards of our college in our daily school life.

At the meeting last Wednesday the standards adopted last year by the council were carefully gone over and in some manner revised. Since it is our aim to make our college life as worth while as it is possible to make it, let us all cooperate to the fullest extent in living up to the standards of conduct which are presented. May every girl feel a personal responsibility in carrying them out to the fullest extent of her ability.

Standards Adopted by the Women's Council

- In general, Monday to Thursday nights inclusive shall be kept free for study purposes. From occasions which constitute legitimate exceptions to this, direct return home is expected.
- Women shall be in their houses by ten-fifteen Sunday nights, and by twelve-thirty on Friday and Saturday nights.
- Informal entertaining shall close not later than eleven thirty Friday and Saturday nights.
- No men callers shall be permitted on college nights without the consent of the house-mother. Callers as a usual thing will not be received before five p. m.
- Neither men callers nor escorts returning women to the house shall be entertained after eleven o'clock on Friday and Saturday nights, and ten-fifteen on Sunday nights. This holds for doorsteps, walks, etc.

Dean: "Well, didn't you get my letter?"

Culprit: "Yes, sir, I read it on the inside and it said, 'you're expelled.' Then I looked outside and it said, 'Return in five days.'"—Collegian Reporter.

KAPPA SIGMA THETA

We had just a wonderful meeting last Wednesday! First of all Lorene Bonds favored us with two delightful piano solos from McDowell's works, and secondly, we think we're about the most fortunate girls in having Miss Crasper for our advisor. She so thrilled us with the account of her travels in France and England that we felt like Alice in Wonderland. Just to think that one of our own number had been across the big Atlantic Ocean and had seen all the things of which our history books have recounted, made us feel that those countries lived. To become somewhat acquainted with the scenery of France, of the importance of trees in the Frenchman's landscape; to be impressed with barrenness of the devastated regions, and to feel more deeply the meaning of those rows of white crosses each bearing an American flag, and the significance of the poppy fields. Then to realize, that our own beloved mountain is no less wonderful, no less majestic than the famous Alps.

And in England we felt closer to the homes of authors and poets and to get the quiet beauty of that small land. And last but not least in England, their thoroly sensible idea of having "bank holidays." We were so very fearful for the moment that we might lose one of our dear sisters but a week has passed by and we see that she is still here and hope that she will continue to enjoy the "bank holidays" in America.

All these accounts and more held us spellbound and we should have been glad to listen all night only we were afraid Mr. Swaze would urge us to depart.

Thank you, Miss Crasper, for your willing kindness.

OXFORD CLUB

The Oxford Club did not hold its regular Monday noon meeting. The one subject of vital interest to the Student Body at large is the forthcoming game. In view of this the Oxford Club very condescendingly postponed its own meeting to allow its members to attend meetings working in the interest of the U. of W.-C. P. S. game.

SCIENTIFICIANS

The Scienticians held their October meeting at the home of Miss Frances Clinton. Talk about dinner, oh boy, strawberry shortcake and everything.

After dinner we initiated our pledges. They say they are duly initiated, so we guess they are.

Say, folks! You know we're going to play the U. of W. Saturday, don't you? Well, after that when we come home with our chests all swelled up, Dr. Hill wants us to come down to Epworth on Sunday night. It's going to be a meeting for College folk. If on the other hand our chests are smashed in, we must come anyway to get them back to normal again. So in any event, let's be at Epworth, on the evening of the 28th.

Miss Jessie Rummel, a graduate of C. P. S. and formerly head of the Art department at C. P. S. has left for Paris, where she will become a faculty member of the School of Fine and Applied Arts, a branch of the New York school of the same name. Miss Rummel will teach interior decorating at the Paris school.

Home Coming
(Erma Eagan)

The night was dark save for the pale light shed by the fitful moon as it scurried from one threatening cloud to another. The wind whistled thru the trees with weird calling voices, and causing the branches to make haunting shadows across the path. Out of the stillness came the hair-raising cry of a bird, or a small animal. The world was asleep, save a lone figure which fearfully tread the shadow-checked path. As he walked he glanced apprehensively from side to side as if he expected to be stricken down at any moment. Ahead of him he saw the opening of the trees which told him the deep wood was almost traversed. He heaved a sigh of intense relief as he

Strength finally forsaking him, he dropped to the ground, panting. He had lost his hat in his hurried retreat and his sparse hairs stood at attention. His eyes, which were small and beady, seemed about to pop from his head as he vainly tried to recover his lost breath. He was just straightening his collar and tie and mopping the proverbially cold perspiration from his brow when he heard voices. Feeling that should a legion of devils swoop down upon him he could not move, he shrank back into the shadows fervently hoping he would not be seen by these midnight prowlers. The voices drew nearer. Perhaps they were tramps. He shrank even farther into the prickling bushes. His groping hand encountered something cold and moist. A shriek rose to his lips but he stifled it. Had he drawn a chalk line on his face at that moment, it would have left a black mark. The voices came nearer. They pierced the gloom like the toll of a knell.

is sure doing his onions this year." At a slight lull in the conversation the latest addition to the company spoke up timidly.

