YOUNG PEOPLE PRESENT PLAY NEXT SUNDAY

Epworth Players Will Give
"The Other Wise Man," by Van Dyke

The beautiful story of the "Other Wise Man" by Henry Van Dyke, will be produced by the Epworth Players, an organization of college and church young people, on Sunday night, December 21, at Epworth Church. The play is in four acts, the first in Artaban's House where his discoveries and plans are presented to his friends. The second is a scene in the desert, where Artaban stops to minister to a dying man. The third is many years later in Bethlehem; the last near Golgotha on the day of the crucifixion, thirty years after the original scene. The players are working hard to prove the correctness of their theory that the great and fundamental ideas of Christianity may be profitably shown thru the medium of drama, and it is hoped and expected that the Epworth players will give a great deal of service as well as arouse interest in their field.

The cast is as follows:
Act I
Artaban, a leader of the Magi, Raymond Rees.
Abgarus, a venerable friend, Mr. G. P. Hedley.
Royal treasurer, Elmer Beckman.
A learned man, Edward Ernst.
Noblemen, friends of Artaban, Henry Ernst, David Tuell.
Act II
A dying Jew, Harold Nelson.
Act III
A mother, Dorothy Getty.
Soldiers, Ernest Miller, Mark White.

Act IV
A citizen, Ernest Miller.
Other citizens, Dorothy Getty, Katherine Bradley, Norma Huseby, A Child, Rose Leah Warner.
The Captive, Erma Eagan.
The Captain, Mark White.
Other soldiers.
The play is given under the direction of Mrs. O'Flynn and the management of Katherine Bradley, Norma Huseby, assisted by Mrs. G. P. Hedley, Lois Hoover and Myrtle Warren, has charge of the costuming. Bob Burrows, with the efficient help of Ernest Miller will arrange the scenery and lighting.
The players are anxious to have many of the college people in attendance as they desire to enlarge their membership and expand their work.

MEN ARE CHOSEN FOR VARSITY DEBATES

The tryouts for the men's varsity debate team were held last Thursday afternoon at 2:30, on the question: "Resolved, That Congress be given the right to override decisions of the Supreme Court." The men who were chosen to clash with the debaters from the University of West Virginia were Chester Bissen, Allison Wetmore, and Merrill Guernsey. The West Virginia team will uphold the affirmative of the Supreme Court question. The same men with the addition of Bronson Smith will meet Willamette later in the season on the same question. If more men care to try out there is a possibility of scheduling another debate, as Albany, Pacific, Linfield, and Wheaton College of Illinois all wish to debate Puget Sound.

"Are you laughing at me?" demanded the irate professor of his class.
"No," came the answer in chorus.
"Well," insisted the professor, "what else is there in the room to laugh at?"—College of the Pacific Weekly.

PEACE ON EARTH

A CHRISTMAS STORY

By Dick Yost

An old man, stooped from the heavy burdens and cares of life and dressed in meagre and shabby attire, slipped past the usher and dropped into an empty pew in the rear of the large, fashionable church. Yes, it was much warmer in here. He would have at least a few moments of comfortable respite from the bitter cold and darkness of the night. He was becoming drowsy—it must be because of the warmth. He had no cognizance of what was being enacted about him. Was he mistaken or did he really hear a voice speaking to him. Surely he must be dreaming for he had not since he could remember heard such a clear, soft voice pouring into his very soul words that seemed strangely familiar to him:

"—And an angel, shining in the glory of the Lord, stood by the shepherds. They were greatly frightened, but the angel said unto them: 'Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all the people: for there is born to you this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord. And this is the sign unto you: ye shall find a babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, and lying in a manger.'"
"Suddenly there appeared a throng of the heavenly host singing praises unto God, saying:
"Glory to God in the highest,
And on earth peace, good will toward men."

And on earth peace, good will toward men.
"And when the angels had repaired into heaven again, the shepherds hastened to Bethlehem and found both Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger. After making known to all the things that had been spoken unto them about this child they went back to their flocks glorifying God for all the things that they had seen and heard in fulfillment of what had been told them—"

The man aroused himself from his lethargy. So absorbed was he by these words, which seemed to him to have come from another world, that he did not hear the remainder of the service. Not until all other had departed did he leave his pew, his carriage more erect, a new light of calm and assurance upon his face. Before stepping fearlessly out into the bleak night he paused at the door, lifted his hands heavenward, and murmured his prayer for all man-kind:
"GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST AND ON EARTH PEACE, GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN."

