ANNUAL SPORTS DAY PLANNED FOR WEEK-END

Cornish Fencing Exhibit Is High-Light of Affair

Girls from all over the state will be guests of the Women's Athletic Association of the College of Puget Sound at the second annual Sports Day being held today and tomorrow, on the campus. A two-day program has been planned to introduce new methods and games.

Two-Day Schedule of Events

Friday Night
4:00	Registration, Jones Hall.
6:30	Dinner, College Commons.
8:00	Swimming Exhibition, YWCA.
Saturday Morning
9:00	Organization, Gymnasium.
9:00 to 10:30	Badminton, Volleyball, skill tests
10:30 to 11:30	Basketball.
11:30 to 12:00	Social Dancing
Saturday Noon
12:30	Lunch, College Commons.
1:30	Program, Auditorium, Jones Hall.

One of the high-lights of the program will be a fencing exhibition from the Cornish School, directed by Harry Priestley. This exhibition has been arranged to interest the girls in this sport, since it is probable that fencing may be added to the gym curriculum in the near future.

General chairman for the affair is Mary Louise Erickson. Assisting her in her plans are Lois Kuhl, registration; Mary Jane Roberts, banquet; Marjorie Jenkins, Water Sports; Ruth Jensen, Saturday Activities; Betty Schaad, luncheon.

Chemistry Department to Present Lecturers on Pulp, Paper and Rayon

The Chemistry department of the College of Puget Sound will present a series of three lectures on pulp, paper, and rayon during the CPS Fiftieth Anniversary program according to Dr. G. F. Henry, head of the college chemistry department.

The chemistry department will take the date of March 5th of the anniversary week, presenting a program of interest to chemical industrialists in Washington and neighboring states.

Scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m. on the evening of March 5th, the program will open with a dinner meeting at which Dr. Bror L. Grondal, professor of forest products at the University of Washington, will speak on "The Forest as a Continuous Crop for Pulp."

Following at 8:00 p. m. "Pulp of the Northwest in View of a World Market" will be the subject of a talk by R. B. Wolf, director of the Pulp Division of the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company.

At 9:00 p. m. Dr. Maurice Kenney, Research Chemist for the Rayonier Co., Inc. of Shelton, Washington, will present a mov-

CPS DEBATERS GO TO LINFIELD

O'Dea and Yakima High Schools Win First In Recent Meet

Traveling to Linfield College for their annual three-day tournament were the following members of the Forensics department.

Entered in the extempore division were: Bob Byrd, Dewane Lamke, Katherine McConron, Charles Gleiser and Florence Ittner.

In oratory were: Dewane Lamka, Charles Shireman, James Docherty, Elizabeth Hardison and Katherine McConron.

Those participating in the university style debating were: Bob Byrd, James Docherty, Katherine McConron, Charles Gleiser, Charles Shireman, Margaret and Marie Gilstrap, Sara Louise Doub, Barbara Healy, Helen Gates, Edith May Hammond, Yoshiteru Kawano, Stanley Nash, Tom Ray, Paul Seto and Wilbur Baisinger.

About 40 teams will be entered in the tournament which opened Thursday morning.

Following are the results of the high school tournament. Coming out first in the university style were, O'Dea High School from Seattle and second was Bremerton High School. Tying for second place were Bellvue and Bellarmine. Winning first in cross-question debating was Yakima high school while Thorp and Highline tied for second. Everett high school placed third.

In the extempore contest Frank Hanawalt of Puyallup came in first while Margery Rosco, also of Puyallup, was second. Samuel Batt of Stadium, was third.

GROUND IS BROKEN HERE FOR WOMEN'S DORMITORY

PATRONS' AND FOUNDERS' DAY MARKED BY IMPRESSIVE CAMPUS CEREMONY

By ELEANOR ROBISON

Culminating 50 years of intensive effort and anticipation, the ground-breaking ceremony for the new women's dormitory to be constructed on the north side of the campus was held Wednesday morning during chapel period. The event was highly significant in view of the fact that Wednesday was Patrons' and Founders' Day, a day of recognition for those who have been outstanding in the history of The College. This year marks the fifteenth since the erection of Jones Hall.

