Battin, will leave for Stockton, California, March 15, to participate in a series of debates to be held there March 23, 24 and 25. So far 26 teams have entered the competition, among them Stanford, Willamette, Linfield College and Washington State College.

On the way to Stockton the CPS team will meet Albany College, Stanford, Whittier College, University of Southern California, and University of California at Los Angeles. The last two universities will be met at Los Angeles, funds being supplied for the trip from Stockton to Los Angeles by private individuals.

POETS SPONSOR VERSE CONTEST

The Poetry club of CPS is sponsoring a contest for original verse to be contributed for a college anthology now in preparation by the Poets' Guild. A box has been arranged in the door of the registrar's office, in which manuscripts will be received until Tuesday, March 21. On that day the undergraduate members of the club will select five poems to send to the national judges.

Manuscripts are to be signed with a pen name but should be accompanied by a separate sheet with the author's name and pen name. This will insure impartial judging. The poems may be on any subject.

The Poetry club, recently organized here, held its second meeting in room 206 Thursday afternoon. A program of original poetry written by the members was enjoyed.

Harry Cain Speaks On Experiences

Harry Cain, introduced by William LeVeque, spoke in chapel Friday on his own experiences in college and his findings since graduation. Mr. Cain pointed out that students at a smaller college have the advantages of individuality. In dwelling upon athletics, he explained that they should be a means to an end and lead to such qualities as self-reliance and fortitude, thereby making one psychically "hard". That clear addition to a real appreciation of education is to be gained by informative reading of good literature, especially that which is removed from modern times, is the earnest belief and finding of Mr. Cain.

Thursday, the Sigma Zeta Epsilon quintet handed the Chi Nus their second defeat when they outplayed them to win 19 to 11. Montgomerie led the scoring with seven counters, while four Zetes tied with four points each. The game was hard played throughout and kept the crowd excited by the fast and furious action. This win gives the Zetes the lead at the half way mark in the schedule.

Grid Squad Scrimmages

Fundamentals, Pass Attack Stressed

Actual scrimmaging climaxed last week's session of spring football. For the past two weeks Coach Sandberg has been drilling grid fundamentals into his men and running plays in dummy scrimmages.

Sandy has been concentrating largely upon charging, blocking, tackling, and passing. Some of the old plays are being learned and a few new ones are being introduced, featuring a pass attack to a large extent.

Changes Prove Successful

Of the men to be shifted into new positions Coke McConnell and Howard Hass have shown most brilliantly. Both turned out last season but saw little action. McConnell was formerly a halfback and now goes to guard while Hass, previously a guard, is now in the backfield.

"We have an ideal schedule for next fall," says Sandy, "but it is plenty tough, and we will need a lot of men to carry through."

More Men Out

Since last releasing the names of those turning out, five suits have been issued. The new men are: Frye, Baker, Brown, Gibson and Nordlund.

less than two weeks off, coming on March 25, and will be held on the Loggers' field.

Coach O. F. Hite will rely largely on his distance men for the majority of the CPS counters this spring.

WANTED—A PUBLICITY MANAGER

Today Central Board will consider the feasibility of electing a Publicity Manager who will serve as an assistant to the General Manager. It is planned to pay him a salary of $50 a semester. It is felt that there is a shortage of college news being printed by the city and community papers.

The first shortcoming in the plan is the futility of making the General Manager's assistant handle college news. The duty of such an assistant is to help with the books, to keep these books in an orderly condition so that they are legible and can be easily balanced. What does a bookkeeper know about publicity? Where will you find a journalist who is a good bookkeeper?

College authorities, and some students, feel that the institution has not received its share of publicity from Tacoma papers. The truth of the matter is that Tacoma papers print what they believe will be of interest to their readers. Their expenditures have been cut to a minimum and cannot afford to print every paragraph of college news that is given them. College department heads may antagonize the editors of the dailies by their requests for unlimited space for stories, many of which are trivial and do not deserve much space.

There is not much news breaking on the campus that the downtown papers do not print. At present there are enrolled in the college two full-time employed Ledger reporters and four student correspondents. These correspondents earn a large part of their college expenses by covering Ledger news. To create this new office would be to take money away from these students, providing of course that this new manager is successful. City editors have faith in their correspondents' ability to cover all important stories. At the same time they do not place much stock in stories brought in by "publicity hounds."

If Central Board insists on this office and demands that it be established they should do so with the intention of placing it in the hands of the News Bureau and thus enlarging that department. Lack of funds and not overwork kept the News Bureau from sending out more publicity. Out of town publicity is as important to the college as the stories carried by the town papers. It is from these outlying districts that CPS will draw new students if enough publicity is given to the country newspaper. Certainly there is a need for a Publicity Manager but he should not be placed under the General Manager's supervision. Central Board should give this matter careful attention before taking action, unless it desires to throw away $50 a semester (the Publicity Manager's salary).

cess of making rayon from wood pulp to the finished cloth will be demonstrated in the rayon exhibit.

A valuable collection of gold ores will be exhibited by the geology department in addition to those of manganese, tin, mercury, and a few others. Amateur methods of prospecting and handling of ores will be demonstrated.

Members of the Biology club will show their new museum which they have been working on since last September. Special collections and specimens found on their field trips and other projects constitute the museum. They are also showing a collection of mounted birds and amphibia of the Northwest, and other Puget Sound marine animals. Demonstrations of bacteriological phenomena will be performed.

In the physics department, many of the harder projects worked out during the year will be demonstrated. The home economics classes will display groups of white rats which have been fed different diets to demonstrate the nutritive value of foods.
