Central Board Notes . . .

FLASH—The lid is off again, the uneasy calm that settled over Central Board and student politics in general showed a return on campus again. The new Trail vs. the old; a group on the campus is willing to earn money instead of beg for it; UBC challenges CPS and PLC pointly to a game of rugby. How would you like to have the SUB open in the evenings and a television set installed? Should faculty attend chapel? And last but not least, is convocation here to stay?

This week we covered Central Board and the leadership conference held in the SUB on Tuesday evening.

The most significant thing at Central Board meeting was the unusual and abnormal request of the Spurs that they be allowed to earn money for a scholarship fund for some deserving girl. They are going to do this by various projects. They plan not to borrow it or beg it, but to honestly earn it. The fact that in this day and age some one steps up and says, "We need some money and we want to earn it by ourselves," deserves all the cooperation any one can give. The Knights also needed money but they merely inquired as to the size of their financial balance and how to get it. A motion was carried giving a 15% commission instead of 10% on all Trail advertising sold.

Tuesday night Central Board held a meeting in which the heads of all the organizations on the campus were invited, the purpose was to discuss problems which have come up during the year and to pass along some of the ideas obtained from a meeting of all the student body presidents of the Evergreen Conference schools. Central Board members were conspicuous by their absence but a good number of others were there. First on the agenda was the "new" Trail. Out of 25, there was only one vote against Doug Muir's column. Three suggested that he could tone it down but the majority felt that Doug's column is a good thing as is. The argument as to who should have how much space in the Trail, came up. This was discussed at a Trail meeting and a policy set. One person decried the poor literary style in the Trail. The question also came up as to why CPS has a lot of departments but can't have a full-fledged journalism department.

The next question asked was do we have a Student Union Building as such? Rally committee wasn't allowed to put up a sign to advertise a basketball game in the building. A committee was formed to investigate the possibility of having the SUB open in the evening, having a television set installed, having the snack bar open, and possibly a cigarette machine installed. CPS is far behind most of the other schools in the conference in this. IF YOU LIKE THESE IDEAS MAKE SOME NOISE.

There was discussion as to whether we should join a competitive Blood Drive, UBC now holds a trophy for having the highest percentage of donations. Speaking of UBC they have challenged us to a game of rugby. It was suggested that if CPS can't raise a full team we combine forces with PLC. Don't shoot, that is what they said.

The point of letting the frosh run all the student government offices for one day was brought under discussion. Most agreed it was a good idea but that was about as far as it got.

Now you may not believe this but there is a feeling that some students don't like convocation. It looks like the saying that "you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink" applies here. The school has worked out a nearly fool-proof method of making us go but they haven't made us like it. The result is that many able speakers have been downright insulted, especially at the career conference last Tuesday. This was also discussed but no answer came up.

One suggestion was made that the faculty be required to attend chapel along with us.

This week there is too much to enable me to make any comments of my own. All these are merely suggestions which are to be looked into. If you see any in there you like, write us or George Fossen and tell how you feel.

The last thing discussed was a note received by some departments in answer to a request to go Christmas caroling. No! You can have only one meeting a week.

Swayze, Cody Cop Oratory Honors . . .

Two freshmen co-eds walked off with cash awards for their winning orations in the annual Burmeister competition.

First place winner was Suzanne Swayze, and taking second place was Delores Jungert of Cottonwood, Idaho.

Fourteen women entered the contest at 1:00 p.m. on Thursday for the preliminary round. At 2:00 p.m. the following finalists were listed by "Teach" Jones: Delores Jordahl, Pat Murphy, Delores Jungert, Joan Rivisto, Bess Rutledge, Suzanne Swayze and Nadean Taylor.

In the men's division Joe Cody won first prize and Arlis Johnson took second place. Other finalists: Jerry Coultis and Jim Hicker. The men's group was reported to have had an unusually high turn-out of twenty-eight collegians. The large number necessitated two preliminary bouts before the final.

Dr. C. T. Battin, debate advisor, remarked the total of forty-four students entering the event is considered an exceptionally high number.

The competition was an all school event, open to all CPS students. For the past twenty-five years A. O. Burmeister, a Tacoma attorney, has been sponsoring the awards for the purpose of creating better public speaking. First place winners were given $20 each and the award for second place was $10.