"It seems to me that college isn't what it used to be in my day. There's too much going on. My boy is always rushed to death. I can't see when he studies. When I was in colleg—"
"Yeah, but times is changed. This is a fast age. Ya' gotta be in every thing or people'll think you're a sinker. Ya gotta be in everything that's goin' on or you aren't a regular fellow. Studying aint in the deal no more," he concluded slyly winking at his companions.

"Yes, football is a remarkable game," said the collegian, complacently. When I went to college I played some myself. I remember one game we played—"
And the wind kept whistling, and the crickets stopt chirping and the moon dodged behind a cloud. Out of the darkness came a low moan. "Skeezicks!" shouted one of the boys. "Yea Bo! Have at'er! Tackle 'em low" and they dove for the moan. From under a pile of arms and legs came the yell, not of a ghost or a devil, but of an injured human.

"Pile off, boys, let's look at 'im," said the leader.
Wrathfully brushing the dust from his clothes, and wiping the blood from his nose, the apparent cause of the low moan began to sputter. "Well, of all the—"

"Hold 'er there, Diogenes. This is a bunch of college students. Speak your mind," he was genially admonished by his captors.

"Well, I suppose you're the reception committee. Glad to know you all. Reed's my name. Used to play football some."

At this, the small individual, became interested and joined the group.

"So you're Bill Reed, are you? I'm Andy Thompson."

"Not Andy Thompson, my old quarter?"

"Absolutely! What in the world are you doing at this time of night, out in these deep woods?" Thompson inquired with a smile.

"Well they got me down for a speech at this feed and I can't talk straight to a donkey engine much less a bunch of intellectuals like you to college. When I used to play football I always had to give a speech." He made a wry face. "You know, Andy, I never was much on the talking," and the two laughed as old memories flooded thru their minds.

"Tut," likewise pish and tish to say nothing of a couple of poohs, poohs," vociferated one of the intellectuals. "That's one thing you gotta do everything else but."

United by a common bond, the group filed into the gymnasium singing. "There is a school on Puget Sound" and were greeted by yells from those assembled. Yes, home-comings are revealing, but this life's a dangerous business after all. Few get out of it alive.

MY SHADOW

Last night while I sweetly slumbered
Neath the spell of the silvery moon,
Our neighbor's black cat
(Oh for a brick bat)
Went forth with its lover to spoon.

Oh why should my dream be sundered
And my romance be no more?
My dream was so sweet
I dreamed that dear Pete
Held me close in his arms as of yore.

Then came the cruel awakening,
I sat up in bed cold with fright,
I thot Pete was dead
Or that he had fled,
Else why shivered I so in the night?

And now today my dinner
Was surely spoiled forever more,
For that self same cat
In the gravy sat,
As I tripped over it on the floor.

Daily must I get thinner,
As often in sudden fright,
Red eyes thru space,
Jump in my face
When I come home late at night.

Some night may I sweetly slumber,
Some day make gravy in peace,
When the cats all fly,
To the blue blue sky,
On life I'll have a new lease.

At the ninth annual session of the Wyoming State Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church which convened in Laramie, Wyoming, September 19th, Bishop Charles L. Mead presiding, action was taken to establish the Wesley Foundation as a Conference enterprise. The last Sunday in October will be observed annually as "Wesley Foundation Sunday" at which time the work of the Foundation will be presented in the churches and offerings taken to supplement the contribution of the Wesley Foundation Joint Committee. The Laramie Methodist church is rendering special ministry to the Methodist constituency of the University of Wyoming, and with further financial assistance will be enabled to serve the students more adequately. President Arthur G. Crane of the University addressed the conference and assured his audience of his interest in the Wesley Foundation and its work and promised the full cooperation of the University in their enterprise.

"Use this one at your next society debate dinner," advises the "Collegian Reporter": "They all know just when to laugh because they have heard it before."

The chairman of the gas company was making a popular address:

"Think of the good the gas company has done," he cried, "If I were permitted a pun I would say in the words of the immortal poet, "Honor the light brigade."