SERIOUS DRAMA TO BE STAGED

Huge Cast To Be Included In "The Fool"

For their contribution to the College's Fiftieth Anniversary Celebration, Campus Playcrafters are presenting three performances of Channing Pollock's great serious drama, "The Fool." Evening performances will be given on Friday and Saturday, March 4 and 5. A special matinee will be given for seniors of neighboring high schools on Friday afternoon at 2:30. As part of the Anniversary program, "The Fool" is being given to students and friends of the College. There will be no admission charge.

New members included in the huge cast who will constitute the mob which plays such an important part in the action are: Howard Lynn, Neil Richardson, Clair Hanson, Walter Hopkins, Lyall Jamieson, Dewane Lamka, Richard Horr, Garth Dickens, Margaret Wilson, Eleanor Robison, Phyllis Anderson, Beulah Eskildsen, Ruth Reisner, Mary Ann Hawthorne, Doris Rosellini, Virginia Newman, and Marian Sherman.

DR. MARVIN SCHAFER TO ADDRESS GROUPS

This week Dr. Marvin R. Schaffer, professor of sociology, is scheduled to address four groups. On Tuesday evening he led a forum on "Cooperatives" in Everett. Friday evening he will lead another forum on the same subject in Seattle. Saturday he will speak for the University of Nebraska alumni charter day dinner at the University Women's Club, his subject being "The American Family Goes on the Rocks." Speaking on "A Christian Looks at Poverty," Dr. Schaffer will appear in Ballard Church in Seattle, Sunday evening.

SHELL TO INTERVIEW STUDENTS FOR JOBS

Dr. Theodore Evans, assistant director of the Shell development company's chemical laboratories in California, will be on the CPS campus Saturday forenoon, February 19, to interview members of the Chemistry department, hoping to locate men for the Shell organization. "Students majoring in chemistry or graduates from that department will do well to see him whether they plan to go into that line of work or some other branch of industrial chemistry," stated Professor McMillin.

Admitted to the Order of Patrons and Founders have been Mrs. F. B. Cherrington, wife of the first president of the Puget Sound University; and the Rev. Edwin M. Randall, first president of this institution and a member of the board of trustees of PSU.

New Building To Be Complete

"The new dormitory will be one complete unit of four that are being planned. It is to have a recreation hall, a sun-porch on top of the tower, and kitchenettes on two floors. The unit will accommodate 40 women and will be modern in every respect," stated Dr. Todd, who is celebrating his twenty-fifth year as president of CPS. The new buildings are being designed by Earl N. Dugan of Sutton, Whitney and Dugan.

Commented Mrs. Belle Reeves, recently appointed secretary of state for the state of Washington and a first cousin of Mrs. Todd's, "As a representative of the state, I feel that this should not be considered as merely a local event, but of state-wide importance."

"I am very pleased to be here and to partake in the ceremony which is another forward-step in the development of this magnificent institution," said Mayor George Smitley of Tacoma.

Representing the Chamber of Commerce, D. J. Young, vice president, said, "The Chamber of Commerce considers this an important step in the advancement of the entire Northwest."

Groundbreakers Are Numerous

Those who participated in the ground-breaking were: Dr. and Mrs. Todd, Mrs. Reeves, Judge William J. Millard, chief justice of the state supreme court; Bishop Titus Lowe, Mayor Smitley, Mr. Young, Howard R. Goold, superintendent of the Tacoma Public Schools; Dean Regester, Prof. Robbins, Senator Walter S. Davis, Mrs. Drushel, E. L. Blaine, chairman of the Board of Trustees; Mrs. T. W. Lynn, president of the Women's League of The College, and Mrs. James I. Muffley, a past president; Gordon Tuell, student body president; Betty Worden, president of the Women's Athletic Association; and the class presidents, Gene Millikan, Russell Perkins, Richard Sloat and Tom Ray.

After counting the slips it seems that more than 400 pledged themselves to buy a student directory, and there are now 300 left. The price is still a dime and you never know when it will come in handy!

SECTION OF AMERICAN YOUTH

Monday night a downtown paper printed a story about a 20-year old theological student who, it is alleged, told House of Representatives committeemen "he would not fight to protect his mother and sisters from foreign invaders." The student was Frank Littell of the Union Theological seminary and social action chairman of the National Council of Methodist Youth. He was questioned closely by the committeemen, because "they regarded his testimony as important because he represented a section of American youth."