Subjects of the orations varied from world peace to contemporary educational system. Speeches were limited to nine minutes. The following faculty members were judges in the finals: Mrs. Helen Fossum, Dr. John Phillips, Mr. Ellery Capen and Dean Register.

Brick Drive Needs Help . . .

Care to buy a brick? Here is your chance.

To raise money for a Senior Archway, "bricks" are being sold by seniors to students and Tacoma businessmen for $1 apiece or $5 for extra special "gold" ones.

The drive started Monday, December 8th and will continue until Wednesday, December 17.

The idea of a Senior Archway was conceived several years ago but the first action on the idea wasn't taken until last year when the senior class pledged $500 toward its construction.

Plans for the archway have been drawn. The building cost is estimated to be $3,000.

Dr. Thompson stated that the school would pay half the expense provided the students could raise the remaining half. This year the seniors are determined to do just that, with their goal set at $1,200.

The selling of "bricks" is the same method used successfully in raising money for the Student Union building.

According to Duane Wegner, chairman of the Senior Archway drive, the drive is doing "fairly well, but not up to expectations." It is hoped that the Arch will be completed prior to graduation in the spring.

Frosh To Sponsor Dance . . .

Sponsored by the freshman class of CPS, will be a dance scheduled in the women's gym after the CPS-Willamette basketball game on December 20.

Theme of the affair, which is to cost 35 cents per person, is "Mistletoe Magic."

Highlight of the event, which starts immediately following the basketball game, and ends at 12 midnight, will be the crowning of a "Miss Freshman" queen.

Campus Playcrafters Present . . .

Campus Playcrafters will instill the Christmas spirit through the stage presentation of Charles Dickens' immortal play, "Christmas Carol," to be given in Jones hall auditorium Friday, Dec. 19, at 11 a.m.

Come renew your acquaintance with the rasping, clutching, covetous old sinner Scrooge, played by Jack Gallagher, who displays superb acting ability in the leading role.

Working in conjunction with director Martha P. Jones and technical director Wilbur Baisinger, is the Adelphian Concert Choir, whose inspiring music will be heard in the background.

Watch for the acting of the drama department's "Wee Campus Playcrafters" which "Teach" Jones recruited for the children's roles.

David Ernst, a Frosh who showed excellent dramatic ability in the "Frosh One Act Plays" is cast in the role as Marley, a former business associate of Scrooge, who rattles his chains in an unearthly manner that promises to stir the audience to shivers.

The stage production class has contrived a most unique method in giving the ghosts in the play that distant unearthly appearance necessary for the parts.

Beginning at 4 p.m. Dec 12 the cast will start its series of seven performances to be given within the next two weeks. On Sunday, Dec. 14, at 4 p.m., they will stage the play at the annual Christmas Vesper service; then on Wed., Dec. 17 and 18 at 1:00 and 3:00 elementary schools in the local area will attend the play. Friday, Dec. 19 at 11 a.m. the playcrafters will give the final performance for the entire college.

Associated Women Students Cabinet Meeting

November 25, 1952

Joanne Lowry, AWS president, called the meeting to order.

Roll was taken and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Neon Knoebel, treasurer, had no new report on the treasury.

Fredda Lamp, Career Conference chairman, reported that most of the speakers for the conference have replied in the affirmative, and that the committee is working to fill in the vacancies. The luncheon will be on a much larger scale this year, so that expenses will have to be cut in other parts of the conference. The booklets, for instance, will all be done for twenty dollars. As for publicity, there will be one article and picture before the conference, and a follow up article after the conference.

Pictures for the Tamanawas were taken.

Ruth Klovee, Social chairman, reported that the AWS tolo will have the theme, "King of Hearts," and that all will be carried out as a take off on playing cards. The tolo committee will meet every other Thursday, unless more meetings are required.

The Spring Festival chairman will be chosen at the next meeting.

Joanne Lowry, president, gave everyone AWS constitutions, and we will discuss them next time.

Joanne Wood, Faculty chairman, sent out letters to various organizations on the campus, and to members of the faculty. She has received replies already, so that the file for chaperones and baby sitters is available now.

Since there was no other business, the meeting was adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,
Maris Anderson
AWS Secretary.

Senior Class Minutes . . .

December 5, 1952

The president, John Van Zonnanel, called the senior class meeting to order at 12:15 in J 203.