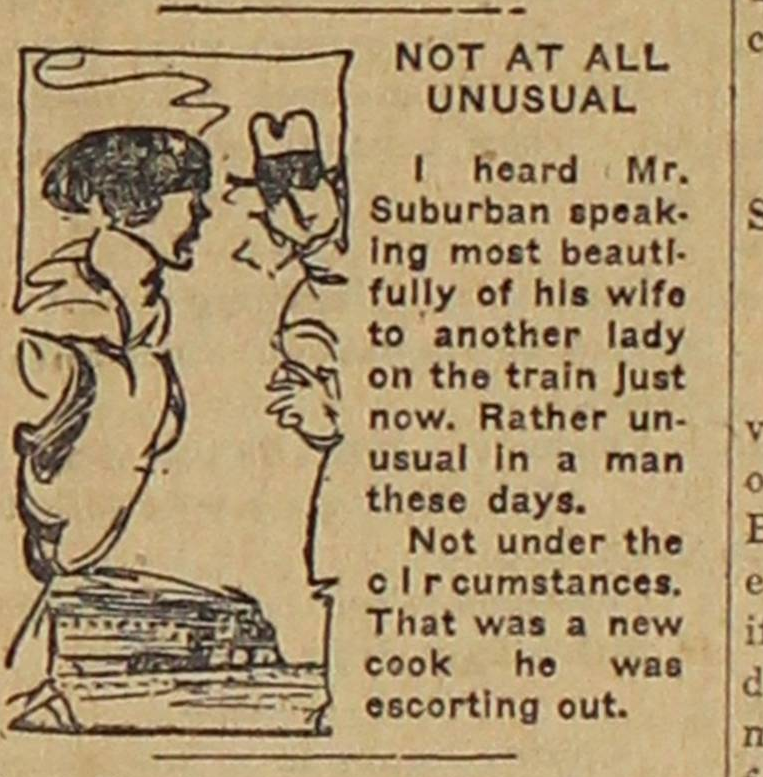

At this point a consumer jumped up with the shout, "Oh, what a charge they made!"

MAKING LIGHT RAYS COOLER
Motion Picture Filter Coated With Pure Gold Removes 90 Per Cent of Heat.

Coated with pure gold, a filter has been made that removes 90 per cent of the heat from light rays used in projecting motion pictures, thus eliminating the danger of fire when the machine slows down or suddenly stops. By its use it is possible to halt the unwinding of a highly inflammable film and throw "still" pictures on the screen.

The device consists of two small glass disks, with the gold-sprayed sides cemented together, thus making a single lens. Fitted above the projection aperture while a reel is being run off, it automatically drops into place when the machine loses speed or halts. While it reflects objects as readily as an ordinary mirror, it is transparent when held to the light.

Rays filtered through it have a slight greenish cast, but not sufficient to blot out the picture. For years scientists have been searching for a means to take heat from light rays.

NOT AT ALL UNUSUAL
I heard Mr. Suburban speaking most beautifully of his wife to another lady on the train just now. Rather unusual in a man these days.

Not under the circumstances. That was a new cook he was escorting out.

SCARED HER INTO IT
The bashful boy had fully decided to ask his sweetheart's hand in matrimony. She, too, was bashful, so gave him little encouragement, and he hardly knew how to pop the question. After much discussion of the weather, etc., he continued: "You know the moon makes me think of a lot of things. Will you marry me?"

"Why, John, you scare me," she replied.

Nothing more was said of matrimony and for months his visits were kept up with no further reference to the subject, until one day much to John's joy and surprise, his sweetheart ventured, "John, scare me again."—Capper's Weekly.

PUZZLING INDEED

The doctor's wife had advertised for a girl to do housework, and was showing an applicant over the house. She had been liberal in her promises of privileges and it looked as though the two were going to come to an agreement, when the girl asked:

"Do you do your own stretchin'?"
"Do we do our own what?" asked the puzzled mistress.

"Stretchin'," repeated the girl. "Do you put all the grub on the table and stretch for it, or do I have to shuffle it around?"

SECRETARY HUGHES ON THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

Secretary of State Hughes, speaking at a dinner to President James Norman Angell of Yale University held in connection with the convocation exercises of Brown University at Providence, Rhode Island, October 9th, asserted that the primary need of the American university—now more than ever—was to inculcate the desire for serenity, reflection, sobriety of reason and calmness of judgment. Deploring the "delusive facility" with which information is acquired today, thanks to the movie, the radio, the facility of communication and the ever expanding enterprise of the press, Secretary Hughes said:

"I think it is the experience of public officers that it is not the proper work of the office that wears, but the unceasing requirements of those who have little to do with the public business, and by their constant importunities for extra official attention, use up the nervous energy which should be devoted to public service." He went on to say that the universities, overwhelmed by numbers, were forced to use various methods of elimination and processes of selection of students.

"But in some way America must continue to provide the opportunities of liberal education for the average man. We must train leaders, we must give of the best to the best, but democracy needs not simply a chosen few, but the elevation of the standards of life and thought among the masses of the people to the fullest extent practicable."

No one, Mr. Hughes said, who wants a higher education along humanistic as well as along vocational or professional lines, should be denied it for lack of resources. Educational standards remain the same, and teachers should not succumb to the desire for notoriety by using sensational methods and by purveying hasty generalization and imperfectly considered observations.

