Christmas Is Time of Thanks For Many Blessings

"Happy Christmas to all and to all a good night!" So to you, one and all, may we wish you truly "Happy Christmas."

Though it may be that this year we can't all have as happy nor as merry a Christmas as we should like, it is hoped that it won't be many years before we have an old fashioned "Merry Christmas."

Around the world today our fellows are fighting on many battlefronts. They are celebrating Christmas in France, England, and in the islands of the South Pacific. They will be sharing traditions with peoples of many faiths and national Yuletide customs.

While we are yet safely at home let us all be sincerely grateful this Christmastide that we are still permitted to worship the One who was born in a manger so many years ago. And like Tiny Tim may we all pray... "God Bless us, every one!"

Chapels Are Of Interest To Students

Along with the seasonal pleasures students have had the good fortune to hear a number of exceptionally interesting chapel speakers.

On Monday, Dec. 10, Miss Dorothy Blatter described school life in Turkey. She stated that the students strive more to obtain a diploma than to become informed. Because in order to procure and hold a job a diploma is required. This certificate represents the completion of a school compared to junior colleges in the United States.

According to Miss Blatter the people in Turkey dress very much as Americans do, except for some of the peasants, and the girls follow "Mademoiselle" as eagerly as any CPS co-ed.

Tuesday Dr. Tobias, the National YMCA secretary, gave the students something to think about concerning the racial problem. He emphasized the fact that the Negroes were brought forcibly to this country, have been here nearly as long as the white people, and have been very loyal to the country.

The Adelphian Chorus entertained on Wednesday with Christmas carols, some of which the students joined in.

Helen Pat Beem took over on Friday with the aid (?) of Taffey "Santa Claus" Bailey and Donna "helper" Cohoon. The highlight came when "HP" just couldn't part with the kiddy kar for Dr. Fredericks. Others remembered were Professor MacDonald with a gentle hint in the form of an alarm clock, Mr. Bratton, a freshman beanie, and Gunnar Larson, a few domestic utilities. Christmas carols and a rousing cheer for the basketball team followed. The Campus Trio gave their rendition of "Winter Wonderland" with the assembly joining in for the second chorus.

The usual Wednesday chapel was shifted to Monday this week. Anna Marie Vaughn sang "Oh Holy Night," and President Thompson spoke.

'Christmas Carol, Is Given By Students

Adelphians and Campus Playcrafters Combine Efforts in Presenting Yuletide Program Here.

Students and faculty were set in the Christmas spirit today by the presentation of Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol" with the combined groups of the Campus Playcrafters and the Adelphian Choral Society. The former was under the direction of Miss Martha Pearl Jones, and the latter by Professor Karl Bratton. An earlier presentation of the program was given last Sunday at a vesper service in the Jones Hall auditorium for Tacomans.

The play is an adaptation of the story written by Dickens, and was set into the shortened production form by Miss Jones. It is the story of Scrooge, portrayed by Marshall Campbell, a tight, stingy, miserly old fellow who is visited by the ghost of his departed business partner, Marley, portrayed by Gunnar Larson. After this visit he is visited by three other ghosts; the Ghost of Christmas Past, Patricia Hansen; the Ghost of Christmas Present, Donna Cohoon; and the Ghost of Christmas Future, Carol Todd. Each of these apparitions shows Scrooge in successive scenes; first from his past life, then his present and last, what is to become of him if he continues as he is.

In these dream scenes he sees the family of Bob Cratchit, LeRoy Vaughn, his accountant, whom he mistreats so terribly. This is a family dinner setting with Mrs. Cratchit, Doris Nelson, and the Cratchit children portrayed by Faye McCreedy, Tina Gagliardi, and little Paul Inveen as the beloved Tiny Tim.

Next old Scrooge is shown in the accounting house where he worked as a lad, and the owner, "old Fezziwig, himself," as played by Bob Alexander, and the other workers. He is shown the young girl who was once his sweetheart, as portrayed by Kerttu Kahn.

By the Ghost of Christmas present he is shown the home of Fred, his nephew, Bob Winkill, and his wife, Evelyn Marshall. He is then guided by the next Ghost to a lonely grave and here he is startled to find that it is his own. The man that the Ghost had shown him, who had been so friendless had been none other than himself.

When he awakens he finds that it is still Christmas and there is yet time to change his ways and make up for his life that has past. He presents a Gentleman, Charles Nee, with a Charity gift for the poor, and buys a Christmas turkey for the Bob Cratchits.