The newspaper story said, "He told them he could not bear arms to defend the United States against a Japanese invasion."

"Such an invasion would mean that civilization is on the way down," he said.

This, of course, is foolish on the face of the thing. To remain acquiescent to foreign invasion would mean to become subservient to dictatorship and suppression by a foreign power. It is hardly our belief that this is what Mr. Littell meant to say. It is too contrary to reason.

It is well-known that Congress is composed largely of ex-lawyers, many of them very clever ones. It is evident that they know the old tricks of drawing something out of a victim's mouth that the victim has no real intention of saying. Whether this is what happened in the case of Frank Littell, we are hardly in the position to say. But what he is quoted as having said is hardly what can be expected of an intelligent person—youth or adult.

The absurdity to surpass all absurdities, however, occurs in the statement that "he represented a section of American youth." We have more faith in the intelligence of youth than that, and besides we know the opinions of youth, while largely anti-war, are too diverse to be represented in the words of one person.

The following is a panel of opinion on the subject of grades:

Achievement or Apple-Polish

Tuesday morning, for over two hours, the students of this college excitedly lined up before the registrar's window to receive a silly-looking slip of typewritten paper with a few symbols called grades upon it. For two months this significant piece of paper has been the prime subject of discussion by every "bull-fest" organization on the campus.

But what does it all amount to? Is it a measure of ability, achievement or character? Or is it a measure of apple-polish, banana oil, and highly efficient cribbing? Although, of course, this last alternative is not the general case, there is enough of it to make the importance attached to grades a ridiculous farce.

Herbert Hite.

Psychology of Grades

Nervous, non-talkative students walking about in the front hall awaiting their turn to receive the report on their efforts for the semester, apparently expect the worst. Now and then someone audibly wishes he had studied harder and intends to do better next time. Grades are very important if only for the purpose of driving a student on to do better next time, even though a grade doesn't show a student's real gain.

Keith Kieffer.

What Is A Grade?

Now that the rush for grades is on, it seems appropriate to inquire into the question of just what a grade is. Is it a record of a student's achievement in a course or is it merely a mark of inherent ability? In other words, does an "A" mean that a student has really made outstanding achievement in a course or does it mean that the student has made a good impression and is just naturally talented in that subject? Too often it is the latter.

Louis Stewart.

A member of the University of Delaware's physical education staff claims to be the first college instructor to live in a trailer. He has rented space on the rear of the lawn of a family in Newark and students are wagering on how long he will remain in it once the weather turns cold.

Observatory Hill

BY PAUL JUELING

(This week we present as guest columnist Gordon Tuell, president of the CPS student body and member of the Ski Team which competed at Yosemite Valley in the Pacific Coast Ski Tournament.)

California is not only the toughest state in the Union to get into, but also just about the toughest to get out of. Don Rasmussen, who had never been further south than Don's Pagoda, crossed the northern border of that land of palm trees and floods in breathless expectation of that everlasting sunshine and air-conditioned atmosphere. His first experience was getting his feet wet in two inches of slush, and I don't think he took his overcoat off during the entire trip.

After a two-day trip through floods and washed-out roads, we arrived at Yosemite. Our dreams of $24.00 per day accommodations turned out to be just that—dreams; anyway they gave us a place to sleep. We were handed meal tickets, with specific directions that we were to be limited to 75c for breakfast, $1.00 for lunch, and $1.00 for dinner. We couldn't figure out why they should be so generous with the lunches, but we soon found that because the ski grounds were 32 miles from the cafeteria, and it would be impossible to make a special trip just for lunch, we would be obliged to accept the sack lunches they passed out, containing two sandwiches, a piece of cake, and an apple.

Aside from road conditions, to and from the ski grounds, which at times were practically impassable, skiing was excellent. Bob McRae, with his fine showing in the Slalom and Downhill, proved himself to be one of the topnotchers of Pacific Coast Intercollegiate skiing.

For any information about the "extra curricular activities" of the trip, just ask McRae and Rasmussen about "Mimi," and Kruzner about the Postmaster's daughter. (Thank gosh, I'm writing this story.)