NEW BOOKS ON DISPLAY IN LIBRARY

Magazine Racks are Provided;
Many New Books are Added

Several additions have been made to the equipment of the college library. In place of having the magazines scattered about in a disordered manner on one of the tables, two magazine racks have been provided. The magazines are in alphabetical order, and the arrangement is very convenient. Another useful feature is the display case for new books. By means of this the students can find out what new books are available for their use.

A welcome addition from the librarian's standpoint, to the equipment, is the "book truck." This will save much time and energy when putting the books back on the shelves.

Perhaps the most important addition to the library is the new books which have just been put on display. A partial list of the new books is given here, and a complete list will be published later.
The students of the college are fortunate in having such a well equipped library, and the intention is to add many new books to the collection each year.

New Books
The Constitution of the United States, James M. Black; The Supreme Court in U. S. History, three volumes, Chas. Warren; The Story of American Democracy, Willis Mason West; A Treatise on Inorganic and Theoretical Chemistry, five volumes, J. W. Mellor; Then and Now in Education, Otis W. Caldwell; Stuart A. Curtis; The Story of the Trust Companies, Edward Ten Broeck Perine; Immigration, Edith Abbott; Origins of Sociology, A. W. Small; Fundamentals of Social Psychology, Emory S. Bogardus; Elements of Applied Physics, Alpheus W. Smith; Advanced Practical Physics for Students, Worsnop and Flint; The Theory of Optics, Sir Arthur Schuster.

MONDAY NIGHT IS AGAIN OPEN TO SOCIETIES

Meetings Must End by 9 O'clock; Programs to Be of High Literary Character

Last Thursday afternoon, the faculty of the college met for the final decision on a question that has been troubling them for some time. That question was, shall Philo and Amphic be allowed to return to their regular meeting time, Monday evening of each week, or shall they be forced to continue meeting on Friday evening, as has been the new rule, thus far this semester. It was decided that the societies should be allowed to resume meeting on Monday evenings, subject to certain restrictions, these conditions being as follows:

The societies shall adjourn not later than nine o'clock in the evening in order that the buildings may be closed by 9:15.

Entertainment features must be eliminated from the Monday night programs. The programs must be confined to literary work of a high character.

All social dates and entertainments must be confined to Friday and Saturday evenings or to evenings just preceding holidays.

The members of the two organizations are very glad to be able to assemble again on Monday evening, as there were so many conflicting affairs, such as games, debates, and parties on Friday evenings, that it was almost impossible to carry on the programs of the literary societies.

"Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men," was the theme of the informal Y. W. meeting Tuesday morning held in the blue triangle room. Over forty-five girls were present and enjoyed an inspirational message.

"Why the Chimes Rang" a pathetic story of the self-sacrifice of a little Italian walt was told by Mrs. Nicholls. Mrs. Hallen then spoke to the girls on the real meaning of Christmas. The only unpleasant feature was the fact that the bell had to ring all too soon.

PUGET SOUND MAY ENTER NEW FOOTBALL CONFERENCE

Robbins and McNeal Attend Northwest Conference Meeting; 1925 Grid Schedule Is Arranged

A new football conference, composed of Whitman, Willamette, Pacific, Puget Sound, and possibly Linfield and the College of Idaho will probably be one result of the recent meeting of the Pacific Northwest Conference. The regular session of the conference was attended by Prof. Robbins and Coach McNeal, who met later with representatives from the other smaller schools and made plans for the formation of the new organization. They adopted the rules of the Northwest Conference thruout, and authorized the faculty representatives present to submit the plans to their respective college faculties for approval. If the plan is approved a meeting will be called at once to complete the organization.

TAMANAWAS EDITOR AND MANAGER ELECTED

At an election held last Wednesday, Erma Eagan was chosen editor of the college annual, the Tamanawas. At the same time Don Wellman was elected to the office of Business Manager. Both of the elected candidates received a considerable majority of the votes cast. Only a hundred students voted. The new officers have proved their ability in many ways, and there is every prospect of a better annual than ever. This will be the first year that the Tamanawas has been put out by the student body.

HONOR ROLL FOR LAST SEMESTER IS ANNOUNCED

List Is Longer Than for Previous Semester; Women Outnumber Men

The following list includes all students who have earned an average grade of 90 and above for the second semester of 1923-24.

In compiling this list, those students who still have conditions, incompletes or failures from this semester have not been considered.