Joanne Ryan reported on the Senior Archway committee. The members of the senior class will sell red facsimile bricks at a cost of one dollar each. Gold bricks also will be available for five dollars apiece.

Small red bricks will be given to those students on campus who make a contribution. These are to be worn to show that a contribution has been made.

Joanne had divided the town into districts, which were given to the members present at the meeting, for soliciting contributions. More districts are available, so seniors are asked to see Joanne Ryan. Both she and Duane Wegner, chairmen of the committee, will carry extra bricks with them.

John Van Zonnanel and Dick Albertson matched each other for a brick to start the selling of the bricks for this main drive, which will last until December 17.

The Hatchet committee reported that the hatchet had been passed. A picture of the hatchet, drawn by Bernadine Budil, was shown to the class. It will be displayed for everyone to see.

Ruth Wallen, speaking for the Chapel committee, reported that the audience participation in chapel has been very poor. The Chapel committee works hard to get good programs but it is difficult to obtain speakers for such an unappreciative audience. Ruth added that it is too bad that the students have to be reminded about such a thing.

The senior sneak co-chairmen have been appointed, but their names will be kept secret.

All seniors who have not had their pictures taken for the Tamanawas will have one last chance to do so on Dec. 10 at Richard's Studio. All seniors are urged to have their pictures taken.

A picture will be taken of the senior class officers Monday night at 7:00, in the SUB.

The meeting was adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,
Joanne Lowry,
Senior Class Secretary.

Betty Jo No. 1 . . .

Betty Jo, No. 1, is an old mine located near Fairfax, Wash., in Pierce county. For curiosity and information several of our enthusiastic geology students took a trip there. Betty Jo is on the Carbon River, about 350 feet straight up. Old loosely fallen timber is the only encouragement to climb the 90 degree angle. The climb yielded no casualties, however, and some nice samples of Malachite, Azurite, and Chalcopyrite were brought back to the lab, by freshmen students. If you like nosing around, you might have enjoyed this.

Anyone interested in learning more about the earth's wonders is welcome to come to Geology Club meetings every Wednesday noon, Howarth 307.

The Modern Foreign Language Club will meet for a Christmas party Tuesday night, December 16, 7:30 p.m., at Professor Bachimont's home. All German and Spanish students are invited for the games and refreshments. Those without transportation can contact Lawrence Jensen.

Future Teachers of America met Wednesday night, December 10, in the SUB lounge. Dave Stokesberry spoke on the recent regional meeting and then the members sang songs and enjoyed refreshments and entertainment.

A four-week course in German language, art and literature at the University of Munich will be sponsored by the University of Washington's department of Germanic Languages and Literature.

All high school graduates and present or former college students who wish to study German at first-hand are eligible to participate. The classes will meet in Munich from July 10 to August 10.

This is the third year the summer course has been sponsored by the University of Washington, in cooperation with the Students International Travel Association and the University of Munich. Dr. William H. Rey, assistant professor of German, will accompany the group.

University of Munich instructors will conduct daily classes in beginning, intermediate and advanced German and will lecture on German literature, art and drama. In addition, visits will be made to museums, theaters and nearby points of interest.

Sigma Chi...

Sigma Chi extends its congratulations to Phi Delta Theta, the new national fraternity on campus.

Three of the brothers have gone in the Army within the last three weeks. Dick Fraser, who went to the U. of W. last year, grad Ray May, and Jim Donnell. We wish these men good fortune in their new duties.

Last Monday night at the Mothers' Club annual Christmas party the Sigs were presented some much needed kitchen utensils and a new davenport. We all had a good time and so did Mom and Pop.

Delta Delta Delta...

January 10th is the date the Tri Deltas have chosen to be hostesses at the Christian Service Men's Center.

Congratulations to Vicky Kerr and Wally Erwin who announced their pinning last week, and to Barbara Hill who announced her engagement to Dick Carlson. After the announcement the girls went over to Todd Hall and serenaded Dick and from there went to sing to all the fraternities.

White Christmas trees and gay ornaments will adorn the Fircrest Golf and Country Club tomorrow night for the annual Tri Delta-Sigma Nu dance, "Christmas Capers."

Gifts were exchanged at the Pine party Monday night at the home of Jan Jacot. Everything from a bugle to a scarf was received.

Burtine Beal has been chosen Rush chairman for the ensuing year.