The trip home was probably the most interesting part of our "vacation." We left Yosemite at 4:30 Sunday afternoon, expecting to drive straight through to Tacoma by sometime Monday evening. We passed through miles and miles of flooded fields, and along canyons where rushing waters completely surrounded many of the houses. At about 3:30 Monday morning, as we were proceeding rather cautiously along a winding canyon road, through a blinding cloudburst, we were flagged down a few miles below Dunsuir, Cal. and told that we might as well turn around and go back as 200 feet of the road had slid out just two hours before, and there was no way around. We drove the 50 miles back to Redding and waited until 8:00 a. m. to get reports from the State Patrol office on the possibilities of opening up the road north, and the condition of the other roads out of the city. All reports seemed to contradict one another, but it was clear that the main road north, on which the slide had occurred, would not be open for at least two or three days, and the roads to the coast and from there north were in very doubtful shape. That left a highway which ran east and north from Redding and by various branchings, which included an 84-mile run across a poorly kept county road, finally led into Klamath Falls, Ore. This route, however, was reported snowbound, so we decided to make our headquarters in Redding until we had some definite information that one of the three possible routes to the north was open.

We rented a cabin, and wasted no time in catching some much-needed sleep, while Dr. Tomlinson kept in touch with the State Patrol office. Along toward afternoon Kruzner went on a shopping tour and came back with an armful of groceries which was enough to feed the five of us for two meals that day, and breakfast and lunch the next, for only $1.27. Kruzner was unanimously and automatically elected cook; his first meal consisted of a wonderful vegetable stew, made from vegetables and meat that had never seen a can, and would have done credit to anybody's mother. For supper, we enjoyed French-fried toast and coffee.

Wells Fargo was playing at the town's only theater, and Dr. Tomlinson treated Kruzner and me, who had not yet seen the picture. It was a swell show, but pretty tough on Kruzner in the spots which showed how husbands got in the dog house by not being at home when their wives had babies, of course you know that the Kruzners are on the verge. When we came out of the theater, the California water department was putting on another show and Kruzner and I made a dash for the cabin while the Dr. swam to the patrol office for a final check on road conditions.

He came back with the report that the road to the coast had been blocked by slides during the day, but that a few cars had come through from the road to the northeast. We decided to start out early the next morning (Tues.), and try to get through to Klamath Falls.

Leaving Redding at about 6:00 a. m., we had little trouble making the 125 miles into the little town of Canby, although we were forced to use chains, and in many places the road had been washed away by the swollen rivers. We had planned to turn from Canby and cut across a county road to Klamath Falls, but we were informed that a foot of snow had fallen during the night, and that the road was blocked. We hung around for about three hours, waiting for developments. Finally, a C. C. C. truck and car came through from the other direction and reported that the road was pretty bad, but they thought we could get through. We started out, and for sixty miles, across a snow-buried waste, with only a few scattered farm houses, we followed two narrow ruts in the snow, with the bottom of the car scraping most of the way.

From Klamath Falls north to Bend, the road was perfect though much of the way was through snow which came up as high or higher than the car windows. One of the most beautiful sights of the trip, was the view we got of Mt. Hood as we passed it at about 1:00 a. m. Wednesday morning with a bright moon glistening on the snow and bringing out every rugged contour in sharp relief. The rest of the way home was smooth sailing and we arrived in time but not in condition to attend Wednesday classes.

AMERICAN ART TO BE SHOWN IN GALLERIES

Exhibition Will Feature A Variety of Original Paintings and Drawings

As the art department's contribution to the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of The College, the galleries will feature an exhibition of famous American paintings and drawings. "This will be the most important exhibit of the year," announced Prof. Kohler. Included in the exhibit will be 35 drawings by famous painters ranging in time from the eighteenth century to modern times.

All the drawings and paintings are originals. The paintings will come from collections in Brooklyn, New York, San Diego, the Walker Galleries of New York, Portland, Seattle and Tacoma. The drawings are from the collection of John Howard Hatch of New York.

Painters who will be represented are: James McNeill Whistler, Winslow Homer, George Bellows, Thomas Handforth, Gilbert Stuart Currey, Thomas Sully, Maurice Sterne, Henry Varnum Poore and Mildred Sheets. Held in connection with these will be an exhibit of outstanding student work.

Entries for the poster contest sponsored by the art club are now being received. To date approximately 64 have been entered. They are being sorted and arranged in groups according to school and sections of the country. The date for judging has not been selected. "The posters are of a surprisingly high standard," commented Prof. Kohler.