Nelson, Harold	96.2
Edwards, Marcia	95.6

Ford, Frances	90.0
Hallen, Roy	90.0
Leatherwood, Harlan	90.0
Oksness, Alice	90.0
Walker, Fred	90.0

This list contains 16 more names than the one for the first semester of the same year, or 15% of the actual enrollment.

The Conference meeting itself was uneventful. The storm clouds reported by various newspapers to be gathering over the meeting failed to break, and everything proceeded peacefully. Action on the application of the College of Puget Sound for admission to the Northwest Conference was deferred because of the probability of the "Little Conference" being formed.

"Mac" succeeded in arranging an excellent schedule for the Loggers' 1925 grid team, with five games at home, one away, and two open dates. The schedule follows:
Oct. 13: Navy Team, Tacoma.
Oct. 19: Linfield, Tacoma.
Oct. 17: Open.
Oct. 24: Willamette, Tacoma.
Nov. 7: Open.
Nov. 14: Whitman, Walla Walla.
Nov. 21: Washington, Tacoma.
Coach McNeal also arranged a basketball schedule, which is given in this issue. When a few of the open dates are filled we will have a program that will keep the team busy and the fans interested.

SLATER SPEAKS AT VESPER SERVICE

An interesting talk was given by Professor Slater at the Vesper Services in the chapel last Sunday, on the "Relation of Religion to Scientific Knowledge." One point in his talk was that most of the conflict between religion and science arises because of people who know something about religion and nothing about science or people who have scientific knowledge but no knowledge of religion. Another point was that we can study both science and religion without having them conflict.

The vesper service was not attended as well as it should have been. Those who were absent missed a worth while talk.

Owing to the fact everyone is too busy to give any attention to vespers this week, there will be no service next Sunday. The services will be continued as usual after the holidays.

JOINT MEETING PLANNED FOR Y NEXT TUESDAY

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. will hold their regular joint meeting Tuesday morning, December 23 in the Amphic room. A clever program has been planned for the hour and the committee chairman are expecting a large turnout.

The following numbers are scheduled:

1. Reading, Rosemary Widman.
2. Trio, Leonard Olene, Mike Thornily, Francis Gammon.
3. Pantomime, "Mary Jane": Mary Jane, Dorothy Knight; Benjamin, Wendell Brown; Lord Mortimer, Bob Schmid; Father, Ronald Graham; Reader, Vella Tolles.

First coed: "There goes Hortense to another game. She goes to all of them now. She must have some end in view."
Second coed: "It isn't an end, it's a halfback!"—Hamline Oracle.

"I have such a dreadful cold in my head," complained Algy.
"Well," answered his companion, "that's better than nothing."—College of the Pacific Weekly.

The Trail Extends to Every Reader Its Best Wishes For a Happy and Joyful Christmas Season

In Our Realm of Society

This week marking the last sorority meetings before Christmas, the Wednesday afternoon affairs featured holiday programs.

The Delta Alpha Gamma Sorority gave a gay Christmas party in the Philomathean room at four o'clock. A Christmas tree, decorated with sparkling trimmings, gave the party a real Christmas atmosphere. Presents were exchanged, Delta Alpha Gamas becoming delighted youngsters, excited and eager for old Santa's treat.

The toys that Santa brought, of every shape and size, were taken to the children's wards of the County Hospital as a gift of cheer from the sorority.

An Alpha Gamma house party to be given the week end of the second of January, is being eagerly anticipated.—secret plans for a Saturday night dinner party included.

The houseparty is to be given at Sitcox Island, and will be a merry reunion for the alumni, members and pledges.

Lambda Sigma Chi held their Christmas festivities in the form of a dinner party and program at the home of Grace Eddy, Wednesday evening. A Christmas tree, laden with dainty gifts for the members of the sorority was a happy part of the program, which included the following numbers:

Christmas Joy, Frances Berglehaus, My happiest Christmas, Edith Mort.

The Star in the East, Grace Eddy. It's a kind Old World, After All, Winifred Longstreth.

Duet, Everilda Brewitt, Genevieve Bitney.

Jesus Christ, Who Taught Us Love, Mae Ernst.

Hostesses for the evening were the Misses Jane Campbell, Maude Hague, Genevieve Bitney, and Everilda Brewitt.

Kappa Sigma Theta Girls enjoyed a delightful program and spread at the home of Elsie Sheibler. The program was as follows: The First Christmas, Helen Adams.

And They Came Bringing Gifts, Margaret Schofield.

When Santa Comes in 1950, Elsiebeth Sheibler.