This year the Trideltas are preparing a basket of food to be given to a needy family during the holidays. DeDe Burns is chairman of this project.

Suzy Swayze was a winner of the oratorical contest.

The Mothers' club Christmas gift to the chapter was a new card table for the room.

Theta Chi...

The final plans for the pledge class dance were presented to the membership last Monday. The theme will be "Ship Wrecked," and the members were asked to come in costume.

Pledges Duane Swanson and Gene Lancaster have left school to enter the Air Force.

The membership of Theta Chi will entertain their parents at an open house the 18th of December at our annual Christmas party.

Lambdas...

It's becoming a tradition—last year it was ghosts at Halloween—this year it's St. Nick at Christmas—and always, it's the Lambda members as kidnapers. Each member "kidnapped" her little sister by stuffing her head in a Santa Claus paper bag, and after a long mysterious ride, the Lambdas arrived at the home of the Coulters for a potluck dinner in honor of the pledges.

During the meeting, a knock at the door brought the newly installed Phi Deltas who serenaded the Lambdas and presented them with six white carnations, the national flower of the Phi Deltas.

Sunday, the Lambdas went as a group to the First Congregational Church service, and afterwards, everyone enjoyed a smorgasbord at Steve's in South Tacoma.

Delta Alpha Gamma...

Gammas are planning their annual Christmas party at Margaret Heinrich's house next Sunday evening. Chocolate waffles will be served. After the party, all will attend an evening service at St. Luke's.

Passing chocolates was Nadine Johnstone, in celebration of her engagement to Bud Stenger, U.S.N.

Congratulations go to Delores Jordahl who won the inter-sorority extemporaneous speech contest.

After serenading the Phi Deltas Monday we presented them with a set of door chimes.

GREEKS

Pi Beta Phi . . .

The Phi Phis enjoyed a lovely box of chocolates from Joanna Wilson announcing her engagement to Willis Peacock while Pat Murphy treated the members to bubble gum to tell of her pinning to Bruce Jorgenson. Congratulations, girls.

After the meeting last Monday night, the girls were entertained at a fireside in the new SAE house, which incidentally, the girls voted as being very nice in design and decorations.

The new assistant historian will be Robin Enschede, elected at our last meeting.

In keeping with the holiday season, the Pi Phis attended church together last Sunday.

The present proud wearer of the "Girl of the Week" bracelet presented by the pledges is Donna Rockway.

Sigma Nu . . .

Bruce Jorgenson and Willie Peacock surprised everybody during our last meeting. Bruce was passing cigars and announcing that he was pinned to Pat Murphy, and Willie by announcing his engagement to Joanna Wilson. It was a delicious cake.

The Sigma Nu bowling teams should be congratulated. The "A" team took first and will keep the trophy won last year. The "B" team took a second place.

The annual Tri Delta-Sigma Nu Christmas dance will be held tomorrow night at the Fircrest Golf and Country Club. It will be a semi-formal affair.

On December 18th there will be a big Christmas dinner at the house for the alumni, members, and pledges.

Phi Delta Theta . . .

Last Saturday afternoon, 62 new members were granted a charter as the Washington Delta chapter of Phi Delta Theta, while at formal pledging ceremonies Friday night, 16 men received their blue and white Phiekia buttons.

Climaxing the very busy weekend was the Inaugural Dinner Dance at the Tacoma Country Club. Chairman of the affair was George Pearson. Sixteen Phi Deltas from chapters in Pi Province were our guests.

Sunday, December 14, is the date chosen for the under privileged children's Christmas party. The Mothers' Club is cooking a turkey dinner and the whole chapter is procuring and wrapping gifts this week for the 20 children who will be our guests. The party is under the direction of Walt Warne.

SAE . . .

A fireside was held with the Pi Phis last Monday night. During the brief intermission a gift of a smoking stand was presented to the SAE's. The stand was much needed and appreciated.

Many guests crowded the SAE's new house a week ago Thursday when a housewarming was given. The SAE's wish to thank the many organizations which came and gave various gifts to the new house.

Work is still progressing on the house and it is hoped that the main floor will be finished right after Christmas.

Indee News, Views And Cues . . .

The big Indee news of the week is tonight's Christmas party at Bob Dunn's rambling beach home on Butler's Cove, Olympia. Decorations, eats and spirit will be abundant with Yuletide flavor. In tribute, here's this week's Indee rhyme:

When we go with Dunn

For a Christmas party,

We'll have loads of fun

And all eat hearty.