The last scene is in the cathedral at which time the choir sang "Ave Verum" with violin accompaniment by Mary Ann Truit, and organ by Jane Koehler. Then the Choral Reading group presented the Christmas Story from the Bible, which was followed by the selection "Ave Maria" by Bach-Gounod by the choir. This last piece was accompanied by Mary Ann Truit on the violin, Phyllis Lawson at the Harp, and the soprano solo by Elizabeth Anderberg. Dr. R. Franklin Thompson closed the program with a prayer followed by Tiny Tim's "God Bless us everyone."

Thne reader who gave the continuity to the story was Priscilla Newschwander. Choral Readers who participated in the play were Dixie Bullard, Murden Woods, Doris Nelson, Ruth Ann Dods-worth, Norene Inveen, Priscilla Newschwander, Bonnie Steele, Shila Lamar, Carol Todd, and Mary Mladinov.

Musical accompaniment for the entire production was played by Jane Koehler at the organ and the Adelphians. Assisting on the presentation of the play were Jolly Torgerson, prompter; Betty Armour and Maxine Atkinson, properties; Charles Nee, lighting; and Gunnar Larson, stage manager.

Youth Week Will Be Featured

Throughout the nation the week of January 28 to February 4 has been designated as National Youth Week. In co-operation with this program the students of the College of Puget Sound are making plans for a huge Youth Rally to be held on Sunday, January 28.

Purpose of the nation-wide project is to corolate the work of the various religious youth groups. It has promise of being the biggest rally in this state.

After Monday's chapel students were asked to meet in their respective religious preference groups under the leadership of student leaders. Purpose of these meetings was to elect a representative to the Central Planning Committee whose job it will be to plan this gigantic program. Baptist youth met with Sal Newschwander and Shirley Nelson; Congregationals with Paul Raymond and Betty Smith; Disciples with Dorothy Moyles and Mary Ann Bailey; Evangelical, United Presbyterian, Brethern and others met with Marla Clark and Pearl Jameson; and the Episcopalians met with Alice Ann Cross. Students of the Lutheran faith met with Margaret Lindeman and Kerttu Kahn; Methodists with Louise Kipper and Mary Ann Truit, and the Presbyterians with Bob Winkill and Doris Nelson.

SCA Programs For Yule Season

Annual Christmas season, noon-time chapels sponsored by the Student Christian Association were held Monday and Tuesday of this week.

From 12.20 to 1.10 on these two days, special services were held in the Little Chapel which had been decorated appropriately with green fir boughs and holly. Christmas stories, carols, and Yuletide music by the string trio were the Monday's program. This was planned and given by girls from Kappa Phi.

Tuesday's program consisted of special Christmas meditations with a background of instrumental music. At the regular SCA chapel on Tuesday, Miss Ethel Weaver told the Christmas story with pictures. Music for the service was furnished by the Campus Trio and the String Trio.

All programs were planned that students might come and go as they pleased, so that they need not miss meetings during the noon hour.

Who's Who List Is Announced

Announcement was made recently concerning the tenth annual edition of the "Who's Who Among College and University Students," Dean Register made known the names of five CPS students whose names will appear in the issue due to come out early in the spring.

Included in this group are Seniors, Helen Pat Beem, Frank Price and LeRoy Vaughn; Juniors to be listed are Elvirna Amundsen and Jeanne Thurber.

This annual publication is put out to list the names of the outstanding students throughout the United States from over 600 educational institutions. When the first issue of this came out some 10 years ago they listed only 250 colleges; today they solicit names from 650.

Basis of the honor bestowed upon these students is character, scholarship, and leadership quality. They are chosen by a committee, under the chairmanship of the President of the college. This group is composed of members of the faculty and student officials. It is primarily a publication to list senior students, and a small percentage of outstanding juniors.

Interrace Situation Noted in Bulletin

A recent Interracial Council bulletin received by Dr. Warren E. Tomlinson contains many interesting articles on race and race problems. One of the most outstanding was the one quoted from a Pasadena, California, newspaper. It concerns the Nisel situation.

During this past September a board of exclusionists made a demand that the Board of Education expel a Nisel girl who had been allowed to return to the coast and was attending a Junior College. However, the board refused after receiving 103 letters, 97 of which upheld their decision.

"The college paper declared that 90% of the student body also backed the board." Then, later in the month, a meeting of the Pasadena Chapter of the Committee on American Principles and Fair Play was held. At this program Dillon S. Meyer, head of the War Relocation Authority spoke to the assembled interested citizens. He was introduced by Dr. Robert A. Milliken. In the audience was the spokesman of the exclusionists, George Kelley. The latter gentleman was so impressed by the attitude and arguments of Dr. Milliken, Mr. Meyer, and the chairman, Mrs. Maynard Thayer, that he publicly recanted and applied for membership in the Fair Plays Committee.

WHY CHRISTMAS?