A Christmas Carol—Duet, Theo Melsener, Nadine Purkey.

Christmas Story, Evelyn Miller.

The Lament of the Little Fir Tree, Vivian Kruezer.

A Humorous Christmas Poem, Constance Clark.

How Willie Discovered There Wasn't Any Santa Claus—Stunt, Helen Lunde, Ruth Monroe, Margaret O'Connor, Edith Jones, Amy Dahlgren.

Dormitory Doings

Saturday night the Women's Dormitory will give another evening of hilarious fun—this holiday being in the form of a Christmas party. Games, which have been planned and concocted for weeks, are to be only a part of the peculiar entertainment of the evening, unique entrance of the guests is one of the main features.

"It's three o'clock in the morning"—Saturday at the Dorm. The Tripping Trio, beneath our windows, serenade us! Mystic and sweet were the strains, and great was the appreciation thereof.

Is this nice, we ask you? Mistletoe has been hung above the Dormitory doorway.

Dormitory spirit? It's quite commendable, really. Everybody is willing to cooperate, everyone is proud of the lovely home, and everybody contributes civily as well as spiritually. Yes, self-government, highly successful, is being carried out.

Not a quarrel this year—it surely seems that fifteen feminine creators can adapt themselves, agreeably, to their new and different environment.

May conditions so continue!

YOUTH

By Bobby Shanks

Welcome in, Miss Happy New Year

In your dainty white attire;

You're a pretty sparkling lady,

Truly something to admire!

Whence your downy gown of snowflakes,

Whence your crown of sparkling frost?

Cheeks like yours are very pink—

Miss,

And how much does your rouge cost?

Thank you for your kindness, dear sir—

May I sit here, by your fire?

Gowns of snow are rather chilly,

For a lady's gay attire.

Yes, you like my sparkling newness

Youth, and joy it makes you feel—

Ah, how fickle! In a few months

'26 will bring appeal.

Mary's Little Lamb

Mary had a little lamb

Her father shot it dead;

And now it goes to school with her,

Between two hunks of bread.

PHILOMATHEAN

Last Friday night the Baby Philos gave their program to a large crowd of enthusiastic and appreciative grown ups. The 'papa and mama' Philos felt a little sad in a way, though, when the bebed sweet little Miss Muffet, and pretty Little Boy Blue.—It reminded them so much of their own far away youth. But they wiped away their tears and laughed again and again at the charming infantile pranks of the youngsters.

OUR CHRISTMAS PRAYER By Frenchy

In reverence let our hearts abide In thankful joy and glee With spirit of the glad Yuletide— With the Man of Galilee. We come to give thee thanks, Our God, A heart, a home, a land Stretched o'er the earth on hallowed sod Of martyrs of thy band.

Forgive thy children's narrow path, Forgive our trust in might, Supplant the force of love for wrath, Dispel the wrong with right; May hate and war by man with man To love fall captive, cease,— From heaven to earth the echo span, Thy holy call to peace.. May cheer touch every lonely heart; May we live to set free Those wandering lives that drift apart Who haven't heard of thee. Smiles and heartaches, tears and cheers Thy children know as thou; We ask thee take away our fears, 'Tis "Peace" we seek for now.

Give eyes undimmed, thy star to see As shepherds long ago, A vision light for victory, A life as pure as snow. Let Christ-love be the guiding power, On paths that Christ hath trod May every passing, mounting hour Bring Christmas cheer of God

BASKET TEAM IS ROUNDING INTO SHAPE

Frosh Will Have Good Team; Practice Games Are Planned

With three weeks of practice to their credit, Mac's hoophmen are being rounded into a smooth machine. The men are turning out regularly and are working hard every night on plays and scrimmage.

Next week Coach McNeal hopes to have several practice games with other teams. This will give our men some experience in actual playing and a chance to perfect their game.

The Freshmen are numerous enough to form a team, and a few games with high schools are being planned during the next few weeks. Some of the college's best men are Freshmen and a good Frosh team will represent the school.

There are men enough to build up a second team to play a few practice games with local teams. The second team will give the men who cannot make the first team a chance to get some competition.

During part of the past week the squad has been working under the supervision of Blevins and Enochs while Coach McNeal attended the Northwest Conference meeting at Portland.

ALUMNI

Claude Turley, former Puget Sound student and star fullback of the Logger grid team in 1921, is now at Occidental College in Los Angeles. This fall he played his first year of varsity football for Occidental. His team was undefeated until the final game, when it went up against Pomona for the Southern California championship and lost. The Oxy team also went to Hawaii for a post-season game with the University of Honolulu.