Our entertainment will be games and dancing,

With the bay to swim in

If it suits your fancy.

And of course—for the bashful beau

There's always good old mistletoe!

We'll let you become a bold Indee,

If you don't belong to a fraternity.

Instead of the regularly scheduled ruckus (commonly called a meeting) next Monday, we will carol the nearby hospitals and convalescent homes, leaving the SUB promptly at 7:00 o'clock.

It is by activities such as this that we hope to fulfill the main objective of our organization—to promote the name and reputation of CPS in the public eye so the city of Tacoma will be proud of our college. This is a Christian institution and the only way to let people know, is by good, clean, moral activities.

The Indees are trying to increase their finances by doing odd jobs around the campus. For any department needing help, we will certainly be willing to pitch in!

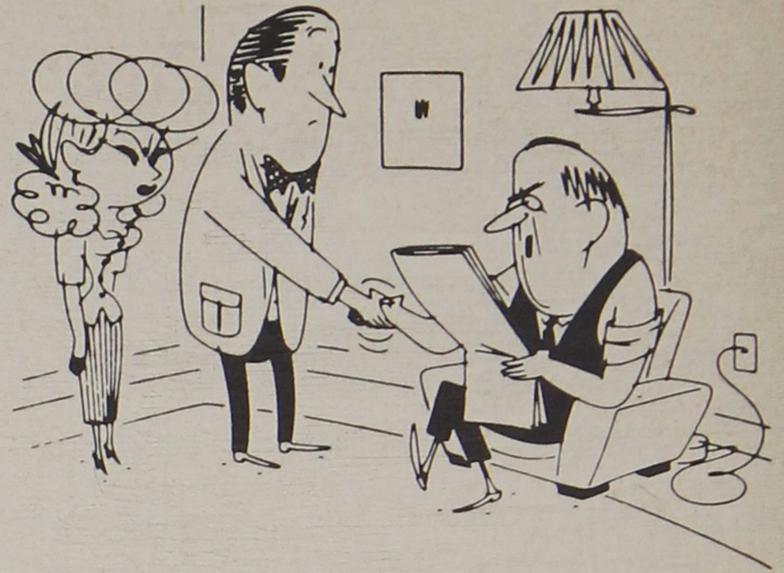

Remember, next week's meeting starts at 7:00.

DOUG MUIR

One of the signs of the coming holiday season is the fragrance of freshly cut cedar, dripping pine pitch, and moth eaten long johns. The yuletide season seems to draw all the women downtown shopping. Some of the girls are capable of luring an unfortunate male along to drag through the local wallet-draining emporiums. It is amazing to note the number of extra employees needed for the Christmas madhouse. At this time throngs of CPS students flock to the greedy purveyors of merchandise, all eager to pace some sales floor. They look in vain for some simple jerk, so they may ring up a few greenbacks. Several merchants promote bigger sales from the female temporary employees by supplying them with sample products to use on themselves. This goes over big in perfume and cosmetic departments, where the stench of cheap coral No. 5 lures the budget conscious buyer to his doom.

Not everyone is so fortunate as to work during this gala vacation period; some of the more outdoor-minded students roll up a sleeping bag, throw a pal and supernumerary chaperone in their car and head for the snow country. (Naturally the chaperone winds up drinking all the ale. These skiers have a pretty fair average for returning in safe and sane condition, all ready for the new year's grind. Some of the results of a few of these parties are just liable to make the new year one of great expectation. Such is life.

The Trail magazine is coming out next week with its rah-rah Xmas issue, full of pseudo-journalism, and of course that affable column, Campus By-Line. Next week's text will be devoted to some saucy irony on Christmas Capers at CPS. Sounds like the heading of a M.A.'s thesis on Cultivating Cuban Chrysanthemums, doesn't it? We'll cram the thing full of the usual weighty trash. In the meantime, while you are waiting for the beginning of the big vacation, polish up that gold plated Tom & Jerry cup and stir up a little holiday cheer. This is no time for amber-colored hops.