DOTS AND FLASHES

Antares, long known to astronomy as the largest star in the observed universe, has taken a set-back. A new star has been discovered that is 400 million miles in diameter, ten times larger than the one-time size king. Unseen or unphotographed as yet, its size and constitution were determined after it had passed in front of another star in 1929-30.

Large as these stellar giants are, however, they are sometimes actually no heavier than any average human being could hold in one hand. If Antares, a great mass of gas, had all its solid particles concentrated and brought to earth, it would weigh just one pound.

In 1892 three men started a movement to crush the United Press (no connection with the present U.P.). As a result, the Associated Press was formed as a non-partisan, cooperative news gathering agency to enable newspapers in the United States to obtain news cheaply and efficiently. In 1910 Frank Brett Noyes, now president of the Washington Star, became head man of A.P., and he has held that position ever since. He has seen it grow, until now it boasts over a thousand members from Alaska to Argentina and the Philippines to Porto Rico.

Because of leased wire connections home and abroad, A.P. supplies its members with the latest news and feature articles on sport, sciences, fashions, food and religion, and mat services on radio programs and crossword puzzles. Its daily mat service provides cartoons, comics and photos. The AP Wirephoto service can send pictures to 60 odd papers over an 11,000 mile network in eight minutes. All this retiring President Noyes has seen in its complete development.

ALL-COLLEGE REVUE AND PARTY, FEB. 21

ASCPS To Sponsor Campus Get-Together at Lakewood Center

What?—All-college Party. When?—Monday, February 21. Where?—Lakewood Centre. How much?—FREE. Haven't you heard? The annual all-college no-date theatre party is to be held Monday evening, at Lakewood Community Center. Following the movie and short feature which is being shown exclusively for the students of CPS will be an all-college revue, sponsored by especially talented students of the college.

For the benefit of students who have difficulty in obtaining cars, a free bus will leave the Campus at 7:00 p. m. Monday evening for Lakewood center with room for approximately 75 students. After the show, the bus will return the students to the College grounds. There will be no cost for people with ASCPS cards.

The Revue will consist of a dance chorus led by the Misses Betty Olson and Doris Christian; Harry Coleman and his accordion; Jack Potter, maniac drummer and vibra-harp player; Johnny Clarke and Ward Allen as vocalists; Theta trio; Dick Lemagie's band; the CPS Pep Band; Garth Dickens, magical tricks.

Under the chairmanship of Clark Gould and his committee of Paul Jueling, Betty Olson, and Jack Perry, the affair promises to be one of the most successful ever sponsored by the Associated Students of the College of Puget Sound.

Campus Sororities To Welcome Pledges To Formal Membership

Betas Honor Little Sisters at Theatre Party; Thetas Announce Pledgings

Initiating pledges to formal membership is occupying the campus sororities the next two weeks. Kappa Sigma Theta welcomed new members last Wednesday. Delta Alpha Gamma and Alpha Beta Upsilon have set their initiations for Wednesday, February 23. Lambda Sigma Chi will initiate on March 2.

Alpha Beta Upsilon

Honoring the pledges before initiation, members of Alpha Beta Upsilon entertained at a theater party last Wednesday evening, followed by a buffet supper at the home of Miss Jane Ogden. Serving on the committee for the affair were Misses Jessie Willison, Sarah Louise Doub, and Dorothy Haugen.

Miss Edythe Mae Peele is in charge of formal initiation to be held next Tuesday evening. Pledges who will be welcomed to formal membership are: Misses Mildred Aylsworth, Helen Gates, Margaret Gleiser, Frances Hoss, Annabel Miller, Kathleen Sherrill, Jean Jesperson, Barbara Healy and Anita Wagener.

Delta Alpha Gamma

Delta Alpha Gamma initiation ceremonies will be held at the Bonneville Hotel next Wednesday evening under the chairmanship of Miss Betty Noble. Following initiation will be a dinner to honor the new members. Special guests will be Mrs. H. L. Keil, Mrs. Edward Simpson, Mrs. Robbins and Miss Linda Van Norden.