E'lona Hart, '21-'23, is attending U. S. C.

Shirley Pannell is living in Seattle and attending U. of W.

Sylvia Smaby, who was here in 1923, is attending the U. B. C. this year.

Roy Norris, '24, and Dorothy Newell, '23, are married and are living at 5425 S. Junett. Roy is working at Dotson's Electric Service.

Frank Phil is attending the U. of W.

Newell Stone, '24, is living at Auburn and is working for the Standard Oil Co.

Russell Clay, '22, is in Arizona and is pastor of a church there.

SCHEDULE FOR BASKET BALL IS NOW ARRANGED

Four Open Dates Will Probably Be Filled; Spokane College Is New Opponent

A light schedule for basket ball has been prepared for this year. Altho the college will have only a ten or twelve game season, the caliber of its opponents is high. While Coach McNeal attended the Northwest Conference at Portland he had the opportunity of arranging the basket ball schedule with the other coaches who were present.

The team will make one trip south to play three games on successive days. On Feb. 19 the Loggers are matched with Willamette at Salem. The following day they play Pacific University at Forest Grove and on Feb. 21 they will meet Linfield college at McMinnville. Home games with the 3 teams are scheduled for the latter part of January and the first part of February.

The Loggers will have at least one new opponent this year in Spokane College. Spokane is scheduled to play here Feb. 24. The schedule as arranged is as follows:

FAREWELL TO 1924

With pre-holiday exams staring us in the face; with term papers coming due; with Christmas shopping depleting our already thin pocketbooks; and with all manner of student activities clamoring for our attention, few of us have had time to realize that the present year has just about run its course. Perhaps this is just as well, for there is little to be gained by worrying over the flight of time. Yet old 1924 is worthy of more than passing thought, for it has been, for our Alma Mater, the biggest year since 1892, when Puget Sound University first opened its doors. Last January found us housed in buildings that were excellent subjects for jokes and wise cracks, but which had become out of date and inadequate for any practical purposes. When we talked to outsiders about our college, we did not brag about our buildings and campus, but about the school itself; and to our own shame be it said that there were some students who were not even proud of that. Today we have the beginnings of what will some time be one of the finest campuses in the West, and as it grows we are also acquiring more of that spirit of respect and love for our Alma Mater, which is even more important than a fine college plant.

CHRISTMAS EVERY DAY

"Be of much good joy and cheer, Christmas comes but once a year." But I wonder if it's true. Did there ever come to you A thought that if each day we care Perhaps we will find Christmas there?

Santa Claus lives all year round Anywhere he may be found. For he's just the means we use Just a name we chance to choose For the good old-fashioned giving That's the best thing there's in living.

Merry Christmas! Any time. Doesn't cost a single dime, Just to give a greeting gay To a comrade on life's way Doesn't cost a cent to smile All year round. It's sure worth while.

Some folks seem to only see Once a year a Christmas tree. God's made them by the hundred score And every day he's making more. If some folks could only see Christmas time in every tree.

Christmas candles in the sky, Christmas day will soon pass by. But if we'll carry all the time A Christmas spirit that is fine Down in our hearts, I'm here to say Christmas will be every day.

College Students will enjoy the merchandise we are offering in Hats, Caps and Furnishings. CHAS. F. LEWIS & CO. Next to Rust Bldg. 948 Pac. Ave.

Freezing Sleepers Moan in Anguish

Mu Chi Porch Is Efficient Refrigerator

"O-o-o-o-o.ohhh!" "M-m-m-m-m!" "Brrr." Cries and moans of mortal anguish in the still and frosty night. There is no heed, for everyone within hearing knows that it is only the Sigma Mu Chi Fraternity putting itself to bed. The cause of all the disturbance is the new sleeping porch on the Mu Chi house. A week ago the inhabitants were loud in their praise of this addition, and of the benefits of sleeping in the fresh air. They are still proud of their sleeping-porch, but their affection for it lacks a certain warmth which previously characterized it. In fact, it is doubtful that the Mu Chi boys have any warm feelings left for anything.

for diminishing its effect. Some have substituted mattresses for blankets, altho not in any sense discarding the latter. Others have made use of various nondescript rugs, while it is rumored that Chumard is going to let his whiskers grow.

To add a touch of color to the wintry scene, one of the members has taken to reciting selections from "The Spell of the Yukon" for the benefit of all sleepers. This makes Press Wright homesick for Alaska, and he has threatened to go back up there to thaw out.