Soon it will be Christmas, the happiest time of all the year. A time of evergreen wreaths and red holly berries. A time of sweet smelling Christmas trees, colored lights, and softly flickering candles. A time of mysterious packages, jostling crowds and whispered secrets. A time of ringing bells, shining stars and happy songs.

And why? Because Jesus lived long ago. Because He taught the world a happy way of life. Because He brought health to the sick, forgiveness to those who had done wrong and were sorry, courage to those who were afraid, friendship to those who were discouraged and lonely. Because He spent His life helping others, and by the things He said and by the way He lived, Jesus showed all men that love is the greatest power in the world.

Festive Celebration May Be Unique; Let's Buy Bonds for Christmas

The festive season is once more upon us. The time to celebrate is here! This year we are asking you to celebrate in a different way from past years; we are asking you to save the money you would ordinarily spend on celebrations.

Throughout the entire world, our families, our friends, and our sweethearts are scattered, many of them will have no relaxation from their duties; they will continue to carry on these duties which have been forced upon them. It is only fitting therefore that we here on the home front should be willing to change our methods of celebration, and spend that extra dime or dollar on war bonds. Instead of buying a present, give a gift of war stamps or bonds. You will be helping the members of the armed forces, as well as giving a gift which will double itself in returns. Let's buy bonds and stamps this year!

Americans Share Yuletide Traditions From Many Lands Across the Sea

Do you say "Merry Christmas" to your family and friends at Christmas time? Do you enjoy the cheery greeting? Then you should thank Russia. The Russians used to say "Greetings for the Lord's Day" and the reply was always "God be with you."

Do you have a Christmas tree in your home, church or school at Christmas time? If you do, you should give thanks to the French. They first thought of the custom by bringing in from the woods pretty fragrant bunches of evergreen and bright berries to make their wreaths.

If you like to hang your stocking by the fireplace at Christmas time, then it is necessary to thank the Belgians for they first thought of this charming custom.

Do you like to make and share in the eating of cakes and cookies during the Yuletide? The good mothers of Sweden were busy at their baking ovens long before America was discovered so it is to Swedish folk that we send our thanks for the bakery goodies we have at Christmas time.

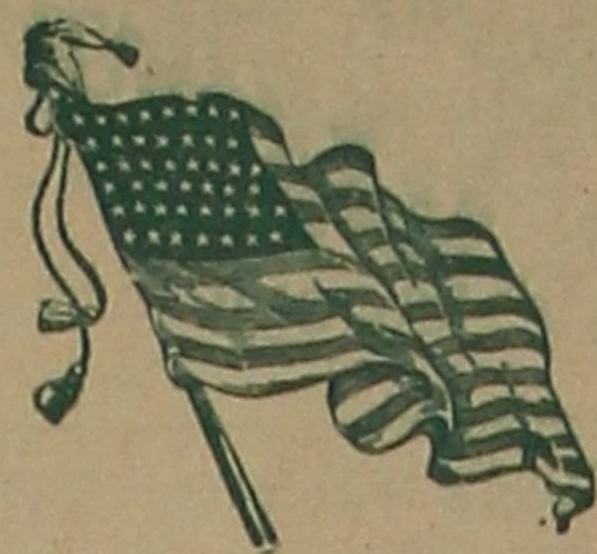

If you love to hear the beautiful Christmas carols then thanks must be given to St. Francis and his brother friars in Italy.

If the manger scenes in the churches and homes inspire you, then thanks should be given to Italy and France.

If you enjoyed the midnight Christmas service in the churches, then for this reason thanks should be given to Spain.

Do you like to give and receive Christmas cards? If you do, the credit for this very beautiful and popular custom is given to the Englishman, Sir Henry Cole.

Selective Service

Merry Christmas to all! And so the season has rolled around again, and once more we send greetings to the many former students who will be celebrating Christmas in far away places.

These fellas and gals maybe in fox holes, in tents, or in tanks, but their hearts are here around the fireplace, on our campus, or in the class room, to all these fellows we can only say that we sincerely hope that they will all be back with us again next year at this same time.

From across the blue Pacific comes word that O. D. Williams is somewhere in New Caledonia. Seems it gets mighty warm over there too. Al Danielson is also stationed there with the quarter master corp, and he says that he sure would like to see some of this Tacoma fog, even if it were thick as syrup.

'Twas nice seeing Big Mel Blanchard home. Mel has successfully completed 40 flights, and is now home for a rest, after being stationed in Walla Walla army hospital.

Warrent Officer Marshal Reconcitico was back visiting recently. My, but that boy looks nice in that uniform. 'Twas good seeing you, too, fella.