New members will be: Muriel Jackson, Wava Shelmidine, Barbara Shelmidine, Letty Schaufelbarger, Betty Schaufelbarger, Margaret Butler, Doris Hartman, Elsie Wahlgren, Pauline Pumphrey, Esther Waterman and Jean Hartman.

In charge of student chapel last Thursday, Gammas have chosen Miss Virginia Dougherty, Miss Margaret Keil, Miss Pomona Hudson, Miss Marie Constanti and Miss Wava Shelmidine to represent the sorority.

Lambda Sigma Chi

Lambda Sigma Chi have set the date for their formal initiation to be March 2. Miss Helen Stalwick and Miss Marcia Woods are in charge of the affair. Loggers Leave For Oregon Trip

Zetes, Mu Chis Tangle Thursday For Hoop Title

Due to their close win over the Delta Pi Omicron quintet last Tuesday, Sigma Mu Chi has been installed as the team to beat in the Intra-mural casaba league, which has now passed the half-way mark. The Mu Chis have met all the powerful teams in the league but the Zete quintet and on the strength of their past showings, are expected to humble the Alder Street boys without too much difficulty.

In what proved to be a mild upset in the Intra-mural league, Delta Kappa Phi defeated the twice beaten Japanese team 22 to 14 last Tuesday afternoon in the college gymnasium.

The Delta Kapps got off to an early start with a 6 to 2 lead. But the Japanese rallied temporarily to lead at one time, 9 to 7. After half time though the Greeks pulled steadily away until the regular squad was substituted for by reserves.

Outstanding for the Delta Kapps were Phil Cheney with 8 points and Bud Barrett with 6. For the Nippons, Tamaki led all scorers with 7 points and Kawano followed with 4.

In the second game of the day, the Sigma Mu Chi quintet defeated the Delta Pi Omicron squad in a tight battle 21 to 19, to keep their record clean for the season.

The lads from North 20th got off to a 10 to 2 start but due to the consistent potting away at the basket by Bob Ramsey, who scored 10 of his team's points, the Omicrons tied the score with but 4 minutes left to play. The final score of the game was 21 to 19 and established the Mu Chis as the team to beat for the Intra-mural championship.

CPS Wins Twice Against Coyotes,

Bombarding the basket for 130 points, the College of Puget Sound basketballers strengthened their Northwest Conference standing by walloping the College of Idaho in a twin series last Friday and Saturday nights.

The scanty crowd was brought to their collective feet continuously by a barrage of some of the most spectacular scoring seen in the CPS gym in many a day. In the first of the double bill, Bud McFadden set the season scoring record with 28 counters from all angles. The following night, McFadden went out of the contest on fouls before he had registered a single point, but Lyle Carpenter carried on with 22 points.

Saturday night, the Loggers were behind some 20 points at the half but came back strong after the rest period to win 54-49. The score of the first contest was 75-56.

Maroon and White Quint Will Meet Pacific, Willamette For '38 Trophy

College of Puget Sound's title-bound hoopmen leave today for Oregon—first stop Salem—to tangle with Willamette and Pacific in the last of this year's conference contests. Tonight and Saturday nights, the Mackmen will encounter last year's champions, Willamette, at Salem. Monday and Tuesday nights the Loggers will attempt to solve the mysteries of Pacific's trick gymnasium.

By sweeping these series the Loggers will walk off with the league hoop trophy for the first time since College of Puget Sound has been entered in the present setup. At present, three teams; Willamette, Whitman and the Maroon and White hoopsters; stand an even chance at the coveted trophy, as each quintet has lost two contests.

With the exception of Versteeg, the Willamette Bearcats will field the same quintet against the Loggers that last season swept undefeated through the complete schedule. Spec. Keane's casabatosers feature a slow-breaking offense which specializes in smooth ball-handling. Big Bill Anton, center, is the big scoring threat, coupled with Jerry Gastineau.

The Pacific team who last year upset the Loggers to keep them out of the championship running also has most of last year's regulars back in suit for Monday's game. Only Pepin who turned the tables on the Loggers last season is missing. Chief among the big guns of the Badger threat are Seim and lanky Ted Sikstrom.

Joey Mack will take nine men on the Oregon jaunt. The five regular starters—Bud, McFadden, Coming suddenly as a complete surprise to most College of Puget Sound sports followers was the resignation, Tuesday, of Joey Mack, head baseball and basketball mentor and assistant football coach.