The administration is busy in their own right, throwing lavish parties behind locked doors. The biggest problem encountered by this pitied group is the upkeep of their propaganda machine. This is the system which leads people to believe college professors are really nice people! An excellent example of this is a recent quotation by a certain college president that he did not have a wine cellar in his basement. This is quite true. It is both below the dignity and prestige of a institutional president to keep large barrels of vintage. Rumors are that there is nothing in the basement but a small distillery.

I am already labeled a psychopathic, spaniel-eyed journalism student by certain members of the iron hand. The Trail staff tries desperately to keep the paper out of the administration's hands, but they are getting far too wise for us. Now, they congregate around the huge presses eagerly awaiting the first copy to roll off. Dr. Battin held up production a half hour last week when his tie was caught in the gears.

Being so criticized on lack of intellectual appeal in my compositions, I have spent the last week in several of the finest libraries on the coast, and have managed to unearth some material to astound the most meticulous of the intelligentsia. The evidence of my extensive research is this week's Trail cover. Incidentally, it was stolen from an old college humor magazine, later to be published in Vol. XI of "Miriads of Gythranus."

Each week it becomes more difficult to slip a bit of spice triumphantly through an editorial barrier usually inclined to keep the magazine clean. The Trail is and always will be a clean magazine, however, so I hope all the campus holier-than-thou's can manage to control themselves to the point where they don't blow a gasket. Why not form a little club where everyone could sit around crocheting lace doilies? Also, for an additional pleasure we could publish another little magazine. We won't forget to include crayons when we pass them out, so everyone can color the pages.

Chinook Ski Program . . .

Explaining the College of Puget Sound's ski-school program next semester will be Mrs. Shirley Fopp. She will speak at the Chinook Club's January 7 meeting at 4 p.m. in Howarth 215, so disclosed Duane Wegner, president of the organization.

Winner of the 1942 national championship and a first in downhill slalom, and combined races of the 1942 Far West Kandahar, Mrs. Fopp has been a ski instructor at CPS since 1949. Martin Fopp, her husband, gives ski instruction also for students enrolled in the program.

Chairman of the ski school indoctrination program is Chinook member Delores Jordahl. All students interested in the program are urged to attend the meeting.

At the last meeting Chinook members were shown three movies on skiing.

CPS Blood Pool At Low Point . . .

During June of last summer, Terry Tate, member of the CPS chapter of Sigma Nu fraternity, found it necessary to have a lung operation which called for the use of several pints of blood plasma. Terry was able to draw sufficient plasma from the CPS blood bank. This was due to the generous giving of his fellow students here at the College of Puget Sound.

Terry is not the only one who, in an emergency, has been able to draw from our blood bank. On the average of one person each month makes use of it.

At present, the pool is down to 18 pints . . . a pitiful amount considering the number of students who may wish to draw upon it in an emergency.

Students desiring to contribute a pint of their own blood to help their fellow students . . . and perhaps themselves . . . may do so by contacting the blood bank at 1211 So. 12th. Appointments may be made by phoning FULTON 2553.

By telling them that you are from the College of Puget Sound and wish to donate blood to the CPS blood bank you will insure someone the help he or she may need.

"Say, pop, did you go to Sunday school when you were a little boy?"

"Yes, son—regularly!"

"I'll bet it won't do me any good, either!"

SPORTS

Loggers Capture UBC Totem Pole . . .

CPS won UBC's annual invitational basketball tournament at Vancouver last weekend and brought home a classy totem pole as a trophy. It is not The Totem pole, but it is a totem pole.

The Loggers gained Saturday night's final round with a 59-51 win over the defending champions, Western Washington, in the Friday night opener, while the amateur Eilers won from PBC by a 67-58 score.

In the final round the Loggers defeated the Eilers 77-67 to capture the invitational crown and replace Western Washington as UBC invitational titleholders.

Jake Maberry was the big gun in the Friday night encounter, connecting for seven field goals and seven free throws for a total of 21, but Jake missed four of his charity tosses to lower his foul shooting average somewhat. Guard Bill Medin was second high with 13 points.

In the Saturday night final against the Eilers, Dan Inveen was the shining light, scoring 20 points for high point honors and monopolizing the ball off both backboards. Captain Jake Maberry picked up 18 points, including four for four at the free throw line. Warren Moyles contributed 16 points to the Loggers' winning cause.

Sigma Nu, Kappa Sigs Cop Bowling Crowns . . .

Men's intramural bowling was held last week as the college organizations scattered pins all over the Sixth Ave. alleys.