This aversion to cold on the part of the Mu Chi boys may be considered a sign of weakness—by those who have not slept on sleeping porches. Anyone who has not had the pleasure of jumping into a ice-cold bunk can get some idea of how it feels without going to the trouble of building a sleeping-porch. If he will get up some night at 2 A. M., when the temperature is around zero and go and jump in the bay he may experience something very similar to it. The only difference is that the bay never gets colder than about 39 degrees,—but blankets do!

The above-mentioned porch was constructed with the idea of furnishing the greatest possible quantity of good, pure, fresh air. The maximum degree of efficiency is attained when the wind comes from north-east-by-east northeast at a velocity of 7 1/2 miles per hour. These specifications have been met during the greater part of this week. As a result, the fellows are about "fed up" on fresh air, and several original methods have been devised

PEACE ON EARTH Evalyn Miller

"Peace on the Earth," the angels sang Long years ago to those who watched their flocks By night, far out on Bethlehem's lonely plain "Good will to all mankind," the anthem rang.

Three wise men from the East, came they Unto the manger bringing costly gifts As offerings unto Him who was their king Stopped to worship; and then upon their way.

Years pass, yet we again may see The star of hope that shines forever bright To guide us with our offerings to the King That we may worship with these other three.

Still if we listen we will find Re-echoed thru the heavens as of yore That sweet refrain unto the weary world "Peace on the earth, good will to all mankind."

"Did Bill ever kiss you?" "N-n-n-no." "He kissed me too."—Hamline Oracle.

SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

The Spirit of Christmas. What does it portend? Is this Spirit an all-pervading, intangible, actuating principle, or is it merely an agent of superstition? In what consists its influential attribute in the life of man? In answer, my mind suggests three possible solutions.

Last Friday I accompanied a small group of College students on an inspection tour of the city jail. One old gentleman, an incipient resident, from the battered and bloody appearance of his visage, gave evidence of having been animated by some unrelenting spirit. In the days that now precede Christmas many more unfortunates will feel the power of this spirit which will lead numbers of them to these same restraining quarters of the spirit-intoxicating brothers. These few remaining days will also witness a veritable exodus of men from the logging camps, mines, etc., to the larger metropolis. Why? Merely this. They too, are experiencing the influence of an as yet unseen power, and they come in answer to its call. A Spirit, you ask? Yea, verily. Not an all-pervading, tangible, superstitious one, however, but most assuredly an actuating Spirit—the Spirit of Hops and Barley. It may appear that the mention of this type of spirits in connection with Christmas is rather irrelevant to the discussion of the Spirit of Christmas, nevertheless it is a regrettable fact that to many men Christmas means nothing more nor less than just this.

Pick up the December 6th issue of the Saturday Evening Post, glance at the cover, and you will discover there the essence of my second solution of the problem raised. It is a picture of a small boy carrying wood into the house while Santa Claus hovers in the background and smilingly writes the boy's name in his log of "Good Boys." This small boy is shrewd enough to surmise that in the few remaining weeks before Christmas it is time to become a "Little Fairy" in the home. For reasons obvious to himself he must hurry home after school, help with the chores, run errands for mother, etc. What is the explanation? Has this Spirit of Christmas found its way into his being also? Undoubtedly it has. Intangible and actuating as it appears in this instance, it finds expression in a desire to assume an attitude of harmonious relationships with others, hypocritical though they may be, with the avowed intent of becoming recipients of their good will and generosity. The attitude of this little boy is symbolical of an altogether too large a percentage of individuals. As in the first example, it is a false conception of the Spirit of Christmas.

How, then, may this Spirit be exemplified? Most assuredly it is not embodied in the case of the man who looks upon the Christmas season as one of debauchery and gratifying self-indulgence. Nor is it personified in the instance of the small boy cited, or those who possess a selfish and condescending in-culcation of this Spirit for a short time preceding and during the Christmas season. With all sincerity I can say that the true interpretation of this Spirit of Christmas is exemplified in that type of individual who is actuated—yes, this Spirit is all-pervading, intangible and actuating when regarded in its true essence—throughout the entire year to show a spirit of good will toward his fellow men through the very joy of doing so. The true Spirit of Christmas exists only when the soul of man hears and hearkens—not only on Christmas Day but throughout all the days of his life—to these peaceful and reverential words sung unto the shepherds of long ago: "PEACE ON EARTH, GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN."