Home for Christmas is the theme song of WAVES Patricia Mason and Marian Sandall who will arrive home on Christmas day.

Phil Whalesby, former member of the student body, is somewhere in the South Pacific, as are Norman Anderson and Walter Berg. Lee Mackey, who is in OCS at Paris Island, will soon be graduating. Hmmm. Those bars will look nifty.

We also hear that T-Cross, former basketball king is now attending officers training school. Nice going T.

That's taps for today folks, and MERRY CHRISTMAS to all!

Dean Register Addresses Pilgrims

As guest-speaker at the Pilgrim Congregational Church fellowship dinner on Friday evening, Dean John D. Register of the College of Puget Sound, declared that a lasting peace after World War II will result only from our active expectations rather than from our passive hopes of such a world order.

"Peace," said Dean Register, "is not merely a thing of nature, like rain or sunshine, to be wished for and desired, but beyond our power to command, but a social commodity to be sought as a confident expectation of our common will."

Standing high in the scale of social and human values, peace is not in itself, however, the highest human value, but is topped by justice and righteousness. Peace purchased at "any price" may indeed be a slave's bargain; and a "Pax Romana," as of the ancient world, a sorry boon to the modern free, intelligent man.

"Yet an enduring peace," Dean Register insisted, "must be also an endurable peace; for a peace that hopes to rank with the high values of justice and righteousness must be tolerable enough to the whole world to commend itself to the best part of the whole world so strongly as to assure a universal will to peace."

DORM DORA

Excited is the word! The Dorm-belles are practically homeward bound. "Christmas is the most wonderful season of the year," is a phrase well worn out by many a lass—Janice Planchard especially, who is California bound and very anxious to see if the fog is as thick down Los Angeles way.

"Mac" is headed for Spokane—a suitcase of dirty clothes, and a few Christmas presents for the "folks." The Olympia gals are going home—bags with baggage—to eat, sleep and be merry for 10 whole days!

There has been a slight bit of pre-war time "dashing" these last few weekends—the frat dance, sorority dances, and the "Silver Ball," which went over just beautifully, all caused a riotous battle for perfume, earrings and a terrific bottleneck in the shower rooms!

The dorm dance was really wonderful—everyone looked so nice—the decorations of silvered and green fir boughs looked beautiful in the soft blue light and the music of Harry James, Glenn Miller and Tommy Dorsey (assisted by Mrs. "S.") completely filled the bill.

Janice Rae's new white chiffon dress certainly makes that dark hair of hers shiny, and did you notice how nice Jeanie Thomas looked in her green dress? Another of our Thomas girls, little Helen, made us all think of 18th century ball rooms and Strauss waltzes with her full skirt and her hair piled high, and "our" house-boy looked mighty cute, too!

From the dorm came cries of woe from Jeanne McDougall and Jane Nill, because "Al and his frat brother couldn't make the ferry from New Caledonia in the fog." Such girls! Old man weather did play a little havoc with quite a number of the boys—most of them finally arrived, however.

The Christmas party Tuesday night and the Song Fest fill up the dorm bill for the rest of the week, and then home. MERRY CHRISTMAS TO EVERYBODY, AND HAPPY NEW YEAR ALL!

Yuletide Traditions Of France Mingle With U. S.

In France, the traditional celebration of Christmas definitely of a religious character. In other words, there are none of the frantic last-minute shopping and wrapping gifts. Christmas is one of the three big festivals on the calendar in France; the other two being Easter and Assumption Day, which comes in the middle of August.

On Christmas Eve, families usually gather together to spend one hour or so talking and visiting before going to Midnight Mass in church. This mass is usually one of the most impressive church services in that the church is made beautiful with many characteristic and precious belongings which are brought forth to adorn statues which stand around the cathedral. One sees lovely tapestries, prayer books, jewels, and the most beautiful of all are the lovely vestments. Special book marks are used to mark readings from the Bible. Quite often special strips of carpet are laid across the front of the cathedrals. Accompanying the Midnight Mass is special music, which is a part of the church service. The especially large cathedrals have organs and well-trained choirs to furnish music, which captures the attention of all the worshippers. After mass, the families gather again as a unit for a supper. They seldom invite anybody outside the family connections. At these family gatherings

GLIMPSES

Have you ever had something that has worried you as to its significance and reason? I think that from everyone's childhood there are things which are curious to us and some of them we wonder about for years before we find out why they are. That was my experience the other day—I found out why something was that I hadn't known before. Who knows? Perhaps this little story will help to clear some things up in your mind too!

