JOKES

"He has a great faculty of putting the cart before the horse."
"Oh, I wouldn't say that, he says he has the habit of trying to make the wheels run the motor."
—C-P-S—

"I once knew a man who left his money to the devil."
"With what results?"
"The lawyer got it."
—C-P-S—

After Auto Accident
"Why don't you pick that lady up?"
"Father told me never to pick up women."
—C-P-S—

Old colored mammy—Ah wants a ticket for Florence.
Ticket agent (after ten minutes of turning over railroad guides)—Where is Florence?
Old colored mammy—Sitting out dar on de bench.
—C-P-S—

A traveling man had waited about four hours for a train then started to negotiate for a vehicle to drive him to another town.
"I wouldn't go to that trouble," said the liveryman, "the train will be here pretty soon."
"What makes you think so?" said the salesman.
"Well, I'm pretty certain; here comes the conductor's dog."
—C-P-S—

First Freshman—I can't find a single pin. Where have they gone, anyway?
2nd Freshman—I don't know. They're all pointed one way and headed toward the other.
—C-P-S—

Willie—Pa, teacher said we are here to help others.
Pa—Yes, that's so.
Willie—Well, what are the others here for?
—C-P-S—

"What's the matter with Smith? Got lumbago, curvature or the spine or something?"
"Oh no, he walks that way to fit some shirts his wife made for him."
—C-P-S—

"Why are you mailing all those empty envelopes?"
"I'm cutting classes in a correspondence school."
—C-P-S—

A Texas attorney was delivering a fourth of July address. He had held forth for nearly an hour, apparently without getting anywhere. At length he stopped and an impressive tone said: "I pause to ask myself a question."
A voice from the back of the hall shouted: "Better not, you'll only get a foolish answer."
—C-P-S—

"I went to a stag party last night."
"Yes, I saw you staggering in last night."

"Why is that little fellow crying?"
"Because he can't have a holiday."
"Why can't he have a holiday?"
"Because he hasn't started to school yet."
—C-P-S—

"Did you hear about the short story writer who drowned in the lake last week while swimming?"
"Did he get the writer's cramp?"
—C-P-S—

Come gaze upon the little moth
Who eats no meat nor rolls,
And lives on zero cents per day
For all it eats is holes.
—C-P-S—

Dumm—I like Clara; she's a clever kid, but she won't go out with me.
Dummer—If she did she wouldn't be clever.
—C-P-S—

"How would you classify a telephone girl? Is hers a business or a profession?"
"Neither; it's a calling."
—C-P-S—

"Dad, I'm a stockholder on a big ranch."
"That so?"
"Yes, I hold the stock while another fellow milks them."
—C-P-S—

"Is my wife forward?" asked the passenger on the limited.
"She wasn't to me," replied the conductor.
—C-P-S—

He—What are kisses good for, anyway?
She—Just their face value.
—C-P-S—

Music Instructor—What are e pauses?
Pupil—They grow on cats.
—C-P-S—

The fond Mother approached the teacher anxiously.
"Oh, Professor, don't you think my little Randolph will ever learn to draw?"
"No, Madam—that is, unless you harness him to a truck," calmly replied the professor.
—C-P-S—

Mary had a swarm of bees
She nursed them tenderly
And everywhere that Mary went
The bees were sure to be.
They thought so much of Mary
In fact they'd risk their lives
To stick right close to Mary
Cause Mary had the hives.
—C-P-S—

Clancy stopped his friend Sweeny on the street one day.
"I hear you've moved, Sweeny. How do you like your new place?"
"Well, Mike, it costs me a lot more, but there's a lot of things go with it. And those contrivances are great things. Sure we've been living a month there now and the first day we lit the gas under the range and it hasn't gone out yet."
—C-P-S—

A doctor called on a negro who was down with influenza.
"What's I gwine to gib him?" asked the wife.
"Give him whiskey," replied the doctor.
"How much does it cost?"
When the doctor named the price of good whiskey per quart, the wife remarked:
"I can bury him cheaper dan dat."
—C-P-S—

A sign in a florist's window read—"Say it with moonshine."
Thru curiosity a man went inside to enquire about it.
The florist answered, "Wel if you 'say it with moonshine,' the flowers will follow later."

In Mrs. Hovious' fourth hour public speaking class one finds the quietest class in all C. P. S. No whispering is allowed at all!

One idle useless word between one freshman and another is sufficient grounds for getting kicked out of class. If one person gets kicked out twice, he has as much chance of getting back into class again as a snowball has in Helena, Mont.—the state from which Prof. Kelly hails.

The "silence system" may be all right. In fact it is a good thing because it makes it that much easier to sleep during the speeches.

Really, it is so quiet there that if a person drops a dozen pins at once, the students will think they are in a boiler shop.

ANOTHER RIDDLE
The League of of Nations is just as alive as the Congress of the United States, declares Dean John H. Wigmore of the Northwestern University Law School. Some persons will wonder just what he meant by that.

The Great Gift

Nature has opened her generous hands for the children of Earth; has bestowed on us—through the precious gift of Vision—more than the wealth of Kings, finer colorings than those of the greatest artists, more subtle changes than all the arts and sciences of man have yet created.

The eyes are the Gateway to the mind; the Expression of the Soul; the Inspiration of the Heart. By their miracle are the pages laid open—"Where lie vast stores of learning"; where the workings of numberless minds are yours; the pulse of countless hearts, the history of all peoples. Ours is the sacred duty of conserving this precious gift; yours is the solemn obligation of keeping at its best this priceless heritage.