Mack gave as his reason for resigning, that he wished to devote his entire time to his service station and possibly find a high school coaching position for next year.

That was the official declaration, but this writer wonders not without some reason if a great deal of the reason doesn't perhaps lie in the indifferent response which Coach Mack has received from the students of this school for his efforts in turning his time to Maroon and White sports.

Let's take a look at the records . . . Last year the Mackmen casaba-tossers finished in a tie for second in the Conference race . . . The Logger baseball nine, 1936 champions, went through their entire season practically unnoticed by the entire student body of the college . . . The hoopmen performed the outstanding athletic achievement of last year in defeating the then invincible University of Washington cagers . . . This year the Maroon and White basketball quintet is still very much in the running for the Conference title.

On paper this seems as if the student body of this college certainly has something to cheer about . . . But take a look at the crowds that appear to do the cheering . . . Enough said!

How About It, Boys?

Marie Mulligan: "I'm through with those college boys."

Florence McLean: "Me too. They start out by holding your hand and pretty soon they're trying to shuffle the whole deck."

Ski Lines

By HERB CLARKE

A new column for a new sport . . . Long have the skidors of the college gone unheralded . . . Their success has been our success . . . Out of 16 colleges competing they came out eighth in the recent inter-collegiate meet at Yosemite, against such competition as the U. of W., Stanford U. C. L. A. and Oregon.

The ski club is sponsoring the first annual CPS ski tournament at Paradise this Tuesday, Feb. 22 . . . The fraternities and sororities are competing on an intramural basis and also there will be prizes given to the individual winners . . . The prizes are on display in the Bookstore . . . There is no limitation on the entries and you are all urged to come to the Mountain on Tues. and participate . . . The festivities are slated to begin at 10:30 with the Down Hill race . . . At 11:30 the slalom will be run . . . All details are to be taken care of by the ski team.

oOo

Notable by their absence this semester are Sonja Heine Kunigk and Carlton Wiegler Fishel who are enjoying a lovely stay at the mountain. Wish I had the opportunity . . . Don't you? . . . Maybe they're practicing for the Olympics!

oOo

Next week end, the ski club is planning a jaunt to meet the University of British Columbia . . . They are handicapped by the inability of three of the stars to accompany the team . . . This is to be unique in the fact that several girls in the club are to be taken to compete in some of the events.

oOo

Speaking of women, Shirley McDonald, the rising young star, has enrolled in school this semester and is expected to take Kunigk's place in bringing notoriety to the college.

oOo

Read Observatory Hill and get the dope on the trip to Yosemite the team made . . . Gus Tuell is guest columnist this week . . . It ought to be a relief after Jueling and Mitchell!

oOo

Next week we'll try to have a lot more of the inside material on the activities of the ski team and we'll let you know about the ski day, too!! Go if you can . . . If you can't . . . Read the column.

Six CPS Skidors Leave Today For Mt. Hollyburn

Six CPS skiers and Dr. Warren E. Tomlinson, assistant ski coach, are leaving this afternoon for Mt. Hollyburn, near Vancouver, for a weekend of competition with the University of British Columbia.

Those making the trip will probably include: Bob McRae, Don Rasmussen, Mort Arnold, Gordon Tuell, Stewart James and Les Bona.

The team is weakened by the loss of Don Kruzner, the only veteran of the squad, and as a result, goes into the meet as the under-dog. Don is lost to the squad only temporarily, and that because another skier is expected to join the "House of Kruzner".

This meet is a tune-up meet for both teams for the Northwest Inter-Collegiate Ski Union meet to be held at Mt. Spokane on the 25th and 26th of this month.

On March 10, the Bavarian skiers will give an exhibition at Mt. Rainier. The members of this team are all excellent skiers and are expected to give many thrilling exhibitions.

Although plans are still tentative, it is probable that CPS and the University of British Columbia will race against the Bavarians on the 11th, 12th and 13th of March.

As a part of the 50th Anniversary celebration the College of Puget Sound is sponsoring the two week's showing of the Bavarians in the Northwest. They will give exhibitions in several places in the state during their brief stay.

Final results of the Pacific Coast Inter-Collegiate Ski Championships, which were held at Yosemite National Park two weeks ago, found Bob McRae in 7th place in slalom out of 60 contestants.