During the great flood, Noah's Ark sprang a leak. Noah told his dog to stick his nose in the hole to plug it up. The hole was larger and larger. Noah then told his wife into the hold to place her hands over the leak and stop the icy waters. The hole grew larger and larger. Noah himself, sitting below and sat in the hole, was now of immense proportions. And that, my friends, is why a dog's nose is always cold, a woman's hands are always cold, and men stand with their backs to a fireplace.

Another thing I've always wondered about was how some people are smart enough to slip through the customs officers with foreign den articles. But I found out something about that the other day, too, when a friend of mine told me about a Scotchman he had seen when he was coming into the country.

"Ah," said the customs officer, "finding a bottle of whiskey. He thought you said there were no old clothes in that trunk?"

"Aye, that's my night cap." But I must close this article this time. If I find any more explanations for things I'll be glad to let you know through the medium of this column.

In closing I'd just like to stress the strangeness of the English language. Sometimes you can find something in two different ways and it will mean all the difference in the world. If you tell her the time stands still when you look into her eyes, she'll adore you, just try telling her that her face would stop a clock.

"Silver Fantasy" Lambda Theme Sigma Chi Formal Dance Tonight

To the soft romantic strains of Abey Atkins orchestra, members, pledges and guests of Lambda Sigma Chi sorority will gather for their annual winter formal dance. Dancing will be from 8:30 to 11:30 Wednesday evening at the Tacoma Lawn Tennis Club.

"Silver Fantasy" has been selected as theme for the affair portraying all the mystic excitement of the Christmas season. A huge silver tree decorated with green balls and emphasized with green spotlights will grace the center of the floor. Artificial drifted snow will bank the walls and silvered fir boughs placed throughout the room will further follow up the theme.

Programs will be green with a sparkling front of metallic catching up the green light and carrying the "silver fantasy" out over the evening. During intermission, cookies and green punch will be served.

Misses Jean Roat, Colleen Ainsworth, and Beverly Hofstetter have been chosen co-chairmen for the affair. They are being assisted by the other members and pledges of the organization.

Patrons and patronesses will be Dr. and Mrs. R. Franklin Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Bratton, and Mrs. Lila Shiffbauer and guest.

Guests of the group for the evening include Misses Jolafern Torgerson, Jean Hallen, Patricia Hildebrandt, Lois Fassett, Dorothy Herstein, Helen Thomas, and Robert Oquist, Robert Winskill, Leroy Vaughn, Clare Chandler and John Skupen. Special guests will be 25 servicemen from the Navy Receiving Station.

Hostesses will be Misses Joy Adams, Colleen Ainsworth, Ver-

Kappa Phi Party Held Last Night

Tuesday evening, Dec. 19, was the date of the annual Christmas party of Chi Chapter of Kappa Phi here at the College of Puget Sound. Miss Helen Patricia Beem was general chairman of the affair, which honored former members of the organization, and was held at 8:30 in the parlors of Mason Methodist Church. All previous members and pledges of any chapter in the United States were cordially invited to attend, and many accepted the invitation.

Theme of the affair centered around the candle and pine branch, symbols of Kappa Phi. A program of get-acquainted games was planned, followed by the traditional candlelighting ceremony where each girl momentarily lighted a candle which she will burn Christmas eve. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served, and community singing of Christmas Carols completed the evening's entertainment.

Misses Carol Hamilton and Marden Woods were at the door to greet guests. Other committees chosen to assist Miss Beem were—Miss Patricia Robinson, decorations; Miss Jolafern Torgerson, program; Misses Maryann Munro, Thelma Hardy and Mary-Anna Schenck, refreshments; Miss Anna Marie Vaughn, invitations.

Latin American Theme Chosen For Inter-Sorority Dance

The romance, mystery and beauties of South America will be unfolded at this year's Inter-sorority dance, being planned for January 6. Theme for the affair is being taken from the idea of a "Latin Fantasy."

Dancing will be from 8:30 to 11:30 in the Student Union Building, with music provided by a servicemen's orchestra. General chairman of the dance is Miss Jean Hallen. Representatives of the four sororities assisting her are, Miss Polly Packard, Alpha Beta Upsilon; Miss Mary Louise Guthrie, Lambda Sigma Chi; Miss Lujean Logan, Delta Alpha Gamma; and Miss Phyllis Thomson, Kappa Sigma Theta.

Faculty members asked to act as patrons and patronesses are Dr. and Mrs. R. Franklin Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. John D. Regester, Dr. and Mrs. Warren G. Tomlinson, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Shaffer, and Mrs. Lyle Ford Drushel. A general invitation is being extended to all faculty members, and members of the independent student group. Special guests for the evening include a number of servicemen from Fort Lewis.

Committees appointed to assist

Mrs. Hallen are the Misses Mary Louise Guthrie and Polly Packard, decorations and refreshments; Miss Lujean Logan, music and patrons and patronesses; and Miss Phyllis Thomson, program and publicity.