Sigma Nu came through with the "A" league championship. Anderson, Clapper, Jorgenson, Klint and Erwin combined to pick up the winning total of 4473 pins. They were followed closely by the Sigma Chi's Graham, Torgerson, Chaney, Storman and Fish who picked up a 4433 series.

Paul Fish was the individual stand out in this section as he copped high series honors with 1172 pins and came through with a 223 game to lead in that department, as well.

In the "B" league the Kappa Sigs came from behind on the final day to bypass the Sigma Nus, 4757 to 4557 pins. The Kappa Sigs combine of Annas, Schweinler, Olsen, Wilson and Espeland picked up the high game of both leagues with 904 pins. Members of the Sigma Nu's runner up team were Garry Johnson, Minard, Kraabel, Goff, McGee, and Burglin.

Ed Annas came up with 1047 pins in six lines to secure the league's individual series title for the second year in a row. Annas and Dick Kraabel tied for game honors with both men picking up 209 pins.

During the last month quite a bit of interest has come up over the prospects of wrestling competition. If enough interest is shown in this sport there is a possibility of match sometime during the spring. Anyone interested in wrestling should contact Jim Nelson or Don Boesel.

Evergreen Conference Dissension . . .

A drop in enrollment, caused by the Korean war, brought schools of the Evergreen conference together in 1950 to determine means of cutting athletic experience. It was decided that savings could be made by banning costly scouting and photographing of games, by cutting squad limits in football from 30 to 25 and in basketball from 15 to 10, and by opening the basketball season 15 days later. These policies were adopted by the conference and an estimated $3,000 savings per school per year was accomplished.

Last month, in a similar Evergreen conference meeting in Spokane, conference members, with the exceptions of CPS and PLC, voted to rescind these rules passed in 1950, despite the fact that the conditions which caused such rules to be adopted in 1950 still exist.

Representatives of CPS and PLC met last Thursday to discuss these developments. It was decided that a letter would be sent to Evergreen Conference President Ted Karl with a request that additional copies be sent to presidents of all member schools of the conference asking that a special meeting be called to reconsider last month's vote.

Representatives of CPS and PLC feel that the special meeting would be justified because a policy change such as an added $3,000 to athletic expenditures should be more carefully examined and the administrations of all schools concerned should be fully acquainted with the consequences of such action.

Loggers Over PLC For 6th in a Row . . .

The CPS cagers scored a 51-47 decision over their cross-town rivals from PLC Wednesday night at the Logger fieldhouse in a game which featured aggressive defensive play by both teams. This ran CPS's victory string to six games without a loss.

CPS started the scoring with a two pointer from the side by Warren Moyles and retained a narrow lead throughout the first quarter, ending the quarter with a 16-10 advantage.

During the second quarter the Loggers slowly increased their lead, mainly on the scoring efforts of Maberry and Wilkerson. The Loggers possessed a 9-point advantage shortly before the half ended, but two quick field goals by PLC's Krejci narrowed the gap to five points and the half ended with CPS leading by a 28-23 count.

The close-checking Lutes limited the Loggers to one field goal during the entire third quarter. Midway through the quarter the Lutes forged ahead 34-33 on a two-pointer by Krejci, but Tiessen scored from the field shortly thereafter to put the Loggers back in front. The score was tied again at 35 all, and the quarter ended with CPS clinging to a narrow 37-35 lead.

In the thrill-packed final stanza the Lutes twice tied the score, but were never able to pull ahead. There was never more than a four-point difference between the two teams during the final quarter. With CPS leading 47-45, and with only seconds left to play, CPS lost the ball on a bad pass, but a Lute shot would not stay in the basket and shortly after Maberry scored two more foul shots to increase the Logger lead to 49-45 with only 25 seconds of play remaining. A field goal by PLC's Norquist and two more foul shots by Maberry in the final seconds ended the scoring with the final score CPS 51, PLC 47.

Accuracy at the free throw line was a decisive factor in the Logger victory. Of Maberry's 26 points, 16 were scored from the foul line. Maberry hit six free throws in the last 1½ minutes of the game, a time when six points was a lot of points. CPS outscored PLC 21 points to 11 from the free throw line.

Maberry was high point man for the Loggers with 26 points with the rest of the Logger scoring distributed evenly. Nordquist was high for the Lutes with 10 points.