"There is no objection to the desire for vividness, and, of course, there can and should be no restraint upon eager interest. There is no object to realism; on the contrary we demand it if it will only be realism and show life whole." He explained that conditions in a world afflicted with distemper, suspicion, and distrust where hatred was rife and the seeds of strife had been lavishly sown, could not be changed by preachments.

"You cannot make the university a substitute for discipline of life; and in all our education schemes it must never be forgotten that you cannot by the study of books obtain the equivalent of contact with men. But you can create an attitude that favors understanding and disseminate the knowledge of conditions that leads to an exact appreciation."

STUDENTS SHOULD CONTROL COLLEGE, SAYS PROFESSOR

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 19.—Advocating a new and radical program of higher education, Professor J. V. Breitweiser, associate professor of education at the University of California, today declared that students should select, dismiss and promote their professors; university affairs should be controlled by a group selected from the student body and faculty; degrees should be abolished and diplomas awarded solely upon the basis of accomplishment, and all courses should be elective.

C. P. S. PROF. SEES HUMANITY AS THREE BIG BONES

Society, according to Prof. C. W. Topping, the new member of the faculty of the College of Puget Sound, who has recently joined the staff from Columbia University, may be divided into wishbone, funnybone and backbone.

He spoke to the Lions Club Thursday, declaring the idealist represents the wishbone, the newspaper columnist typifies the funnybone and the scientist the backbone in his digging down to fundamentals. He urged the Lions to get some of the idealism, not to lose any of their sense of humor, but above all to have backbone; in other words, to be Lions, and not jellyfish.

The Lions agreed to again take the Girl Scouts under their care, and will join in their parade October 26. They also agreed to attend the University of Washington-College of Puget Sound football game October 27.

DEBATE

Next Monday, after the chapel period, there will be a debate on the Philippine Independence. This debate held in the chapel, is thrown open to students, faculty, and friends. The Philippine Independence is one of the problems of the U. S. of today. If you want to know about the Philippines, how much Uncle Sam has done there during the past two decades, it will be well worth while to attend this debate.

The subject is, "Resolved: That the Philippines should be granted their independence at this time." The affirmative will be supported by Miss Marion Gynn and Mrs. R. M. Owen; and the negative by Miss Brady and Mr. B. N. Smith.

The University of Washington College of Puget Sound football game scheduled for next Saturday has aroused more interest among the citizens of Tacoma than any game played here for many years. Business men are strong in supporting the game. Sixty members of the Lions' Club will attend in a body.

The visiting team is from the State University of over five thousand students. Their coming to Tacoma gives the college team a greater prestige, and places the athletics of the college on a higher plane. Their coming is creating a fellowship that is breaking down an athletic barrier which has existed for years between the University and the College. Some are interested because they think the game will be "sportier" on account of the high standing of the U. of W. Business men realize that this game gives publicity to the Stadium, to the College of Puget Sound and to the city of Tacoma. One citizen has said:

"It places Tacoma on the map as having at least one good football game." "I am not interested in football but am in this game," says one prominent citizen and businessman, "for it brings to our city one of the best trained teams on the Pacific Coast. It means that our C. P. S. team is no longer regarded as a "team of little boys, and it places the athletic department among the stronger athletics."

Don't forget your ticket report, every morning.

Former students, have you subscribed for the Trail?

Those good old days when the University of Puget Sound and the University of Washington used to match their brawn on the football field will be brought to the minds of the alumni and old students when the two teams meet in the Stadium Saturday at 2.30.

The two teams have not met for over ten years in a football contest. In 1903 the University of Puget Sound defeated the University of Washington. That season was the great year of this college's athletic career, but we are of the opinion, the present time that the Logger's teams are to be stronger in the future than they were in the past. This is hoped for by the alumni and the students of past and present.

In 1912 the U. of W. won by a small score, and the next year when Puget Sound put out a stronger team and was taking the long end of the score from some teams that had beaten the Washington team the latter refused to play them.

This refusal to play on the part of the University of Washington meant the doom for some years to come of the Puget Sound football teams. For some years this little college of ours was going down to defeat before some of the high school teams that they played. At this time the athletic situation was at a very low ebb, and something had to be done.

In 1919 Tom Swayze made out a football schedule that consisted of only teams of collegiate calibre. This policy has been followed out ever since, and games of high class football have been the result. At first it was hard to get games with these teams, but the last year or two we have had it easier to arrange a strong schedule.

Last year, there was only one conference team that we played. This season games have been sought by the U. of W., Gonzaga, U. of Montana, and the U. of Wyoming. It was not possible for games to be arranged with any but the U. of W., but it goes to show that the Loggers are building up a good football reputation.