Freshman Girl Will Be Married Tonight

Tonight at 8:00 in the city of Snohomish, Miss Mary McCready will become the bride of Pfc. Warren E. Kalbach. Following the ceremony, the couple will leave for a honeymoon to Victoria.

Miss McCready is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. S. McCready of Snohomish. While she attended CPS, she lived in Kittredge Hall and was a pledge of Alpha Beta Upsilon sorority.

Pfc. Kalbach is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Zac Kalbach of Seattle. He attended the University of Washington prior to induction in the army.

Delta Alpha Gamma 'Twilight Fantasy' Held Friday Night

Friday evening was the date chosen for the annual pledge dance of Delta Alpha Gamma sorority. Cochairmen of the affair were the Misses Violet Hessey and Marian Tregoning. Dancing was from 8:30 to 11:30 in the roof garden of the Masonic Temple, with music provided by the "Three Barons." During intermission, the Campus Trio, composed of Misses Virginia Kilde and Marion Clendenen, and Mrs. Betty Heidinger Smith, sang several selections.

Decorations to carry out the theme "Twilight Fantasy" were planned by Miss Viletta Rowe, whose committee consisted of the Misses Bonnie Steele, Patricia Brown, Jean Neagle, and Margaret Dooley. Other committees working on the affair include: Misses Jesse Lee Mock and Jayne Votaw, refreshments, and Miss Jayne Votaw, entertainment.

Servicemen from Fort Lewis were special guests at the dance. Patrons and patronesses were Dr. and Mrs. R. Franklin Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Karl H. Bratton and Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Schaffer. Other guests were Misses Jolafern Torgerson and Darcia Dayton.

Hostesses for the evening were the Misses Patricia Hildebrandt,

Joan Tregoning, Dorothy Schweinler, Sue Hendrickson, Ursella Watts, Carol Hamilton, Lucille Ludwick, Lois Lynch, Helen Jean Darling, Marian Clendenen, Elsie Hansen, Maryann Bailey, Donna Cohoon, Maryanne Munro, Genevieve Verone, Almira Marchesini, Margaret DeVoto, Elouise Cruver, Doris Nelson, Virginia Mekkes, Elverna Amundsen, Elizabeth Anderberg, and Ruby Smith.

Others were Misses Jesse Lee Mock, Dolores Walker, Margaret Dooley, Jean Neagle, Marian Tregoning, Viletta Rowe, Bonnie Steele, Shirley Ostland, Pauline Streeter, Wanda Smith, Carol Todd, Gertrude Mahncke, Violet Hessey, Jayne Votaw, Patricia Brown and Phyllis Lawson.

Girls of Anderson Hall Hostesses At "Silver Ball" Saturday Night

Girls of Anderson Hall were hostesses at a semi-formal "Silver Ball" Saturday evening from 8:30 to 11:30 in the Student Union Building. Miss Lucille Ludwick was general chairman for the affair where 30 men from the Navy Receiving Station were special guests.

Decorations for the occasion were a typical representation of the Christmas season. A blue spotlight was played upon two large fir trees, one silvered and the other in its original green, which occupied the center of the floor. Silver and green boughs on the walls further carried out the theme.

Programs were of blue, outlined with silver metallic. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served during intermission.

Committee chosen to assist Miss Ludwick included, Misses Juanita Baumgartner, Beverly Hofstetter, Elverna Amundson, Maryann Munro and Marie Switzer, programs; Misses Jeanne Lee Mock, Jean Thomas, Marla Clark and Peggy Doubec, decorations; Miss June Larson, music, and Miss Marie Switzer, refreshments. Patrons and patronesses for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. R. Franklin Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Shafer, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Bratton, and Mesdames Lyle Ford Drushel and Carolyn Schneider.

Guests of the girls included Robert Levenhagen, Harry Berg, Glenn Conned, Dale Stedman, Robert Robbins, Merle Legg, Robert Winskill, Robert Edwards, Donald Carsten, Floyd Dickson, LeRoy Vaughn, Duane Christofferson, Warren Rowe, Donald Bennett, Dan Kamella, William Ritzenthaler and Robert McCullough.

Hostesses for the evening were Misses Marion Robinson, Janice Rea, Betty Dunn, Gwen Simmons, Gerry Foxwell, Mary-Anna Schenck, Thelma Hardy, June Larson, Janette Blake, Helen Thomas, Beverly Hofstetter, Elaine Lycan, Bonnie Steele, Elverna Amundson, Colleen Ainsworth, Victoria Sandberg and Helen Patricia Beem.

Yuletide Traditions

In front of the fire and parents see that small gifts are put in the shoes before morning. Particularly if the child can be said to have been good, the gifts represent a small reward and incentive for future behavior.

There is a marked contrast between the simple gifts in the wooden shoes of a French child, and the Christmas tree of an American home. Grownups do not exchange gifts on Christmas; instead, the exchange of gifts comes on New Year's Day, which is a secular holiday and not a religious one.

Besides the Midnight Mass on Christmas Eve, there is another church service in the morning which is attended by all the faithful and many not so faithful. Then, in the afternoon, many calls are made on relatives and friends.

Since the First World War, when so many American soldiers found themselves in France during the Christmas season, the French customs have been mingled with some of the colorful observances of the American Christmas. However, Christmas in France remains a solemn holiday, promoted and sponsored by the Church rather than the active Chambers of Commerce.

After demonstrating my figure skating ability at the local ice arena last Friday when the Sophomores held their party, I have been asked by many people to give some instructions in the art of ice skating.

This very easy sport is rapidly becoming one of America's favorites. Contrary to erroneous reports that state it is very difficult, the average beginner can learn to skate in 163 simple lessons. The only requirements for learning this sport are—a strong body, a feeble mind, and a large accident policy.

When you have decided to take up this sport, you go to one of the many ice arenas that now dot the country, and after making all necessary hospital and ambulance arrangements, you get your skates. There are two kinds—figure skates with a short blade, and hockey skates with a long blade. The beginner should choose the former as they are much easier to skate with. However, he may choose the later as a quicker way to end it all.

When you put on your skates there are only two things to remember. First they must be placed on the proper feet, and they should be laced as tightly as possible. When properly laced in this fashion, circulation is cut off, allowing the ankle to freeze solid, giving additional support.

Now you are ready to venture onto the ice. There are two positions commonly employed when learning to skate. The generally employed position is the difficult vertical. In this you keep both feet on the ice and sail grandly about the arena. The other position is the one that is most commonly employed by beginners at unexpected moments while attempting the vertical. This is the horizontal position.

When you start to skate, you stand with both feet approximately parallel. You place your left foot slightly at an angle to the right foot, and then shove the right foot out in front of you. You then pick yourself up, brush off the powdered ice, and start again. This time you transfer the weight of your body to the right foot just before you fall, and shove the left foot out in front of you. The trick of learning how to skate is to learn to transfer the weight of your body from one foot to the other foot just before you find yourself going in three directions; forward with your right foot, backward with your left foot, and down with the rest of your body.

One other principle must be mastered by those who hope to become skaters. This is the trick of balancing yourself on a small part of your foot such as you do in ice skating and in tight rope walking. If you wish to attain much skill at this you should endeavor to learn how to walk a tight rope. However, if you can learn this, maybe you should join a circus as a tight rope artist and give up risking your neck on ice.

With the great increase in the popularity of this fascinating sport, more and more people are finding that the best way to enjoy ice skating is to sit on the sidelines, and watch the others break their necks.

Practice basketball turnouts will continue into the new year, because it has been almost impossible for girls playing ping-pong to play basketball during the same noon hour. There have been lots of girls playing basketball, though, and we've noticed a couple of freshmen sharpshooters, namely Lois Fassett and June Larson.

The inter-sorority ping-pong tournament has come to a close with the Gammas and Betas taking the lead and the final outcome being decided today. One of the most thrilling games of the contest was between Marie Eckstrom and Jolly Torgerson, the final score a tie, 31-31. Marie, by the way, hasn't lost a game yet.

We had a wonderful time at the Country Capers in the gym last Friday night. After seeing how barny that gym can look, we're all enthused about having a big barn dance over there "when the boys come home." What with hay all over the floor and Farmer Mann sporting striped overalls and a floppy straw hat, we could almost detect an odor in the air peculiar to rural districts!

And then we had fun playing volleyball with some of the spryer members of the faculty, although we didn't have a chance against those jet-propelled serves of Dean Register and Dr. Steward. Scorekeeper Murden Woods stopped adding their points when they reached 28!

We're going to nominate Dr. Thompson for a forward position on the All-Star basketball team this year. He and Fontelle Gaddis make up a swimming combination—and he was in his stocking feet!

The dorm girls showed up in all kinds of striped pajamas and one nightie, and gave us their own inimitable rendition of their "Toast Song" and other classics. We think Mrs. Drushel deserves first prize of a Santa Claus outfit for her ho-ho laugh. All in all, we had a very gay time, and we certainly hope that the kiddies in Monday morning's gym classes had fun playing in the hay!

Students To Celebrate Coming Holiday With Many Different Visits and Trips

With the coming of the festive season, the students of CPS will celebrate in many different and diversified activities as some travel home to visit relatives and friends, and others spend their vacation with sorority sisters in Tacoma and other cities.

Miss Jean Erhart will divide her vacation time, spending part of it at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Maude Erhart, and the remainder at a well known resort on Hood Canal. Longview is the destination of Miss Maryann Bailey, who will have as her house guest, Miss Donna Cohoon of Alaska. Miss Katherine Alm will travel to Chehalis, as will Miss Carolyn Hitchcock.

Miss Marie Switzer will spend the first few days of the holiday season with Miss Jolafern Torgerson of Tacoma, and will travel to Yakima for the latter part of her vacation. Also going to Yakima are Misses Dotha Smock, Katherine Burrill, and Margaret Van Amberg.

Over the New Year week-end, Misses Marion Robinson, June Larson and Geraldine Foxwell will have as their guests in Olympia

Misses Jeanne McDougall, Janice Hill and Janice Rae, who will spend Christmas in Spokane, Aberdeen and Sumner, respectively.

Miss Peggy Lou Doubec will travel to Centralia for the holiday season, while Miss Patricia Robinson will spend it in Port Angeles. Miss Janis Planchard will visit San Pedro, California, while Miss Peggy Larson and Florence Carlson will travel back to Chico, Butte, Montana, is the destination of Miss Ruth Gustafson, while Misses Masie Herald and Lucille Randall will spend the holiday with relatives in Spokane.

Others traveling home are Misses Jacqueline Kilbourne, Betty Dunne, Elverna Amundson, Virginia McKes and Mr. Donald Bennett, all of Olympia; William Campbell, William Kerns and Marshall Campbell, of Everett; Misses Ruth Dodsworth, Sumner; Jayne Shattuck and Helen Thomas, Kent; Elizabeth Lycan, Tenino; Marian Clendenen and Maryann Truitt, Bellingham; Sue Hendrickson, Francis Quinn, Juanita Baumgartner and Jean Thomas, Puyallup, and Lucille Llewellyn, Seattle.

maybe it is to wear out the boys before they get there, so they won't pull his beard off, not sure, in any event it is a long pull up those stairs just to get some high school boy act like Nick. I walked slowly around the seedy specimen of Santa, and inspected him closely. What a character! His whiskers were awry, his make-up was running, also his nose. In all, I think the average department store Santa has depreciated at least 90 percent since I was young. But of the kids mind? I think that they have been filled full of so much stuff about the war, that they think that Santa doesn't rate high enough priority to keep looking chipper, what with the manpower shortage and all.

After being hit in the eye with two model airplanes, kicked in the shins by two little angels, and after kicking three little brats, went home to rest. They can do what they will about war, but I think it is much safer on the battlefield.

Paul Roberson Elected To Phi Beta Magazine Board

According to "The Key Reporter," Phi Beta Kappa news sheet, Paul Roberson, famous negro concert singer, has been elected to the editorial board of "The American Scholar," Phi Beta Kappa quarterly magazine. Paul Roberson is due to appear in Tacoma on Monday, January 10 in the titular role of Shakespeare's "Othello." He is a Phi Beta Kappa member at Rutgers college.

Reflecting pavements that send back to the driver more of the light from the headlights of an automobile will promote night driving safety both to the driver and to pedestrians on the streets, according to Dr. Eugene C. Bingham of Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., who during the past few years has experimented with such reflecting pavings. He took his idea from reflecting white cement curbs successfully used in many states.

Addresses Pilgrims

College Life

Here at CPS we have seen one of the most colorful Christmas seasons we may ever see. Chapel programs, Christmas carols, The Christmas play; all have combined with the decorations in the halls and around the campus to bring Christmas in one form or another to everyone. Christmas, is indeed, the festive time of the year.

I have always liked the time near Christmas more than any other. The thrill of buying presents, fighting my way through mobs of determined women wrapping gifts and trying to hide them, is to me the siren that called fire-horses out. I could no more be dormant, and hibernate during this season, than I could stop breathing.

This year was a year of yuletide spirit such as seldom seen. Last week, being in a happy, gay, carefree, mood, I decided to go downtown and see what was to be seen. I wandered sedately along, not doing anything to hurt the multitude, when I found myself between a determined mob intent upon getting to a pre-war bicycle, and a counter. After pulling myself, bruised and battered from their clutches, and looking to a certain extent like Frankie, I staggered off into the distance in the direction of the fifth floor. I don't know why it is that they always have a Santa on the highest floor, asking him to bring Sue Hendrickson a new pair of gym shoes and the Tretas a couple of ping-pong players, good or otherwise. We hope you all have a happy, happy Christmas!
